

THI-SHOW TRANSCRIPT 2020-08-06

As Pelosi goes into more incomprehensible babble as well as slurred speech patterns, and the DNC are now recommending that Joe Biden does not engage Mr. Trump in debates, with Ann formerly known as Hillary Clinton and Alexandre Ocasio Cortez the paid actor who could speak now rendered mute, coincidentally since we exposed her on our show. One wonders who does or can speak for the Democratic Party these days? The Speaker of the House who can't speak and a game show host as the President is what non American people are thinking, and looking on in bewilderment, regardless of where Trump stands in the game. Trump promised much and in my opinion is yet to deliver, despite extensive help and support via the Trust team. As more and more of our stories and narrative enters the MSM, there was 3 from the last show alone, and they try to spin it in a different way, the push back against the system is now reaching very pleasing proportions. Finally the people are beginning to take note and wake up, predictably they are aware of it and so they needed an event to distract, was that event Beirut? a staggering explosion that has the hallmarks of dark forces ensconced in that region, time will tell. The key now is to keep pushing them back, they are not anywhere near as powerful as they are made out to be or were. We don't want their lockdowns, we don't want their 80% false positives testing kits which goes directly into your brain, we don't want their technology based vaccines either. We want a The Peoples Club based world, that is all about cooperating with each other, caring and sharing, looking after each other, with need not greed, an end to ownership and all sharing the proceeds, a world, the governments, the military, the agencies all acting for and by the people. Their world is collapsing around them, and it is up to us to replace their sad, death laden decaying world and build a new one. You have heard our ideas, ideals and proposals Mr. Trump, now where is your actions on them? As warned in the last show things would start to ramp up and it has in just a week, and for us it is all about the balance, 45/55 essential now.

Hope you all enjoyed the detailed and fairly powerful must listen to show last weekend called World Hegemony, it was an important topic to cover in that detail, more of those types of shows will follow shortly, there is another 4-5 in the making. The interview I did with THI Germany is now ready and will be posted shortly. The Zoom call with me will likely be the weekend after next and will be open to all members globally, essentially that is a celebration of THI and how far we have all come, too often we focus on what we have lost or not done, and will be a timely reminder during that call. I want all members to come on and talk about how THI has changed them and their lives, it should be an inspiring call for us all.

GOOD NEWS: The US Federal government in collaboration with Yale University held clinical trials to determine what the best messaging would be to persuade Americans to take the COVID-19 vaccine when it is ready. The news of this study does show an interest in finding the best way to persuade people into an ideal decision for the Federal government, and likely vaccine makers, and it also shows that a mandatory vaccine campaign may still be the plan B down the road, as opposed to plan A. That piece says it all.

Americans' trust in the media to report news honestly continues to spiral downward, as 86 percent of respondents in a new Knight Foundation/Gallup poll say they see either "a great deal" or "a fair amount" of political bias. The ratio of people who see at least a fair amount of bias in the way news is covered, has increased by 25 percentage points during the Obama and Trump presidencies, as it stood at 62 percent in 2007, the poll released Tuesday showed. Eighty-four percent of respondents blame the media for political divisions in the country, and 49 percent said news coverage has a great deal of bias. "Most Americans have lost confidence in the media to deliver the news objectively," Knight Foundation Senior Vice President Sam Gill said. "This is corrosive for our democracy." The survey of 20,000 Americans also showed that respondents believe the biased and erroneous reporting is by design. Seventy-four percent believe that media company owners are influencing news coverage, while 54 percent said inaccuracies are reported on purpose. Twenty-eight percent said reporters make up their stories entirely. Supporters of both major political parties – 94 percent of Republicans and 78 percent of Democrats – largely agree that there's at least a fair amount of bias. But Republicans are more bothered by the unbalanced reporting, with 75 percent having an unfavorable view of the media. Only 22 percent of Democrats have an unfavorable view. This is why they created factcheckers for the alt media, because we are the news, it is a massive victory over the CIA scripted and biased MSM.

Some good news in the fight against coronavirus. A vaccine trial in Novosibirsk has reported that none of its participants have suffered side effects. Meanwhile, a new Russian medicine appears to be effective against Covid-19. All volunteers inoculated by the Vector State Research Center of Virology and Biotechnology, in the Siberian capital, are in good health, it was announced on Tuesday. Shortly afterwards, Russian medics revealed the results of the pilot part of phases two and three of clinical trials of Avifavir, a domestic favipiravir-based drug capable of suppressing the coronavirus. Avifavir accelerated the removal of the coronavirus from the body in more than half of the patients involved, and caused no serious side effects, the scientists wrote in their article published in the medRxiv electronic library. "The pilot part of our randomized and open clinical trials demonstrated that Avifavir possesses rapid antiviral action. It eliminated the virus in four days in 62.5 percent of patients. Soon, we will study how different dosages influence the rate of recovery," the researchers explained. In the vaccine testing trial, three volunteers out of five have already been inoculated, the fourth will be vaccinated on August 5. The volunteers remain under constant medical observation and, so far, no situations requiring medical intervention have arisen. The five volunteers, aged 18 to 30, are participating in the first stage of the clinical trials, they enter the study in turns, in a 'stop-time' regime with 72-hour intervals.

More good news and refreshing to see young people are getting it and staying away from bot behavior. My daughter made this post: Damn, I remember when more liberal and conservative leaning folks could still actually kinda converse and mingle, at least more than now. Actual conversations slowly became radio silence. I know how to talk to almost anyone about pretty much anything, because I was raised to keep an open mind, and to at least try and listen to other people and understand them! Now all I see is people deleting any comments they don't like, and otherwise trying to only be exposed to things they agree with, and people who speak act like they do. Not only does this division hinder growth, it actively makes us as a population easier to control. If a comment I took a few minutes out of my day to write in a polite way gets deleted because it doesn't match all the other "OMG I AGREE!" and the rest of the scripted rhetoric, then clearly the point being argued must be flimsy enough to make one uncomfortable if questions are asked. Other minds must be shut down for their "negativity." I don't want it to, but the word hivemind keeps coming to me. But that might be an insult to the bees. Just gonna keep doing my own thing and help as many people as I can, because either folks are looking for an argument for the sake of it, or refuse to have any healthy discourse or disagreement at all. Either way leads to no progress. We can hate people all we want. Not much gets done without real conversation, and what disconcerts me is people seem increasingly incapable of having it. They would rather have bite-sized versions of the truth or absolutely nobody saying anything unless it fits into their ideas. This is what scares me about what is happening in America. because even though history is one of my weaker subjects, its not hard to see the fascism rising like an abcess in our country. And even though it hurts and frightens me to see it, I'm still going to keep talking, listening, and trying. I will never see hate, ignorance and disconnection from humanity as normal or tolerable. Fantastic piece and observation, and well done to that young girl. But I want to draw attention to the line in it " They would rather have bite-sized versions of the truth", a bite sized piece of the narrative is called a tweet, when that word is repeated 3 times it becomes a mind control trigger for the MK Ultra program, oops another of their hidden intentions outed.

A society obsessed with health is a sure sign of sickness, the commands coming down from on high are increasing in their absurdity. Face shields and goggles are next, but there is absolutely zero evidence that any of them work. Dr Anthony Fauci, the man described as America's top infectious disease expert, about as expert as Be ill Gates, has told the American public, "If you have goggles or an eye shield, you should use it." If you have a muzzle to shut yourself up Fauci, you should use it, jackass. These are the words of a would-be tyrant, a little Napoleon who lives to boss others around while he flouts his own stupid rules. For the moment, it is only a recommendation. But the lockdown zealots at The Guardian have kicked off their pro-goggle campaign by having some intern write a fluff piece that ends with the sentence: "It won't be weird if everyone's doing it." In a week, they will have the big guns writing pro-goggle op-eds. In two, police will be fining people not wearing them. Soon, you will be compelled to wear full forensic gear inside your own home. Where will it all end? Haha the sheer desperation of these goons, Trump has fired many in his cabinet and yet this flip flopping psychopath remains, why? This latest narrative will work in our favor as it is over kill actions, remember the Operation Blackout simulation where the red team failed twice due to overkill? Those new masks they are espousing reminds me of the Thothian looking doctors, during the middle ages staged event of the plague.

Uh-oh. Today in Hollywood, CA. Q-berts stormed CNN station chanting SAVE THE CHILDREN. They made props QAnon stormed the CNN building in Hollywood to chant "Save The Children" and they DON'T mean the ones in cages at the border. Hollywood protestors stormed CNN with Pizzagate & QAnon signs - Save The Children! Years after we first announced the 900K going missing each year in America alone, now it has become a major focus on attention, I see some now are stating nearer the figure with 800K and not the isolated numbers thrown out of the alt media in the past, good to see it is being reported, and hopefully being corrected behind the scenes.

Thousands of people assembled in the German capital to rally against anti-coronavirus restrictions, describing the measures as undemocratic and a threat to freedom. Around 15,000 protesters took part in the event, dubbed 'The end of the pandemic – freedom day', according to German media, citing a police estimate. The crowd marched through downtown Berlin as they held up signs featuring slogans such as "We are being forced to wear a muzzle," "Natural defense instead of vaccination," and "We are making noise because you are stealing our freedom!" This continues and the real figure is over 1 million. But as per usual the rent a protestor brigade moved in again, spitting their racist bile whilst being racist themselves. The protest attracted a variety of activists, including right-wing elements spotted carrying Germany's imperial flag. Several small counter-protests were also held in the city. Some of the mask-clad counter-protesters held signs accusing their political opponents of harboring fascist and anti-Semitic views. You can't have a protest without bringing out the guilt and shame spellcast of fascism and anti Semitic can you, the irony is fascism was created by the Zionist establishment, oops.

Crowds protest against alleged corruption and PM's handling of coronavirus crisis. Thousands of demonstrators took to the streets outside Benjamin Netanyahu's house over the weekend in what appeared to be the largest protest to date calling for the embattled Israeli prime minister to resign. Rallies on Saturday night and into the early hours of Sunday morning were held in Jerusalem, home to the official residence of the 70-year-old leader, as well as his beach house in central Israel, near Tel Aviv, and at dozens of road intersections across the country. Throughout the summer, Israelis have packed roads and squares calling for Netanyahu to resign, protesting against his government's handling of the country's coronavirus crisis and charges of alleged corruption. At a cabinet meeting on Sunday, the visibly frustrated leader accused what he said was a "one-sided" news media of supporting the movement against him. Haha one sided news coming from an Israeli Premier - oh dear the irony of that statement. "These demonstrations are fuelled by a media mobilisation, the likes of which I don't remember before," he told ministers. "They are encouraged, allowed to paralyse neighbourhoods and block roads, in stark contrast to everything that was accepted in the past." He added: "They do not report the demonstrations - they participate in them. They add fuel." Later on Sunday, a Jerusalem court ruled that the prime minister's son, Yair, 28, must remove a tweet that published names, addresses and phone numbers of protesters and called for people to demonstrate outside their homes. The court also said he must refrain from harassing the protesters - some of whom said they had received threatening calls - for six months. "Turns out that in our democracy you aren't allowed to protest outside the homes of anarchists who have called to for the prime minister's murder," Yair tweeted after the ruling. While Netanyahu has attempted to downplay and discredit the protest movement, it shows little sign of abating, with gatherings peaking at the start and end of the country's weekend on Thursdays and Saturdays. Hebrew media speculated that at least 10,000 people demonstrated in central Jerusalem on Saturday night, although it was hard to gauge the true size of the protest at a normally busy intersection. Thousands marched through the streets, waving Israeli flags and blowing on horns. Others held banners that said "crime minister" and "go to prison". The local Black Flag movement, which has spearheaded the push for Netanyahu to resign and held protests for months, called the gathering an "unprecedented event". In a statement, it said those who flooded into Jerusalem "are not willing to accept the situation where a criminal defendant is crushing the dream upon which this country was established." That last statement is where the Israeli people need to wake up, the country was established as a military base for attacks on neighboring countries and to also loot their resources. Forget the bible rhetoric it is all bs, there was never a country called Israel, only a control based House that came out of Egypt and previously India. But I am pleased the people there are waking up and fighting back, they have been used as pawns for too long. My advice to the protestors is, and the quickest way to show unity and go against the system of oppression is, go hug a Palestinian, you have both been a set up by an international conglomerate immersed in a one world government plan for Jerusalem, that has nothing to do with religion or books. #hugapalestinian

When International Court of Justice (ICC) Prosecutor, Fatou Bensouda, confirmed last December that the Court has ample evidence to pursue a war crimes investigation in occupied Palestine, the Israeli government responded with the usual rhetoric, accusing the international community of bias and insisting on Israel's 'right to defend itself.'

Beneath the platitudes and typical Israeli discourse, the Israeli government knew too well that an ICC investigation into war crimes in Palestine could be quite costly, an investigation, in itself, represents an indictment of sorts. If Israeli individuals were to be indicted for war crimes, that is a different story, as it becomes a legal obligation of ICC members to apprehend the criminals and hand them over to the Court. Israel remained publicly composed, even after Bensouda, last April, elaborated on her December decision with a 60-page legal report, titled: "Situation in the State of Palestine: Prosecution Response to the Observations of Amici Curiae, Legal Representatives of Victims, and States." In the report, the ICC addressed many of the questions, doubts and reports submitted or raised in the four months that followed her earlier decision. Countries such as Germany and Austria, among others, had used their position as amici curiae — 'friends of the court' — to question the ICC jurisdiction and the status of Palestine as a country. Questioning the status of Palestine as a country, I guess the guilt and shame program on those countries still runs deep, or just controlled by the same Zionists. Bensouda insisted that "the Prosecutor is satisfied that there is a reasonable basis to initiate an investigation into the situation in Palestine under article 53(1) of the Rome Statute, and that the scope of the Court's territorial jurisdiction comprises the West Bank, including East Jerusalem, and Gaza ("Occupied Palestinian Territory")." However, Bensouda did not provide definitive timelines to the investigation; instead, she requested that the ICC'S Pre-Trial Chamber "confirm the scope of the Court's territorial jurisdiction in Palestine," an additional step that is hardly required since the State of Palestine, a signatory of the Rome Statute, is the one that actually referred the case directly to the Prosecutor's office. The April report, in particular, was the wake-up call for Tel Aviv. Between the initial decision in December till the release of the latter report, Israel lobbied on many fronts, enlisting the help of ICC members and recruiting its greatest benefactor, Washington - which is not an ICC member - to bully the Court so it may reverse its decision. No change there then, DC has also vetoed anything against Israel, the question is why? On May 15, US Secretary of Deep State, Mike Pompeo, warned the ICC against pursuing the investigation, targeting Bensouda, in particular, for her decision to hold war criminals in Palestine accountable. The US slapped unprecedented sanctions against the ICC on June 11, with President Donald Trump issuing an 'executive order' that authorizes the freezing of assets and a travel ban against ICC officials and their families. The order also allows for the punishing of other individuals or entities that assist the ICC in its investigation. That decision does not sit well with the Qanons or Trump's supporters, and the accusations he is pro Zionist. Washington's decision to carry out punitive measures against the very Court that was established for the sole purpose of holding war criminals accountable is both outrageous and abhorrent. It also exposes Washington's hypocrisy — the country that claims to defend human rights is attempting to prevent legal accountability by those who have violated human rights. Upon its failure to halt the ICC legal procedures regarding its investigation of war crimes, Israel began to prepare for the worst. On July 15, Israeli daily newspaper, Haaretz, reported about a 'secret list' that was drawn up by the Israeli government. The list includes "between 200 and 300 officials", ranging from politicians to military and intelligence officials, who are subject to arrest abroad, should the ICC officially open the war crimes investigation. Names begin at the top of the Israeli political pyramid, among them Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and his current coalition partner, Benny Gantz. The sheer number of Israeli officials on the list is indicative of the scope of the ICC's investigation, and somehow is a self-indictment, as the names include former Israeli Defense Ministers — Moshe Ya'alon, Avigdor Lieberman and Naftali Bennett; current and former army chiefs of staffs — Aviv Kochavi, Benny Gantz and Gadi Eisenkot and current and former heads of internal intelligence, the Shin Bet — Nadav Argaman and Yoram Cohen. I wonder how many out of Mossad and the 8200 Unit are on the list? Respected international human rights organizations have already, repeatedly, accused all these individuals of serious human rights abuses during Israel's lethal wars on the besieged Gaza Strip, starting with the so-called 'Operation Cast Lead' in 2008-9. But the list is far more extensive, as it covers "people in much more junior positions, including lower-ranking military officers and, perhaps, even officials involved in issuing various types of permits to settlements and settlement outposts." Israel, thus, fully appreciates the fact that the international community still insists that the construction of illegal colonies in occupied Palestine, the ethnic cleansing of Palestinians and the transfer of Israeli citizens to occupied land are all inadmissible under international law and tantamount to war crimes. Netanyahu must be disappointed to learn, that all of Washington's concessions to Israel under Trump's presidency have failed to alter the position of the international community, and the applicability of international law in any way. Furthermore, it would not be an exaggeration to argue that Tel Aviv's postponement of its plan to illegally annex nearly a third of the West Bank is directly linked to the ICC's investigation, for the annexation would have completely thwarted Israel's friends' efforts aimed at preventing the investigation from ever taking place. While the whole world, especially Palestinians, Arabs and their allies, still anxiously await the final decision by the Pre-Trial Chamber, Israel will continue its overt and covert campaign to intimidate the ICC and any other entity that aims to expose Israeli war crimes and to try Israeli war criminals. Washington, too, will continue to strive to ensure Netanyahu, Gantz, and the "200 to 300" other Israeli officials never see their day in court. However, the fact that a "secret list" exists is an indication that Tel Aviv understands that this era is different and that international law, which has failed Palestinians for over 70 years, may for once deliver, however small, a measure of justice. The great question about this article is, why American and several other countries bend over and take it up the jacksie, when decisions based on Israel are made, by my reckoning America has vetoed every UN resolution filed against that country, and it is time the people demanded an answer as to why.

I am often asked on my opinion of Trump, and I will always go on what I know in private and certain evidences now in the public arena. I give my opinion on what is he doing for and by the people, unlike most others on the internet who are immersed in faction biased reporting, including at this stage the Q group, I will be delighted to be proven wrong on that, but even if I went along with the Q plan, I will always raise concerns and questions when things don't appear to be benefiting we the people. That is the top and bottom line of this group, it is not connected to any organization, former or current control based systems and groups, it operates solely as a platform for and by the people, of all colors, cultures, countries and even religions, despite my opinions on those programs. I will support anyone who is doing the right things for and by the people of any country, if not I will say so, as a duty to the people. To all the people who are fighting this global skullduggery, we thank you, to the ones sitting on the fence it is time to honor this song.

Los Angeles City Councilman Jose Huizar, who was arrested and charged with racketeering last month in an ongoing pay-to-play probe, now faces additional charges including bribery and money laundering, federal prosecutors announced Thursday. The new charges were included in a 34-count grand jury indictment expanding on earlier allegations that Huizar headed up a criminal enterprise that leveraged his power at City Hall for financial gain, aiding real estate developers who handed over bribes including cash, free flights, casino chips and other perks. The 113-page indictment also includes claims that others conspired with Huizar in the scheme, including a former deputy mayor who previously headed the Department of Building and Safety. Federal prosecutors allege that Huizar agreed to accept at least $1.5 million in illicit financial benefits. He is the fifth person to be charged in the ongoing investigation, which has netted guilty pleas from former Huizar aide George Esparza, real estate consultant George Chiang, political fundraiser Justin Jangwoo Kim and former Councilman Mitchell Englander. Chiang allegedly was part of a criminal enterprise to funnel $66,000 and lavish trips to China and Hong Kong to an L.A. councilman — believed to be Huizar — in exchange for approval of an 80,000-square foot commercial project and other downtown developments. The indictment alleges that Huizar tried to cover up the illicit money in several ways, including guiding his aide on how to avoid bank reporting requirements and using family members to launder hundreds of thousands of dollars in bribes. It also alleges that he made false statements to federal prosecutors and the FBI. Huizar, 51, is scheduled to be arraigned Monday. Attorneys for the councilman have previously stated that Huizar “intends to respond to the government’s allegations in court.” He is now being represented by attorneys from the Federal Public Defender, one of whom declined to comment Thursday. Adds to the claim made by this show that California was sold to the Chinese consortium a few years back doesn't it? The reality is the Asian greed based clowns own most of the west coast and in particular Vancouver.

Iran has nabbed the alleged ringleader of a group of Iranian exiles in California accused of carrying out terrorist attacks against the Islamic Republic, the country’s ministry of intelligence announced. The leader of Tondar (Persian for ‘thunder’), identified as Jamshid Sharmahd, was captured in an intelligence operation, state media reported on Saturday. The US-based group seeks the overthrow of the Iranian government and the return of the country's monarchy that ruled the country prior to the Revolution and the fall of the Shah in 1979. Sarmahd was apprehended while "leading armed and sabotage operations inside Iran," AFP reported, citing a government statement. It's not clear under what circumstances he was arrested. His biography on Tondar's website claims he emigrated to Los Angeles in 2003. In a statement, the Iranian Intelligence Ministry said it had dealt a "heavy and serious blow" to the group. The ministry said it would release more details about the operation at a later time. Tehran has accused Tondar of being behind a number of terrorist attacks, including a 2008 bombing of a mosque in the southern city of Shiraz, which killed 14 people and injured 202. The group reportedly took responsibility for the attack. Despite its connections to violent acts carried out on Iranian soil, Tondar is not currently listed as a terrorist group by the US State Department. Tehran claims that Tondar has been able to raise funds and organize attacks from its Los Angeles headquarters without interference from Washington. The group operates radio and television stations in which they call for the violent overthrow of the Iranian government. The US has refused requests by Tehran to shut down Tondar's operations. The arrest comes amid growing tensions between Washington and Tehran. The Trump administration has openly supported protests and other anti-government actions in Iran. Last month, Trump attorney Rudy Giuliani attended the Free Iran Global Summit, hosted by the National Council of Resistance of Iran (NCRI), which has called for the overthrow of the Iranian government. Not as clear cut as made out this piece and has a number of other angles to it. For 1. It was the CIA who installed their puppet in Iran back in 1979 and was nothing to do with Iranians 2. Khomeini is in bed with Bush, Obama and Netanyahu for the free or cheap oil deal The questions arise why are they allowed in California? Why haven't the US Government shut down Tondar's operations 3. Does the Deep State and CIA now want a new puppet and 4. Is this all a faction game?

TECHNOLOGY WARNING: Continuing with our theme of warning the public about their program of technology based control on us all, and the fact the shutdown of businesses, lockdown of the people, the overkill about the virus is all a ruse to implement new Draconian technology, likely being administered by a vaccine. Amazon wants to launch 3,236 internet-beaming satellites in an effort called Project Kuiper, which would directly compete with SpaceX's growing fleet of Starlink spacecraft. Despite heated competition, Amazon managed to trounce the opposition of its competitors and win US Federal Communications Commission approval to deploy Kuiper in space. SpaceX's Starlink project appears to be years ahead of Amazon's Kuiper, having already launched hundreds of satellites and started a beta test program for consumers. However, Amazon has committed to invest "more than $10 billion" to realize Kuiper and blanket Earth with affordable web access. Amazon is part of the super billionaires club mentioned as the takeover of the planet group in Clowns in Panic show is real reason why. Amazon, founded by Jeff Bezos in 1995, just claimed a major victory by getting regulatory approval to create Kuiper, a planned fleet or constellation of 3,236 of internet-beaming satellites. If realized, Kuiper would compete with Starlink, a similar yet potentially much larger fleet of 12,000 to 42,000 satellites — many times the number of spacecraft humanity has ever launched — being formed by SpaceX, the aerospace company founded by Elon Musk. On Wednesday, the FCC's five commissioners unanimously voted to permit Amazon to launch its Kuiper fleet into space and communicate with Earth-based antennas, giving the project the paperwork it needs to get off the ground. "We conclude that grant of Kuiper's application would advance the public interest by authorizing a system designed to increase the availability of high-speed broadband service to consumers, government, and businesses," the FCC wrote in its order, released on July 30. In a subsequent announcement by Amazon on Thursday, the company pledged to invest "more than $10 billion" in its effort to provide "reliable, affordable broadband service to unserved and underserved communities around the world." "A project of this scale requires significant effort and resources, and, due to the nature of [low-Earth orbit] constellations, it is not the kind of initiative that can start small. You have to commit," Amazon said. That amount, incidentally, is precisely what SpaceX COO Gwynne Shotwell estimated in May 2018 as the cash it may take to complete Starlink. What is the purpose of it all? it is certainly not to benefit the people, only more greed based harvesting and technology overkill. Could the 5G towers be connected to this? Is this to roll out the free phones mentioned by Robert David Steele and their open source lets spy on everyone program?

The European Commission will carry out a full-scale probe into Google's takeover of Fitbit. The announcement follows a preliminary review, and threatens to derail the purchase of the fitness-tracking firm. It comes despite Google's offer last month to not use Fitbit's health data for ad targeting. Yes it goes way beyond ad targeting now, it is health police targeting, throw them away if you have one or sell it to a bot. Google's parent company Alphabet agreed a $2.1bn (£1.6bn) takeover of the wearable tech firm last year. However, the deal has yet to be completed. Alphabet and Google are CIA front companies, like Home Depot, RadioShack and some top chain salons. "The commission is concerned that the proposed transaction would further entrench Google's market position in the online advertising markets by increasing the already vast amount of data that Google could use for personalisation of the ads it serves and displays," the regulator said. The watchdog said its investigation should be completed by 9 December. Yes it is a case of private fund these alleged unknown start up groups, but all funnel back into Military and Agency based groups

"We may be banning TikTok," President Trump told reporters late on Friday. Then on Sunday, US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo told Fox News that action would be taken in the coming days to address "national security risks that are presented by software connected to the Chinese Communist Party", including the short-form video app. One obvious starting place would be to order Apple and Google to remove the app from their online stores. One way to address this would be to tell Apple and Google to use a "kill switch" facility they both have, which lets them remotely wipe or prevent blacklisted apps from launching. So an easier alternative might be to compel local internet service providers to block access to TikTok's servers. Microsoft has confirmed it is in talks to acquire the business in the US, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand - some internet wags have already suggested it might be called Microsoft Teams (a play on the firm's Teams service). Like the Huawei story this has all the hallmarks of faction fighting, and has little or nothing to do with China, the country, the government or her people. Trump for his part said "I will close it down on September 15 unless Microsoft or somebody else is able to buy it and work out a deal, an appropriate deal so the Treasury of the United States gets a lot of money. 1. Is that how business should be operated? and 2. does this smack of harvesting?"

Then you have this story, public is told to be against China whilst our government is blatantly funding Chinese companies. Hundreds of millions of U.S. taxpayer dollars went to Chinese companies from the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP), which was designed to help small businesses survive during the pandemic, according to a new report. A review of public PPP loan data by consultancy firm Horizon Advisory found that $192 million to $419 million in loans were given to more than 125 Chinese-owned or -invested companies operating in the United States. Many of the loans were substantial, with at least 32 Chinese-owned firms receiving more than $1 million under the program, totaling between $85 million and $180 million, it found. The recipients included Chinese state-owned enterprises, companies that supported Beijing's military development program, firms identified by the United States as national security threats, and media outlets controlled by the Chinese Communist Party (CCP), the report said. Many were based in critical industries such as aerospace, pharmaceuticals, and semiconductor manufacturing. These are sectors that the CCP has slated for aggressive development to achieve global dominance, with the goal of supplanting competitors in the United States and other countries. The report concluded that "without appropriate policy guardrails and monitoring of U.S. tax dollars intended for relief, recovery, and growth of the U.S. economy, there is a significant risk that funds will support foreign strategic rivals, namely China."

FAKE VIRUS POLICIES IMPACT: As the coronavirus infection spread across the country in February and March, it shuttered businesses and led to massive job losses. As unemployment soared, states and the federal government rolled out a medley of eviction moratorium to help people keep a roof over their heads. But those bans have already run out in 29 states and are slated to expire in more. And Friday marks the end of the federal eviction ban, which forbids evictions for renters who live in buildings with US government-backed mortgages. Emily Benfer, one of the creators of Princeton University's Eviction Lab, why is or does Princeton University with connections to the CIA have an eviction lab? that a whopping 28 million Americans could lose their homes in the coming months as these bans expire. For context, about 10 million people were evicted following the 2008 financial crisis. The American Apartment Owners Association reported equally dire findings. Around 60% of landlords said that tenants cannot make rent payments, while 80% expressed willingness to work with their tenants to come up with a solution, according to the organization. "We made it pretty clear to our landlords that people aren't just suddenly going to be able to afford to pay back everything they owe on one day. So it doesn't make sense to create a plan that isn't realistic," Alexandra Alvarado, the association's director of marketing and education, told CNBC. The association suggested a number of steps for landlords, including checking in with renters, crafting a payment plan and putting it down in writing, contacting mortgage lenders for any relief they can offer, and investigating grace periods and deferments on tax and insurance payments. Or we could have used the money sent and used to bailout the Fed to the people instead, which would have boosted the economy. "The rent itself has ripple effects for the entire community," Benfer, who is also a visiting law professor at Wake Forest University, told CNBC. "When the rent isn't paid, the mortgage isn't paid, property taxes go unpaid, employees are unpaid, conditions that needed repairs are delayed. And the entire community ends up suffering — from the school system to services that the community provides to residents." House Democrats have pushed for a $100 billion national rental assistance program. Sen. Kamala Harris (D-Calif.) is also trying to offer relief to renters and homeowners. Her housing plan would forbid evictions and foreclosures for a year and give renters 18 months to return outstanding payments, the Washington Post reported. However, neither idea has gotten very far with Republicans, the Post added.

"There are no farm murders in South Africa" according to President Cyril Ramaphosa. Only, there are, plenty of them and they continue during "lockdown." The tragic loss of life is brutal, senseless murders across rural South Africa is disturbing. Black, White, Coloured, Indian..... all victims of a climate of violence allowed to fester through intentional actions and neglect of rural security by the ruling ANC. So, lets take a THI look at Mr. Ramaphosa shall we. Ramaphosa was Nelson Mandela's choice for future president, oops Mandela who was a former Trustee in the Mariduk reign, who despite being a Trustee and had access to substantial funds did zero for the African people, never mind just South Africa. Today, Ramaphosa is well known as a businessman and has an estimated net worth of over R6.4 billion ($550 million) as of 2017, with 31 properties and previously held notable ownership in companies such as McDonald's South Africa, chair of the board for MTN Group and member of the board for Lonmin. Lonmin rose to international attention following the Marikana miners' strike in August, 2012, in which over 100 striking Lonmin employees were shot (36 killed, 78 wounded) by South African Police Service officers. During the Marikana Commission, it also emerged that Lonmin management solicited Lonmin shareholder and ANC heavyweight, Cyril Ramaphosa, to coordinate "concomitant action" against "criminal" protesters and is seen by many as therefore being responsible for the massacre. Submissions by the South African Police Service accused Lonmin of being responsible for the violence because of their failure to negotiate with striking miners. So what was the gist of the issue of that led to the deaths of many? workers at the mine were demanding a salary of just $1180 per month for working in the mines, whilst Mr. Ramaphosa had a net fortune of $550M, says it all. Controversial business dealings include acting as Chairperson for the MTN Group during the MTN Irancell scandal when a disgruntled former employee, Mr Chris Kilowan, alleged that the organisation had bribed officials in Iran, oops echoes of Israeli and American deep state shenanigans then. However the Hoffmann Commission's finding concluded: "The committee exonerated MTN and found that, Mr Kilowan who had given two statements in arbitration proceedings brought by Turkcell against the Islamic Republic of Iran, and a deposition in the United States proceedings against MTN, was in the words of the committee 'shown to be a fantasist and a conspiracy theorist. Haha conspiracy theorist oh how they loved to roll out that CIA based meme, whenever any truth is revealed. His joint venture with Glencore and allegations of benefitting illegally from coal deals with Eskom which he has staunchly denied. So, now the world knows your actions Mr. Ramaphosa and you are put on notice, all lives matter Mr. Ramaphosa.

As warned in a show last month the Melbourne lockdown of apartment blocks was the test and precursor to further measures. The Australian state of Victoria has declared a state of disaster and imposed new lockdown measures after a surge in coronavirus infections. Under the new rules, which came into effect at 18:00 (08:00 GMT), residents of the state capital Melbourne are subject to a night-time curfew, there will be further restrictions on residents' ability to leave home. Australia has been more successful than many other countries in tackling Covid-19, but cases are rising in Victoria. The state - Australia's second most populous state - now accounts for many of the country's new infections in recent weeks, prompting the return of lockdown restrictions in early July. But on Sunday Premier Daniel Andrews said the measures were working but too slowly. "We must go harder. It's the only way we'll get to the other side of this," he told reporters. The new rules will remain in place until at least 13 September.

Message received on things happening in Thailand 1. People are tired....period. 2. They are attacking the monarchy now... which normally results in arrests and a jail sentence. They have it written in their constitution that it is forbidden to criticize the monarchy. You can criticize the government though. The police did not arrest the protesters which SPEAKS VOLUMES. Tourists, expats... foreigners have been stabbed in the past for sharing personal sentiments openly about the King. But times have changed it seems. The Father died in 2016 after 70 years on the throne and his son, the only viable candidate, became King. You make your own conclusions. 3. They are attacking the government, an Army junta. Nothing new. Thailand is IN and OUT of coups these days. Nepotism of rule has been the forte in many countries for far too long, and time all people complained about it and end it, it and they have not served the people well.

So, we come to Beirut, Lebanon and what we all saw was a massive explosion that rocked the whole city and has killed at least 137 and injured over 5000 to date. An explosion so powerful it was felt 150 miles away in Cyprus, and has drawn many conclusions and possible scenarios as to how that took place. It was stated very quickly, perhaps too quickly of a large amount of ammonia nitrate being stored there from a seized Moldovan ship near 7 years ago. What is not explained is, why after 7 years was it still being held there? Was it a tactical nuclear weapon as some are suggesting? it's possible, or a DEW weapon? possible again given yet again there was an aerial vehicle flying past just before the blast. I kept an open mind whilst having reservations about one particular group who could potentially do this. But then the media stepped in with a blatant lie, they said the explosion set off a firework factory nearby and yet despite seeing several videos, there is no rockets or fireworks going off in the vicinity, as would happen should the factory go on fire or be compromised. So, why would they lie? well it means they are covering up something else, and trying to justify that level of explosion. Now ammonia nitrate is very explosive as the people near Waco Texas found out in 2013, but significantly that blast did not produce a mushroom cloud, like in Beirut. What I have found out is that in Beirut there was 2750 tons of ammonia nitrate stored, but in Texas there was 540K tons, and yet the blast in Texas, despite being 196 times more material, the blast in Texas was considerably less than the blast in Beirut. Which has to raise red flags and several questions. So, who or what can be involved here, well sometimes the most obvious answer is the right one, but not always. Israel has been at war with Lebanon since 1970's and peaked in the 1980's and has gone on ever since. In our last show we mentioned about a story of alleged Hezbollah stationed in Lebanon crossing the border into Israel, and the Israeli government warning them to not retaliate after Israel troops opened fire on them. Given there are 3 major ports along that coast, Tel Aviv and Haifa, plus Beirut, and now only the two Israeli ports are left, coincidence? Given Netanyahu in a UN meeting in 2019 outlined on the map the very same spot of the explosion of the alleged Hezbollah weapon site, all seems all too coincidental does it not? There is a video doing the rounds on social media today that is portraying a missile caused the major 2nd explosion, which may well be the case, but with CGI these days who knows. The Beirut secondary explosion has more the look of a DEW weapon of which there was a test of it in Iraq available on YT, you decide. With the world now waking up to this fake global pandemic, they always need an event to create distraction, maybe this is it? And with Netanyahu under fire from his own people and a distraction needed for that, just maybe $2+2=4$. Perhaps Mr. Melville and the Trust should reconsider sending PPE's to Israel and send them to Lebanon instead - just saying.

As we warned in the Clowns in Panic show of big mergers, which actually is big harvesting by the multi billionaire club, who think they will takeover the world, here is further evidence. 24/7 Wall St. has tracked three potentially very large mergers which were all worth coverage and which all would need some consideration. It is impossible to know what the total size of each rumored deal might be, let alone just how "real" the deals might even be, but the reported amounts are approaching $100 billion based on preliminary and other ongoing reports. There are no assurances at all that any of the rumors will come true at all, and the ultimate size of any deal which might get done could be far lower or far higher than what has been reported. ($300b banking leverage game) The merger that has been the source of ongoing rumors is the potentiality that NVIDIA Corporation (NASDAQ: NVDA) is wanting to acquire ARM from SoftBank. Whether or not this deal is even feasible need to at least be considered. After all, regulators (including China) are entering more of a cautious period about willingness to approve large multi-national mergers. If NVIDIA truly is interested, any technocrat will have to wonder if Qualcomm Inc. (NASDAQ: QCOM) would be interested as well. As a reminder, Qualcomm tried to acquire NXP Semiconductor NV (NASDAQ: NXPI) for $44 billion, but it walked away from the deal in mid-2018 after failing to win approvals from China. Another possibility would be whether or not Broadcom Inc. (NASDAQ: AVGO) would want to get in on the deal since it has been an aggressive acquirer in recent years. SoftBank has reportedly been in need of cash and selling ARM after it acquired it for $32 billion in 2016 remains to be seen whether or not it could fetch a premium or not. This rumor has been circulating for a couple weeks or more, so the it's hard to tell if any rekindled merger reports have anything new or if they are just building upon the same reports they previously had. If Qualcomm or another buyer does not emerge, there has been some reporting that ARM might be worth as much as $40 billion in a sale/divestment via an initial public offering.

A senior executive for pharmaceutical giant AstraZeneca has confirmed that his company cannot face legal action for any potential side effects caused by its Covid vaccine. Those affected will have no legal recourse. Bearing in mind that Trump sent this company a $1.2B grant of American peoples money (actually now it appears like it was the Trust money, but willing to be corrected) to push the development of this vaccine, and the people have no recourse if they get ill or die from this virus? seriously. There is something seriously wrong with this picture presented, personally Harvard and the CIA should have paid for it, given their involvement with the Wuhan Lab incident. But this can work for us, as it now has a plausible deniability clause, people can refuse now and state, I am not taking it due to there being a huge element of risk, with no recourse allowed. I am asking the legal people in the alt media to draft up a document of no recourse, no vaccine. AstraZeneca is one of 25 pharmaceutical companies worldwide already testing their Covid vaccines on humans, in preparation for injecting hundreds of millions of people. These are flush times for Britain's largest pharmaceutical company, worth something in the order of £70 million. They have just reported bumper profits of $12.6 billion in the last six months alone. So, $12.6B profits and Trump armed with the Trust funds still sends them $1.2B of our money for a foreign based company? But despite its healthy balance sheet, AstraZeneca is unwilling to be held responsible for any potential side effects of its 'hopeful' vaccine candidate. In other words, the company is completely protected, or indemnified, against lawsuits from people who are injected with their vaccine and experience negative effects, regardless of how severe or long-lasting they are. The firm's lawyers have demanded that clauses to that effect be put in their contracts with the countries AstraZeneca has agreed to supply with its Covid vaccine. The company says that, without such guarantees of indemnity, they would not be incentivised to produce the drug, and it seems most of the countries have ceded to this demand, cowardly globalist jackasses then. Ruud Dobber, a senior AstraZeneca executive, told Reuters "In the contracts we have in place, we are asking for indemnification. For most countries it is acceptable to take that risk on their shoulders because it is in their national interest". For "national interest," read "government interest." Whether what is happening is good for the actual people of vaccinated countries is, to put it very mildly, an open question. Dobber refused to name the countries which have placed orders for the firm's vaccine, although many major western democracies are likely to be on the list. The UK government has been on a vaccine spending spree, buying 250 million doses from various Big Pharma outfits. America, meanwhile, is way ahead of the curve here – they have a special legal framework in which no pharmaceutical companies face lawsuits for side effects of vaccines in case of 'public health emergencies'. This legislation, known as the PREP Act, was the product of a massive lobbying effort from the US pharmaceutical industry, and was introduced despite vigorous opposition from consumer groups. Unless the vaccine maker intentionally murders or injures you – willful misconduct – you cannot sue them. Download their indemnity and create your own based on the indemnity and you have a valid concern or excuse to refuse the vaccine.

As the UK goes into more draconian and militaristic style speech patterns of strategic, surveillance and drills. Some of their measures now defy belief and makes the authorities look like the bumbling script reading fools, we all know they are. They based their decision making on the R factor, but when pressed on what the R factor is, answers are thin on the ground. It is presumed it is the rate of infection of the virus, and now those statistics are coming down based on the mystery R factor, they are now ignoring that and basing it something else. New Draconian measures considered in the UK are a lockdown for over 50's, so it appears they are looking after the older people, which flies in the face of sending infected people into nursing homes and killing them. Manchester in full fear based lockdown now, said to be due to a spike, and here is me thinking the comedic Mr. Milligan died years ago. New tech gadgets now out all very quickly for covid testing, called the DNA nudge, which conveniently uses your DNA sample to test for the virus, really do you think we are that stupid? The tests kits they are using, which is proven to test a false positive of 80%+ are now being increased. The solution to not getting tested is, is refuse to remove your mask for fear of infection, and so then they can't do the test. Perhaps the R factor stands for retards. What this virus has ultimately shown to us all is, the word expert is a gross misnomer, the medical industry cannot give out clear or truthful information, the Governments are not fit for purpose as they battle the script based divide between the two factions, the media are shameful and shameless psychopathic liars, whose only purpose is to lie through their faked smiling teeth and create fear. Fear based programs is all they have now, the fear operation they are running now is, to cover up they have lost control of the planet, the resources, the banking, the narrative and soon, the people. Look around you and you can clearly see a world that has lost the plot, not a mild loss, but a spectacular one. The wheat and chaffe of society has all by now, been placed into nice little boxes and separated into the two worlds. Two worlds now is defined like night and day, the major category between the two is, those who can think and do for themselves and those who can't, the separation between service to others and service to self added in. Those who can't look more and more pathetic by the day, acting like children following the parents orders, in fact the sad fact is they are not acting like children, but they are children in an adult body. Some may say that statement is harsh, my reply is no it is not, just look at them and their actions following orders from the new mommy and daddy called the Government, and reveling in the fact that the Government is taking good care of them. " the Government is taking good care of them" is the greatest line of comedy ever.

So what are DNA nudges? well it is a wristband where your saliva is placed into a patented cartridge, and it collects and extracts your DNA, the data is loaded which is then stored in a capsule. Here is their spiel. When you order online we'll send you our easy-to-use cheek swab kit - it takes just a minute to use - then simply return it to us using the pre-paid envelope in the kit. You then download the App to discover your unique DNA report and DNA-personalised product recommendations, all very ancestry.com, 23 and me and other clown based harvest your DNA sites to me. So then they collect your DNA and what happens next? Of which no doubt your data is then sold to insurance companies, snake oil marketing groups and several other agencies of control and snooping, and then they decide how you should live. Don't believe me? here is the next line which they are using as a marketing tool to get you to buy it. DnaNudge uses your own DNA to nudge you towards healthier choices each time you shop. These every day small swaps can lead to big positive changes to your health over the long term. Two things comes from this, it is target marketing of certain products and also deciding for you what you should eat. Yet again it is an entity, gadget or organization telling you what, when and how you should live, it is fascism and a complete lack of freedom of choice, and yet again other people running the lives of the adult children. The sellers of this gadget is difficult to track down, but is linked to the Imperial College in White City London. That college has all the hallmarks of clown based technology innovation and it's President Alice P Gast has attended or been a part of Stanford, Yale, Harvard, MIT and was also an advisor to Hillary Clinton, suggesting this is a Blue Dragon based operation in co-ordination with MI5 and 6. Their curriculum is all the so called advance sciences, all of which is used as weapons against us, like robotics, nanotech and AI. The great question now is, why are the authorities suddenly interested in our health? The answer is they are not, and this gadget, along with the finger print, facial recognition and GPS tracking app to just join a internet news site and or banking, are further examples we warned of in the Clowns in Panic show. This whole Covid bs is an exercise of fear and distraction to roll out their hidden technology world up on us, that will replace Governments, (that is why they are making them all out to look incompetent now, in many cases they are not incompetent, but actually impotent) which surveillance, spying, snooping based gadgets that is the Orwell world on steroids. Once this is rolled out sufficiently, you will no longer have control of any aspects of your life, your own decision making process of how to run or chart your life path, it will all be done for you, and whether you like it or not, the army of adult children are responsible for that 100%. They don't wish to think for themselves, and have never in essence left their parents nurturing field. This is potentially another of their job replacement strategies, whereby there will no in house doctors appointments, all will be done by these gadgets, they are already doing remote surgeries by machines. It is designed to get us all hooked up and into a remote machine and their AI algorithm based, smart cities and Universal Income based world. In other words, turn us all into bots like them, to those who are not bots, remember you are the technology, you are the technology, you are the technology, when you remember who you are.

This was a statement from Ron Paul If some Congress members get their way, the Federal Reserve may soon be able to track many of your purchases in real time and share that information with government agencies. This is just one of the problems with the proposed "digital dollar" or "fedcoin." - the digital dollar and or wallet is concurrent with the information coming from the Trustee and their latest platform, the coin was the idea of the Trustee as well to protect funds being sent to Trump back in 2018, he ignored it. Fedcoin was initially included in the first coronavirus spending bill. While the proposal was dropped from the final version of the bill, there is still great interest in fedcoin on Capitol Hill. Some progressives have embraced fedcoin as a way to provide Americans with a "universal basic income." Oh dear whilst many Americans and many other people will support that idea, it will be a disaster for us all, and another opportunity to push their technology onto us, as it appears you will only receive said funds by that method, that is the end of all freedoms if that is rolled out. Both the Senate Banking Committee and the House Financial Services Committee held hearings on fedcoin in June, this is the first step toward making fedcoin a reality. Fedcoin would not be an actual coin, instead, it would be a special account created and maintained for each American by the Federal Reserve. Each month, Fed employees could tap a few keys on a computer and — voila — each American would have dollars added to his Federal Reserve account. This is the 21st century equivalent of throwing money from helicopters. Fedcoin could “crowd out” private cryptocurrencies, I guess Ron Paul not fully aware of the dangers of any crypto currency either. Also, it would limit the ability of private citizens to protect themselves, from the Federal Reserve-caused decline in the dollar’s value. What they will do in this scenario is, devalue the dollar and then set a rate of exchange for it with the fresh air token. Fedcoin would not magically increase the number of available goods and services, what it would do is drive up prices. The damage this would do to middle- and lower-income Americans would dwarf any benefit they receive from their monthly “gift” from the Fed. The rise in prices could lead to Congress regularly increasing fedcoin payments to Americans, these increases would cause prices to keep rising even more until we face hyperinflation and a dollar crisis. Yes the collapse of the dollar the globalists all want, why? as they don't control the dollar anymore in real terms. Of course, we are already on the path to an economic crisis thanks to the Fed, the Fedcoin will hasten and worsen the crisis. Fedcoin poses a great threat to privacy, the Federal Reserve could know when fedcoin is used, who is using it, and what they use it for. This information could be shared with government agencies, such as the FBI or IRS, you can add in the CIA and NSA who developed the fresh air tokens system to begin with. The government could use the ability to know how Americans are spending fedcoin, a bit like the DNA nudge device mentioned earlier then, to limit our ability to purchase goods and services disfavored by politicians and bureaucrats. Anyone who doubts this should recall the Obama administration’s Operation Choke Point. Operation Choke Point involved financial regulators “alerting” banks that dealing with certain businesses, such as gun stores, would put the banks at “reputational risk” and could subject them to greater regulation. Is it so hard to believe that the ability to track purchases would be used in the future to “discourage” individuals from buying guns, fatty foods, or tobacco, or from being customers of corporations whose CEOs are not considered “woke” by the thought police? Fedcoin could also be used to “encourage” individuals to patronize “green” business, thus fulfilling Fed Chair Jerome Powell’s goal of involving the Fed in the fight against climate change, and also aiding the Pelosi family generated Green Deal. Fedcoin will threaten private cryptocurrencies (good), increase inflation, and give government new powers over our financial transactions. Fedcoin will also speed up destruction of the fiat money system. Whatever gain fedcoin may bring to average Americans will come at terrible cost to liberty and prosperity.

We started with the word corona virus and then it became novel. Corona of course means crown, but also the halo around your vessel, better known as Aura or PSI field. But another description of corona is this, the radiating crown of projection fibers passing from the internal capsule to every part of the cerebral cortex. Which someone with a more medical and science based background perhaps may make a link between these coronas of projection fibers passing to the brain, and nanotechnology, but it is worth pondering on the link between the two. Then it is novel coronavirus, novel means new, The present English word for a long work of prose fiction derives from the Italian novella for "new", or "news", or "short story of something new", but significantly and perhaps indicatively means a long work of narrative fiction. A novel is a long, fictional narrative which describes intimate human experiences. A novel is also a way of present fact as fiction, so that fiction becomes fact and so the novel idea that is fiction then becomes the fact. So, one can deduce that the novel corona virus is a long work of narrative fiction, with the potential to project fibers into the brain and cause disturbances of their making. To facilitate that they then roll of the use of masks, all of which came from China and India, courtesy of Kushner, Fema, and Pelosi relative Gavin Newsome, should be enough to make one ponder should it not? Then we come to this and for you to decide whether it is related or not. MASKS The use of masks in the occult world is ancient, for centuries, the gypsies have used them for their hypnotic powers. Special healing masks for their people are kept secret and never shown to the public. Masks have a shock value & fascination value, Gypsy and other occult groups have special rituals to create the masks, including using hair clippings from the person who will wear the mask. Gypsy healing masks are destroyed after the patient gets well, Illuminati programming masks may or may not be destroyed after their use. The Illuminati's mask-making abilities (according to deprogrammed victims of their mind-control) are very high quality. Sometimes the programmers simply wear Halloween cartoon character masks that anyone can obtain, to fulfill their role in the programming script that they are involved in during the time. Of course they often use these masks within their secret gatherings, whether for meetings, balls, sex orgies as covered in the movie Eyes Wide Shut, and also in more social gatherings with lower end agents or initiates of theirs, including alt media personality, David Wilcock and his partner. One also suspects his former partner and perceived handler due to her witchcraft and monarch background, now frequenting around Randy Maugan's page, and known by the name of Dawn Hamm Hart, whether she was also a participant of this practice, time will tell. So, what is it with these masks, and why has it played an important role in our lives is the key to understanding it all. All of us until recently and many still do have their personal masks to create a fake persona of themselves, but as we warned 4 years ago, these masks would no longer work too well in this time period. Well what has been made clear is, the more prominent masks have been in occult circles for many a year. We go back to the plague era in Europe, which was manufactured and you had what they said were physicians treating the plague victims, in the most bizarre attire ever, long black cape and black top hat with a bird mask for it's face, long spindly fingers and nails and carrying some sort of stick. Whether they treated anyone is often overlooked, but more than likely scared people shitless upon it's arrival, but how many ask the question, was those doctors actually human? The hidden occult element in a more modern day version is the Clown, whose face is covered in make up to disguise their true looks, these are representing the astral realm of the Circus, and for those who visited it in the past, it was not a pleasant experience. This is why children are terrified of clowns, and conveniently clowns and the circus were used to abduct children in the Steven Spielberg series called Taken, not a coincidence either. Masks are all designed to keep things hidden, just like the dark and light occult based magic, and is symbolic of these dark forces and their hidden hand games. Where else do we see masks? is it related to off world entities? who or what is it hiding? all are valid questions to be asked. With that in mind, we come to the native tribes, all will tell you tales of being with the ET's and or gods as they call them. All native tribes wear some form of mask, particularly during their ceremonies, ritual or otherwise. The Dogon tribe wear masks in homage to the fish people from Sirius, the Central Americans wear masks to the Feathered Serpent race and Quetzalcoatl, I could go on with that list but you get the gist. Are all these mask wearers be it the tribes or the plague doctors all linked to off world entities? the answer is yes. The tribes as evidenced in our FRWL series were all corrupted with human ritual sacrifice, and all worshipped something else hidden by a mask, with the real mother hidden or missing in action, the dark mother the Kali Ma or Lilith took it's place. So, why are they making all the people wear masks now? what is the purpose? well here is something for you all to ponder on as we end this show. What if our show was correct on the personal masks? what if our show was correct on the masks falling? what if our show is correct and the 85% being different? What if our show was correct with, in 2020 all will see? With that in mind could it be with personal masks gone and all are seeing the 85% as something entirely different, they now have to cover everyone up in case it reveals a long standing program here, of not all is what is seems. I leave you with that to ponder on. We end with a song that is not a reminder but a reinforcement of the facts.
