I hope you all got much out of the Expose 8 show we did on Tuesday, there is a follow up of information to that in this show, work on FRWL Plus 7 is at an advanced stage and will be ready in a week or so's time. There will be a zoom call a week tomorrow that is mainly for North American members but all are welcome to attend to receive the information. Call will be Friday April 2nd at 7.30PM EST. I am hoping many of you attend as it will be an interesting call, and if it is not interesting we will have a laugh anyway.

Lets get one thing straight about this medical tyranny ongoing on the general public. They say they are interested in our health, and I can spend a whole show proving otherwise, but the Milgram experiment people who believe authority at the expense of basic common sense, need a reality check. You say we should trust authority and in particular the doctors and nurses know better, yet they don't train in medical cures, not 1 minute of it on a 7 year course. You say we should trust doctors and nurses, but they apart from the very few who are chemists, have no idea what is in creams, pills or potions, and so are unaware of what they are prescribing for their patients. You say we should trust the hospitals and their staff, whilst official figures place those institutions as the third leading cause of death in America, due to medical malpractice. Gun crime totals just 4-6% of deaths compared to medical malpractice, roughly for every death by gun, 19 people die of medical malpractice. Where is the bill preventing those deaths Pelosi? Why didn't Trump deal with it either? People will continue to fear the disease, until they realize that fear is the disease. The masses have never looked for the truth, whoever can provide them with illusions becomes their master. Whoever attempts to destroy their illusions, easily becomes their victim. The solutions is, replace the reptilian brain with heart thinking.

I was asked to watch a short video on a tarot reader this week, that was basically about Kim Goguen. I have to say it was very close to the mark in the reading of her, and sadly I agree with the card reader, Kim is in big trouble. She has lost her way badly on many levels but in particular from my perspective, herself. To all the hangers on around her, not one of you have helped her, and yes I know she is verbally aggressive, it is a common trait of those who wish to cover up weaknesses within, but sitting there and playing yes people has not helped her one iota, you have all failed her. Someone has to tell her she is so far off track now it's painful for those who cared for her to see, she is miles away from the person 12 months ago, miles away like a distant dot on the horizon, an horizon she is in danger of disappearing over into oblivion. Should I care about her after what she did and said to me? for many people the answer would be no, but I care about all people regardless, and some say that is wrong as you get burnt, and yes I can see that. But we have all been wronged, fooled and done wrong in life, it is all about how you correct it.

Another one of the lead figures who made lies up to denigrate me and our group from Team Bubba, to add to the disenfranchise Life Force members joining, reapplied to come back into the group this week, with a verbal of apologies, and that is enough for me, because if that person messes up again, it does not affect my life, just their own. That is what the dwindling remnants of Team Bubba and Co. don't get, your not getting at me, you are using lies to discredit someone you know deep within you, is not as you portray publically, those people are damaging themselves only, they don't operate within truth, only a perceived vengeance against someone else, but that is just the projection. The same applies with Kim, as the woman on the video stated, and I agree, she is in big trouble on a personal level, show level, work level and higher level, and people frightened to make her accountable for fear of being cut out of the Trust funds, which may or not arrive, have not helped her one bit, she is in big trouble and that is what I kept warning you all about for many months. A and the lack of shadow and inner work now is in your face for all to see, as I warned of 6 years ago.

NEWS The Biden administration is restricting the information Border Patrol agents and sector chiefs can share with the media, as a surge of migrants tests the agency's capacity at the southern border, according to four current and two former Customs and Border Protection officials. The officials say the restrictions are seen as an unofficial "gag order" and are often referred to that way among colleagues. The officials requested anonymity because they are not authorized to speak to the media about the topic. Border Patrol officials have been told to deny all media requests for "ride-alongs" with agents along the southern land border. Local press officers are instructed to send all information queries, even from local media, to the press office in Washington for approval. Those responsible for cultivating data about the number of migrants in custody have been reminded not to share the information with anyone to prevent leaks, the officials said. Multiple news organizations, including NBC News, have requested access to or photos from inside overcrowded border processing facilities holding unaccompanied migrant children, they have been denied. The DHS press office released one photo late Tuesday of a mother and child undergoing a health screening inside a border facility, but no wider shots to show conditions or sleeping arrangements. Where is the media outrage on this? Fascist style controls to cover up either sinister or negligent actions taken by the Biden Government. What a difference is their reactions compared with the last president, where they created stories to denigrate the President, and yet now ignore blatant cover ups. I suspect we may have to get use for this type of journalistic stories for at least 4 years.

The Federal Reserve kept rates anchored near zero and maintained the current pace of asset purchases, following the conclusion of this week's meeting. Officials also upgraded expectations for GDP growth and inflation and cut estimates for the unemployment rate. More members foresee rate hikes in coming years, but not enough to change the forecast for none through at least 2023. Federal Reserve are in on the transfer of wealth from the West to the East, and so their comments are not based in what is best for the country, only for the dark force factions.

House Democrats on Tuesday blocked proposed legislation from freshman Rep. Marianne Miller-Meeks, R-Iowa, that would have required illegal immigrants released into the U.S. to receive a negative COVID-19 test. The REACT Act would require migrants released into the United States, by Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and Customs and Border Patrol (CBP) would first have to test negative for corona virus. Miller-Meeks's measure was brought up on the floor, a day after the Iowa congresswoman joined some of her colleagues for a trip to see the immigration crisis in El Paso, Texas. The GOP calls to consider the measure were blocked by Democrats. I guess Ms. Meeks found out you cannot talk common sense in Washington. So, if you are traveling by plane you need a negative Covid test to protect the "citizens", but if you come into the country outside of the Visa based system, you don't. Does that make sense? then it is a program then is it not?

The Education Department announced this week, it would fully forgive the federal loans of borrowers who enrolled in schools that "engaged in certain misconduct." Under the Trump administration, some students only were only given partial relief, the department said. The Education Department estimates the new formula could help approximately 72,000 borrowers receive $1 billion, said the new Secretary of Education, Miguel Cardona. "A close review of these claims and the associated evidence showed these borrowers have been harmed, and we will grant them a fresh start from their debt." In 2019, then-Education Secretary Betsy DeVos faced intense scrutiny over her handling of the issue, when she appeared before the House Education and Labor committee. The Education Department says it will now ensure borrowers with approved claims "have a streamlined path to receiving full loan discharges," including individuals who previously received "less than a full loan discharge." "For more than four years, defrauded borrowers and their families have lived under a cloud of education debt that they should not have to repay," he said in a statement. "I applaud the Biden Administration for doing the right thing by making these borrowers whole, and I can only imagine the mixture of joy and relief they are feeling today. This announcement is life changing for tens of thousands of people across the country." So, much for previous promises of deleting all student debt, that was promised 3 times last year alone.

National Democrats rushed to Twitter on Wednesday to blame "White supremacy" and "racism" for the mass shooting spree that targeted massage parlors in the Atlanta area, but police officials say the suspect claimed the deadly shootings were not racially motivated. "He apparently has an issue, what he considers a sex addiction, and sees these locations as ... a temptation for him that he wanted to eliminate," said Cherokee County Sheriff's Office Capt. Jay Baker during a press conference. There was two other alleged shootings,

I say alleged as it is funny how these mass shootings happen, just after a major bill or discussions on banning guns comes out of Washington. Remember Pelosi's recent bill? But in the other two shootings in Texas and Colorado, no mention of racial overtones were applied to the stories. The reality is both shooters in those incidents were not white, and race is only applied these days to denigrate one color.

An independent study commissioned by the Roman Catholic Church uncovered hundreds of cases of sexual violence allegedly committed by clergy and laymen in Germany's top diocese, its authors said Thursday. The long-awaited 800-page report on the Cologne diocese found 202 alleged perpetrators of sexual assault and 314 victims between 1975 and 2018, the attorney mandated by the Church, Bjoern Gercke, told reporters. "More than half of the victims were children under the age of 14," Gercke said. Another victory for the truth, these Catholic and other churches have got away with mass levels of abuse of children for decades. The very fact your churches covered this abuse up for so long, is the responsibility of the people who go to the churches, going to church makes you complicit in these crimes. I am sorry if people are offended by that, but people within those communities must have known, and did or said nothing, that makes you complicit by their silence. It is funny how people all gossip about each other, yet when the so called authorities are committing crimes it is all hushed up, that practice has to stop.

There was a heated exchange between Senator Rand Paul (D-Ky.) and Dr. Anthony Fauci, director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, during a Senate hearing yesterday. The disagreement centered around Dr. Fauci's advice that people already vaccinated continue to wear masks, due to the risks from Covid-19 variants. All whilst Dr. Fauci was not wearing a mask, the hypocrisy of those who enforce these conditions on people will continue unabated, until we the people stand up and stop it. Common sense question, if social distancing works and should be enforced, why doesn't it apply on flights, trains or public transport?

People may need to wear face coverings and socially distance for several years until we return to normality, a leading epidemiologist has predicted. Mary Ramsay, the head of immunisation at Public Health England, said basic measures could be in place until other countries successfully roll out jabs. She also said a return of big spectator events required careful monitoring and clear instructions about staying safe. The defence secretary has not ruled out the foreign holiday ban being extended. Ben Wallace told BBC One's Andrew Marr Show that booking a break abroad now would be "premature" and "potentially risky". The UK set another record for the number of corona virus vaccine doses given in a single day on Saturday, with 873,784 jabs. They will just keep rolling out excuse after excuse and lockdowns will roll on forever, coming soon the new wave, all manufactured to delay, stall and prevent the people returning to "normal". You know why we can't return to normal? because what was normal before this engineered virus, no longer exists.

Right on cue as if by magic, Corona virus cases are rising exponentially in Germany, officials warn, as continental Europe braces for a third wave of infections. German Chancellor Angela Merkel said it was likely that the country, would now need to apply an "emergency brake" and re-impose lockdown measures. France, Poland and other nations are also reintroducing restrictions. German Health Minister Jens Spahn has said that Europe lacks the vaccines needed to significantly reduce cases. "We have to be honest about the situation - in Europe we don't have enough vaccines to stop a third wave through vaccinations alone," he told reporters. The vaccine rollout across the EU has been hindered by delayed deliveries as well as the suspension in several countries of the use of the Oxford-AstraZeneca Covid-19 vaccine, over fears of possible side effects.

India has placed a temporary hold on all exports of the Oxford-AstraZeneca corona virus vaccine, foreign ministry sources have told the BBC. They said rising cases meant domestic demand was expected to pick up in the coming weeks, and so the doses were needed for India's own rollout. The move - described as a "temporary squeeze" by officials - is expected to affect supplies until the end of April, some 190 countries under the Covax scheme are likely to be affected. The scheme, which is led by the World Health Organization (WHO), aims to ensure vaccines are shared fairly among all nations. India's largest vaccine manufacturer, the Serum Institute of India (SII), has delayed shipments of the AstraZeneca jab to several countries in recent days, including the UK and Brazil. India has exported more than 60 million vaccine doses to 76 countries so far, with the majority of these being the Oxford-AstraZeneca jab. The decision comes as India faces a surge in coronavirus cases. On Wednesday it recorded its sharpest daily rise this year, with more than 47,000 new cases and 275 deaths.

Former President Trump urged all Americans to get the corona virus vaccine in a Fox News exclusive interview on Tuesday, touting its efficacy as both "a safe vaccine" and "something that works." "I would recommend it and I would recommend it to a lot of people that don't want to get it and a lot of those people voted for me, frankly," Trump told Bartiromo. "It is a great vaccine. It is a safe vaccine and it is something that works," he said. This is the man who people are wanting back in the White House, remember A: Trump put us all under lockdown after funds received from the Trustee, B: Trump made available the techno jabs for all Americans, some mandatory after further funding from the Trustee. This despite him knowing that A: the virus was engineered and not as harmful as made out, B: he sent $10B of American peoples money to the UK based Astra Zeneca despite their appalling record with vaccines C: allowed his son in law and FEMA to block American companies selling PPE's to Americans. I appreciate the skullduggery and forced and enforced decision making games that go on in the capitol, but these are facts attributed to Mr. Trump, and none of those actions have helped the people he stated he would serve and protect.

A new United Nations report has laid bare the appalling cost of lockdowns in some of the world's poorest countries. The report, Direct and Indirect Effects of COVID-19 Pandemic and Response in South Asia, examines the effect of the unprecedented Government shutdown policies on healthcare, social services, education and the economy. It estimates that the disruption in healthcare services caused by Government responses to COVID-19 in Afghanistan, Nepal, Bangladesh, India, Pakistan and Sri Lanka (home to some 1.8 billion people) may have led to 239,000 maternal and child deaths. This compares to around 186,000 deaths "with COVID-19", meaning the lockdowns are estimated to have killed considerably more than the virus. Furthermore, 228,000 is the estimated lockdown death toll just of children under five, almost none of whom would have been at any risk from the virus. With the majority of Covid deaths worldwide being among the over 80s, the difference in terms of quality adjusted life years (QALYs) must be staggering. It says the number of children being treated for severe malnutrition fell by more than 80% in Bangladesh and Nepal, and immunisation among children dropped by 35% and 65% in India and Pakistan respectively. The report also says that child mortality rose the highest in India in 2020 - up by 15.4% - followed by Bangladesh at 13%. Sri Lanka saw the sharpest increase in maternal deaths - 21.5% followed by Pakistan's 21.3%. Experts in India fear that malnutrition rates will be significantly worse across the country, as the data comes in over the next few months. A separate UN report in December estimated that an additional 207 million people, could be pushed into extreme poverty over the next decade due to the long term impact of lockdowns. Just as we forecasted, this was a shut down of the old system, which we had stated had fell, there is no going back to what it was, it doesn't exist. The only path forward is the people coming together.

A 'Group of Friends' including Russia, China and a host of others have united to call out America's decades-long disregard for the core founding principle of the United Nations: maintaining international peace and security. The United Nations was created after WWII with one chief aim - to prevent the scourge of war. Actually it was to consolidate power in the hands of the few. Thus, Article 1, Section 1 of the governing document of the United Nations - the UN Charter - states that, prime amongst the purposes of the United Nations is: To maintain international peace and security, and to that end: to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to the peace, and for the suppression of acts of aggression or other breaches of the peace, and to bring about by peaceful means, and in conformity with the principles of justice and international law, adjustment or settlement of international disputes or situations which might lead to a breach of the peace. That is all very well stating that, but which country or any country enforced it? the answer is none. As two countries of goose stepped all over the planet, invading over 100 countries between them, committed dozens of atrocities, killed millions and destroyed whole countries and their infrastructure, and the rest of the world did what? The two countries are America and Israel, cajoled and controlled by the banking elites, as wars make money for them, and they care not for the cost of life or destruction. Who would have thought when we had Bonnie and Clyde, Butch Cassidy, Jesse James, Billy the Kid and others who were stealing money from the other side of the counter in banks, to banks employing those ilk of people to stealing money of the clientele. They had masks then and they have masks now. Article 2 of the Charter goes on to explicitly ban "the threat or use of force" as well as intervention in the domestic affairs of other nations. Such prohibitions were informed by the horrors of WWII, including the Holocaust, which emanated not from Nazi Germany's but an infiltrated National Zionist Germany, aggressive war in Europe. The German people need to complain about the use of that word before their country, it is far to prevalent in it's use, and not indicative of the German people over 80 years later. In short, the nations of the world wanted to prevent such an evil from ever happening again. As UN Secretary General Kofi Annan would later state, "no principle of the Charter is more important than the principle of the non-use of force as embodied in Article 2 of the UN Charter. . . ." The UN is a failed entity, as no one has done anything to stop the genocide of peoples all over the world, endless streams of chatter and bollox, and zero in terms of beneficial actions for the benefit of the people.

Just as predicted recently. Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu could struggle to secure enough seats in parliament to stay in power, incomplete results from Tuesday's election show. With almost 90% of votes counted, his right-wing bloc is on course to win 59 seats - two short of the threshold. In a surprise development, an Arab party which is projected to get five seats could hold the balance of power. The final outcome will among other things determine the course of Israel's relations with the Palestinians. The Arab party, Raam, has not declared whether it will support the efforts of Mr Netanyahu - an unnatural ally - to form a governing coalition or those of the bloc of parties opposed to him remaining in office. The Netanyahu opponents are projected to win 56 seats, according to the latest tally, and although backing from Raam could give them a majority, they are fragmented and unlikely to be able to agree to work together. If neither bloc succeeds, the country could face its fifth election since 2019. All of which means Nutty stays in power regardless, told ya it is a rigged system.

Here we go a new private club for the greed based humanity sell outs, with their banal based fresh air tokens. A radical experiment is being considered in the US state of Nevada, it would allow new local governments to be formed on land owned by tech firms. Jeffrey Berns, the crypto-currency millionaire who proposed the idea, is convinced of its revolutionary potential. The challenge now is changing the minds of sceptics who are not, for some, one man's utopia is their dystopia. Loosely translated from Ancient Greek, utopia means "nowhere", a place that doesn't exist, fitting as it is in line with their fresh air tokens. For now, this is an apt description of the place Mr. Berns and his software company, Blockchains, believe could become somewhere extraordinary. That place is a barren plot of land spanning 67,000 acres (271 sq km) in Nevada's rural Storey County. Mr. Berns bought the land for $170m (£121m) in 2018. On this site, he hopes to develop a "smart city" from the internet up. Named Painted Rock, it would include all the trappings of a typical city - homes, schools and businesses - but with one fundamental difference. Residents would use the city's services and crypto-currency on digital applications built with database technology known as blockchain. Unveiled last year, the plan envisions a city of more than 36,000 residents, 15,000 homes, and 11 million sq ft of commercial space. Blockchain estimates that, eventually, the city will generate $4.6bn in output annually. For this to happen, Mr Berns says a new model of local government is needed in Nevada. This government would have powers to raise taxes, enforce the law, and administer public services such as schools, utilities and transport. "There are some really cool things we could develop if we had the area and the flexibility to do it, that's what this is about," Mr Berns told the BBC. This vision has found favour with Nevada's Democratic Governor, Steve Sisolak. Within the next few months, he will seek to pass a law that would permit Blockchains and other companies to create self-governing "innovation zones" in the state. Under the proposal, only high-tech businesses with at least 50,000 acres of land that promise to invest $1.25bn would be able to form innovation zones. These zones would initially be overseen by three supervisors appointed by the governor. Elections for this supervisory board would only be held once 100 residents live in the zone, which would be subject to state law. Creating their own Government is essentially putting it in peoples faces, as it seems these Tech giants along with their agency clowns run the Government anyway, a classic case of money talks. This is why they wish to deny the people funds, as it ends their hegemony and they know some people will coalesce and improve life for many, not the few. Welcome to Cyberdyne and the Terminator world, a world of robots, compliant people acting like bots, where everything will be smart, not clever smart, but sting or burn smart. One of our members called it right, S.M.A.R.T. : Secret Military Armament and Resilience Technology. It's only smart if you just shut it OFF! Them clowns and their world needs to be separated from by we the people, let them have their techno world, but put them within a walled perimeter with no interaction with we the people, immigration to their world will only be bots, but for us it is time to go our separate ways.

This is a follow up to the Eugenics War show done on Tuesday, visit THI-show.com if you haven't heard that show yet. Whilst it re-affirms many of the things we have put out previously in the Expose series, it does have some deeper and newer connections added into the mix. The AstraZeneca vaccine is being promoted for developing countries, in part because it doesn't require the deep-freeze cold storage that mRNA vaccines do, so the logistics surrounding distribution are less complex. Patents and royalties for the AstraZeneca vaccine are held by a private company called Vaccitech, investors of which include Google Ventures, the Wellcome Trust, the Chinese branch of Sequoia Capital, the Chinese drug company Fosun Pharma and the British government. The AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine was co-developed by Adrian Hill, who has long-term ties to the British eugenics movement, through his work with the Wellcome Trust's Centre for Human Genetics and affiliation with the Galton Institute, formerly the U.K. Eugenics Society. Members of the Galton Institute have called for population reduction in Latin America, South and Southeast Asia and Africa, the very areas where the AstraZeneca vaccine is being promoted. While the two currently available COVID-19 vaccines in the U.S. are based on novel mRNA technology — which in actuality are experimental gene therapies, not true vaccines — the Oxford-AstraZeneca vaccine is a bit different. It uses a chimpanzee adenovirus vector genetically engineered to express the SARS-CoV-2 spike protein instead. James Corbett interviewed Whitney Webb, a writer and researcher who covers intelligence, Big Tech, surveillance and civil liberties, about some of the basic differences between these vaccines. They delved into the curious ties between Oxford University, AstraZeneca and the British eugenics movement, a topic Webb covered in her in-depth December 26, 2020, investigative report, "Developers of Oxford-AstraZeneca Vaccine Tied to U.K. Eugenics Movement," co-written with Jeremy Loffredo.

The Not for Profit Myth: Webb points out that one of the reasons the AstraZeneca vaccine is being promoted for developing countries, is because it doesn't require the deep-freeze cold storage that mRNA vaccines do, so the logistics surrounding distribution are far less cumbersome and complex. As a result, GAVI, the Vaccine Alliance, has partnered with AstraZeneca to bring the vaccine to the developing world, including Africa and Egypt. Now, while AstraZeneca has promised it will not make any profit from its vaccine, there's a time limit on this pledge that most media pundits fail to note. The not-for-profit vow expires once the pandemic is over, and AstraZeneca itself appears to have a say when it comes to declaring the end date. It could be as early as July 1, 2021, according to a company memo obtained by the Financial Times. As explained by Webb, the patents and royalties for the AstraZeneca vaccine are held by a private company called Vaccitech, the investors of which include BRAAVOS (a capital investment company set up by a Deutsche Bank executive), Google Ventures, the Wellcome Trust, the Chinese branch of Sequoia Capital, the Chinese drug company Fosun Pharma and the British government. All of these investors stand to profit from this vaccine at some point in the near future, and Vaccitech has been quite open about the future profit potential with its shareholders, noting that the COVID-19 vaccine will most likely become an annual vaccine that is updated each season much like the seasonal flu vaccine. In her article, Webb quotes Vaccitech's CEO Bill Enright, who promised that investors will receive "a big chunk of the royalties from a successful vaccine, as well as 'milestone' payments if and when the pandemic is declared over and COVID-19 vaccines become a seasonal event."

Mapping the Players: The actual developer of the vaccine, Webb explains, is the Jenner Institute for Vaccine Research, founded in 1995 as a public-private partnership between GlaxoSmithKline and the British government. After a few years, a reorganization took place, turning the Jenner Institute into a partnership between the University of Oxford and the Pirbright Institute (previously known as the Institute for Animal Health). The Jenner Institute is also part of the Oxford Vaccine Group.

The AstraZeneca vaccine has also received U.S. funding: In 2020, the company received $1 billion in funding for its COVID-19 vaccine from the U.S. Biomedical Advanced Research and Development Authority (BARDA), which is part of the Health and Human Services Office of the Assistant Secretary for Preparedness and Response. Also received $10B from the Trump Government as well. Dr. Anthony Fauci, head of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID) is among those who have promoted the idea, that the COVID-19 vaccine will need to become an annual inoculation, which will allow Vaccitech and its investors to massively profit well into the future. Among the profiteers will be The Wellcome Trust which, like other Vaccitech investors, is part of the technocratic globalist network. Wellcome is the largest charity in the U.K. that funds "innovative biomedical research." It was formed in 1936 after the death of Sir Henry Wellcome, a pharmaceutical pioneer and progressive industrialist. Their board consists of present or former bankers, insurance executives and investment board members. Sir Henry Wellcome, while still alive, founded the company that went on to become GlaxoSmithKline, so the Wellcome Trust is essentially the "philanthropic arm" of GSK.

Adrian Hill's Ties to Eugenics: Adrian Hill is the director of the Jenner Institute and was a lead developer of the AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine. Hill also heads the U.K. Vaccine Network, a government entity that decides where to funnel funding and vaccine technology. One of Hill's bosses early on in his career, and his thesis adviser when he was a doctoral student, was the late David Weatherall, founder of the Weatherall Institute of Molecular Medicine, a research institute at the University of Oxford. Weatherall was a member of the Galton Institute from a time when it was known as the U.K. Eugenics Society, and he remained a member until his death in 2018. Hill gave a lecture at Galton in 2008 for its 100-year anniversary. Arguably the most troubling of all is the direct link of the vaccine's lead developers to the Wellcome Trust and, in the case of Adrian Hill, the Galton Institute, two groups with longstanding ties to the UK eugenics movement. The latter organization, named for the 'father of eugenics' Francis Galton, is the renamed U.K. Eugenics Society, a group notorious for over a century for its promotion of racist pseudoscience, and efforts to 'improve racial stock' by reducing the population of those deemed inferior. The ties of Adrian Hill to the Galton Institute should raise obvious concerns, given the push to make the Oxford-AstraZeneca vaccine he developed with [Sarah] Gilbert the vaccine of choice for the developing world, particularly countries in Latin America, South and Southeast Asia, and Africa, the very areas where the Galton Institute's past members have called for reducing population growth. They can say it is in those countries but, the most prominent push of the Astra Zeneca vaccines is in predominantly white countries as well. While the Galton Institute has attempted to distance itself, from its past of promoting racial eugenics with surface-level public relations efforts, it has not stopped family members of the infamous racist from achieving leadership positions at the institute. Emeritus professor of molecular genetics at the Galton Institute and one of its officers is none other than David J. Galton, whose work includes 'Eugenics: The Future of Human Life in the 21st Century.' David Galton has written that the Human Genome Mapping Project, originally dreamt up by Galton's former president Walter Bodmer, had enormously increased the scope for eugenics, because of the development of a very powerful technology for the manipulation of DNA. This new 'wider definition of eugenics,' Galton has said, 'would cover methods of regulating population numbers as well as, improving genome quality by selective artificial insemination by donor, gene therapy or gene manipulation of germ-line cells.' In expanding on this new definition, Galton is neutral as to 'whether some methods should be made compulsory by the state, or left entirely to the personal choice of the individual.'"

Hill and the Wellcome Trust Centre for Human Genetics: Hill also holds a senior position at the Wellcome Trust's Centre for Human Genetics. One of his former students there was Sarah Gilbert, who served as program director for the Centre. Gilbert is also co-founder of Vaccitech and a lead researcher on the COVID-19 vaccine along with Hill. At the Centre for Human Genetics, Hill's focus has been "population genetics and race, particularly in Africa" Webb explains. In general terms, the Centre investigates race genetics and susceptibility to diseases and infertility. Hill's specialty is genetics and respiratory illnesses. The Wellcome Trust is also the archivist for the Eugenics Society, now the Galton Institute. Webb writes: "The crossroads between race and genes is important in the center's work, as an entire working group at the center, the Myers Group, is dedicated to mapping the 'genetic impacts of migration events.' The center also funded a paper that argued that so long as eugenics is not coercive, it's an acceptable policy initiative. The paper asks, 'Is the fact that an action or policy is a case of eugenics, necessarily a reason not to do it?' According to Hill's page on the Wellcome Trust site, race and genetics have long played a central role in his scientific approach, and his group currently focuses on the role genetics plays in African populations, with regard to susceptibility to specific infectious diseases." As noted by Webb in her interview, eugenics never really disappeared. It was simply rebranded into more acceptable terms revolving around "public health." This raises all sorts of questions, starting with: Why is the AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine, which has such strong eugenics ties, being earmarked for and marketed specifically to developing countries?

Anti-Racism Agenda, or Eugenics: Webb also points out how so-called "woke vaccine policy" is using systemic racism, as a justification for making sure the COVID-19 vaccine is given to minorities first. Such justifications become all the more questionable if not outright suspicious in light of the eugenics angle, which tends to be heavily focused on reducing populations of Blacks and various native groups. In the case of the AstraZeneca vaccine, Webb suspects there's an ulterior profit motive behind its not-for-profit pledge to developing countries. If the vaccine ends up being an annual inoculation, they may insist you keep getting the same brand. This way, if AstraZeneca ends up getting a majority share of the market from the start, Vaccitech and its investors will ultimately reap the greatest profits in years to come. But in addition to the profit angle, there's also the possibility that they might alter the vaccine at any point in the future to fit the eugenics agenda, and no one would be the wiser. As noted by Webb in her article: "There are plans in place to exercise what could reasonably be described as economic coercion, to pressure people to 'voluntarily' get vaccinated. Such coercion will be obviously be more effective on poor and working communities, meaning communities of color will be disproportionately affected as well. This is what we have stated, what happens of they turn around and say you can't get your pensions or social security benefits without proof of the vaccine, that makes it mandatory under coercion. First step you can't fly or go abroad without it, next step is sporting venues, followed by more stringent methods. Considering these facts, and the case for scrutinizing the safety of Oxford-AstraZeneca's 'affordable' vaccine option made above, any harm caused by vaccine allocation policy in the U.S. and beyond is likely to disproportionately affect poor communities, especially communities of color. No, this affects us all. As such, the public should take all vaccine rollout policy assertions with a grain of salt, even when they come cloaked in language of inclusion, racial justice, and public health preservation. As the cofounder of the American Eugenics Society (later renamed Society for the Study of Social Biology) Frederick Osborn put it in 1968, 'Eugenic goals are most likely to be attained under a name other than eugenics.'"

Africans Leery of AstraZeneca's 'Gift': Considering the history of Big Pharma using Blacks as guinea pigs, both in Africa and the U.S., it's not surprising that Africans are leery about the gift of COVID-19 vaccines. As just one example, a 2009 Jenner Institute vaccine trial in South Africa killed seven infants. Webb writes: "An investigation conducted by the British Medical Journal found that the Hill-led Jenner Institute, had knowingly misled parents about the negative results of, and questionable methods used in animal studies, as well the vaccine being known to be ineffective. The vaccine in question, an experimental tuberculosis vaccine developed jointly by Emergent Biosolutions and the Jenner Institute, was scrapped after the controversial study in infants confirmed what was already known, that the vaccine was ineffective." Concern among South Africans has been so widespread that the South African government, in early February 2021, temporarily paused its rollout of the AstraZeneca vaccine.

Google Ventures' Conflict of Interest: You want to know why Google are using factcheckers to stifle vaccine and virus information? here is why. Google Ventures is another investor in Vaccitech. Considering Google has a vested stake in the success of a COVID-19 vaccine, its policy to censor "vaccine misinformation" is a clear conflict of interest that they really should be held accountable for. Indeed, it makes no sense that Google, which stands to profit from a COVID-19 vaccine, is allowed to suppress reporting on it. Disturbingly, Webb points out that, as far as she could tell, she's the only one who has pointed out this link between Google and the AstraZeneca vaccine. The question is why neither the Trump or Biden administration have made no efforts to stop it. In my opinion there is no difference between the two, Trump initiated the lockdown and launched the vaccines remember, despite knowing neither was required. I know that won't make me popular with some people, but I am not here to be popular, only to tell you the facts. Trump by his actions and inactions became complicit in all of this, and it is an uncomfortable fact people should take note of.

The Gates Foundation: Not surprisingly, the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation can also be found in this web of eugenics. Webb writes: "The Wellcome Centre regularly co-funds the research and development of vaccines and birth control methods with the Gates Foundation. A foundation that actively and admittedly engages in population and reproductive control in Africa and South Asia by, among other things, prioritizing the widespread distribution of injectable long-acting reversible contraceptives (LARCs). The Wellcome Trust has also directly funded studies that sought to develop methods to 'improve uptake' of LARCs in places such as rural Rwanda. As researcher Jacob Levich stated, LARCs afford women in the Global South 'the least choice possible short of actual sterilization.' Some LARCs can render women infertile for as long as five years, and, as Levich argues, they 'leave far more control in the hands of providers, and less in the hands of women, than condoms, oral contraceptives, or traditional methods.' One example is Norplant, a contraceptive implant manufactured by Schering (now Bayer which is Rothschilds) that can prevent pregnancy for up to five years. It was taken off the U.S. market in 2002 after more than 50,000 women filed lawsuits against the company and the doctors who prescribed it. Seventy of those class action suits were related to side effects such as depression, extreme nausea, scalp-hair loss, ovarian cysts, migraines, and excessive bleeding. Slightly modified and rebranded as Jadelle, the dangerous drug was promoted in Africa by the Gates Foundation in conjunction with USAID and EngenderHealth. Formerly named the Sterilization League for Human Betterment, EngenderHealth's original mission, inspired by racial eugenics, was to 'improve the biological stock of the human race.'"

Are Any of the COVID Vaccines Safe: I've written many articles detailing the potential and suspected, if not inevitable, problems with COVID-19 vaccines, primarily the mRNA

gene therapies since they are the two currently in use in the U.S. In addition to their high risk of allergic reactions, there's compelling evidence to suggest they may trigger severe inflammation and immune dysregulation. Many scientists are also warning of the possibility for pathogenic priming and antibody-dependent enhancement, which will make subsequent infection with a corona virus far more dangerous than were you not vaccinated. In a paper titled, "COVID-19 RNA Based Vaccines and the Risk of Prion Disease," published in Microbiology & Infectious Diseases, Dr. Bart Classen also warns there are also troubling evidences suggesting some of the mRNA shots may cause prion diseases such as Alzheimer's and ALS. Meanwhile, Dr. J. Patrick Whelan, a pediatric rheumatologist specializing in multisystem inflammatory syndrome, has expressed concern about mRNA vaccines' ability to cause "microvascular injury to the brain, heart, liver and kidneys in ways that were not assessed in safety trials." Around the world, reports are now also pouring in of people dying shortly after receiving these COVID-19 vaccines. In many cases, they die suddenly within hours of getting the shot, in others, death occurs within the span of a couple of weeks. As of February 12, 2021, the number of side effects reported to VAERS totaled 15,923, including 929 deaths. Pfizer's vaccine has so far been responsible for 58% of deaths in the U.S. VAERS list, while Moderna's vaccine accounts for 41%. As of March 11, 2021, Denmark, Norway, Iceland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Luxembourg have all suspended the use of AstraZeneca's vaccine, either in full or in part, following reports of blood clots. Austria has also suspended a particular batch of AstraZeneca's vaccine in order to complete an investigation into the death of a 49-year-old woman who suddenly developed a severe coagulation disorder. Another Austrian vaccine recipient, a 35-year-old woman, developed acute lung disease from a dislodged blood clot. The same vaccine batch had reportedly been used in Denmark, where a 60-year-old woman died from a blood clot. According to a March 2, 2021, report by The Defender, U.K. data show the AstraZeneca vaccine has 77% more adverse events and 25% more deaths than the Pfizer vaccine. To avoid becoming a sad statistic, I urge you to review the science very carefully before making up your mind about this experimental therapy. Also remember that the lethality of COVID-19 is actually surprisingly low. It's lower than the flu for those under the age of 60. If you're under the age of 40, your risk of dying from COVID-19 is just 0.01%, meaning you have a 99.99% chance of surviving the infection. And you could improve that to 99.999% if you're metabolically flexible, insulin sensitive, and vitamin D replete. The National Vaccine Information Center (NVIC) recently posted more than 50 video presentations from the pay-for-view Fifth International Public Conference on Vaccination held online October 16 to 18, 2020, and made them available to everyone for free. The conference's theme was "Protecting Health and Autonomy in the 21st Century" and it featured physicians, scientists and other health professionals, human rights activists, faith community leaders, constitutional and civil rights attorneys, authors and parents of vaccine injured children talking about vaccine science, policy, law and ethics and infectious diseases, including corona virus and COVID-19 vaccines. In December 2020, a U.K. company published false and misleading information about NVIC and its conference, which prompted NVIC to open up the whole conference for free viewing. The conference has everything you need to educate yourself, and protect your personal freedoms and liberties with respect to your health. There you have it, if bots wish to take jabs let them, the wealth of information against it now is overwhelming, in the future we may have to protect ourselves from those who have taken the jab, because like the 5 year jab to avoid pregnancies, this could be a 5 year jab of an infectious and slow death.

CHILDRENS NEWS: There is a man in Canada who can only be alluded to as He Who Shall Not Be Named: His name is Robert Hoogland. For the sake of natural justice, it is important to speak this man's name, he is now the Canadian state's prison of conscience. The warrant was issued by a judge for the arrest of a father for calling his biological female child his "daughter," and referring to her with the pronouns "she" and "her." Hoogland is a father to a gender non-conforming biological female 14-year-old, who identifies as transgender and prefers the use of male pronouns. Hoogland has repeatedly called this person his daughter, though the court has forbade it. On Tuesday at 10 am Vancouver time, Hoogland surrendered himself to the court in response to the Attorney General of British Columbia's warrant for his arrest for contempt. He was then arrested and jailed, the warrant was issued by Judge Tammen on March 4, 2021. Sheer lunacy, oh the bloody labels people aspire to, and the child none common sense like adjudications thrown into the mix to add to the drama of it all. This is political correctness on steroids now, the system are running programs on us all, and stupid people are going along with it. Jail time for calling your child born with a vag your daughter, their world now descending into total madness. Observe not absorb is the best policy.

President Joe Biden's administration is too white and heterosexual - at least in the view of two Democratic senators - who vowed to vote down any non-LGBTQ white nominee, until the White House commits to more diversity. Senator Tammy Duckworth (Illinois) and Mazie Hirono (Hawaii) told reporters on Tuesday that they'll vote to approve only non-white or LGBTQ nominees until Biden starts appointing more minorities. While Hirono said her concern is diversity in general, Duckworth is trying to pressure the administration to give more plum jobs to Asian-American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) candidates. Why is this behavior only happening in predominantly white countries? Can you imagine a group of white people in non white countries demanding they be given positions of power? Other than the Rothschild led East Indies Companies, has that ever happened in modern history? no, then why is this racist behavior tolerated. Duckworth and Hirono should be fired for blatant racist and sexist statements, if the reverse happened there would be headlines everywhere of white supremacy, how is that balanced? "I am a no vote on the floor on all non-diversity nominees," Duckworth said. "You know, I will vote for racial minorities and I will vote for LGBTQ, but anybody else, I'm not voting for." Hirono said that the senators would vote against any white and straight candidates until they have a commitment from the administration that more positions will soon be filled by minority candidates, including black, Hispanic and AAPI representatives. "I'm joining her in that, which means that we would like to have a commitment from the White House that there'll be more diversity representation in the cabinet, and in senior White House positions," Hirono said. So this is the story of labels, some labels need to be included and some deemed no longer suitable, neither is based on merit or whether capable of doing the task. Just appoint said label to create a distraction, add fuel via lies and light the touch paper, then wait for the required reaction. The argument is it should be 50-50 by non thinkers, using John Hopkins math, forgetting despite the culling of whites and the increase in immigration, this country is still 63% white. This level of programming we have warned of for some time now, I am not sure people grasped where it was going at first. Is THI a white supremacist show? all about the white race? some will have asked. Yet how many other shows highlight the plights or defend the rights of the tens of dozens of countries, it's peoples, of all colors and even religions? But, no matter which color you are, I suspect all are now seeing the stark truth of the matter. They are running a program, using all colors and labels to fulfill an agenda that has been passed down for at least 110K years, as FRWL 1 stated, the question is, what are we going to do about it?

Another example of I am offended by everything even though it is not offensive, because if truth is offensive to overly sensitive people, you know what? the offended people are the problem. People go to great lengths now to find offense even when there is none, humor a system breaker of the algorithm games, now turned into offending something or someone. A teacher has been struck off for two years for writing a humorous but truthful article about his schools prom in Denbigh, North Wales. In one article titled "The Problem With Prom", he called the event "a shallow, vacuous affair, about nothing more than who has spent the most on looking nice." He wrote that the girls often ended up looking like a cross between "Eastern European prostitutes" and "Kardashian clones" and said boys at the bash "snorted coke". He also mocked pupils and their parents for making so much effort for the school prom, by spending sums they could not afford on gowns and make-up. Referring to poorly applied fake tans, he wrote "the literacy was so poor they can't read the instructions". Mr Price referred to "overweight girls being shoehorned into gowns and paraded through the town like cattle". He said the "proms mean more to them than GCSEs". I am sorry but all those statements are true, it is the same in this country, parents overspending to out do other parents, and who gains? the system. If children are overweight, that is the responsibility of the person and their parents, it is not offensive to say someone is overweight when the facts speak for themselves. Fake tans look ridiculous look at Trump with his orange tan, why would you wish to look like a tangerine? is it offensive or embarrassing now to look white? ponder on that last statement, because that is a program. Chairman Steve Powell said the comments "were critical, they were disrespectful, they were likely to cause offence to any pupil or parent who came across the article". No, Mr. Powell they are only offensive to people who cannot face the truth, and sanctimonious people who get offended by everything, that it becomes a profession in and of itself, these people are professional none truther's with zero humor.

There has been much speculation in the alt media of groups declaring themselves as Governments, via Assemblies, is there any factual evidence these types of Government exist? An assembly is related to the church which fits in with why Anna Von Reitz espouses it, but it originated also with the French Revolution, which was pushed and financed by the Rothschild's. One has to ask whether the church or the Rothschild's have ever done anything beneficial for the people? The reality is, if you have significant combined numbers of people all working together, you can call or create whatever Government you like, I feel we just need more and better input into and from the current one. The names of it don't matter, it is how it is implemented and operated that is our concern. What Are the Different Types of Governments? Here's a rundown of the various forms of government, with definitions provided by "The World Factbook." Absolute monarchy - a form of government where the monarch rules unhindered, i.e., without any laws, constitution or legally organized opposition. Anarchy - a condition of lawlessness or political disorder brought about by the absence of governmental authority. Authoritarian - a form of government in which state authority is imposed onto many aspects of citizens' lives. Commonwealth - a nation, state or other political entity founded on law and united by a compact of the people for the common good. Communist - a system of government in which the state plans and controls the economy and a single -- often authoritarian -- party holds power; state controls are imposed with the elimination of private ownership of property or capital while claiming to make progress toward a higher social order in which all goods are equally shared by the people (i.e., a classless society). Confederacy (Confederation) - a union by compact or treaty between states, provinces or territories that creates a central government with limited powers; the constituent entities retain supreme authority over all matters except those delegated to the central government. Constitutional - a government by or operating under an authoritative document (constitution) that sets forth the system of fundamental laws and principles that determines the nature, functions and limits of that government. Constitutional democracy - a form of government in which the sovereign power of the people is spelled out in a governing constitution. Constitutional monarchy - a system of government in which a monarch is guided by a constitution whereby his/her rights, duties, and responsibilities are spelled out in written law or by custom. Democracy - a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people, but which is usually exercised indirectly through a system of representation and delegated authority periodically renewed. Democratic republic - a state in which the supreme power rests in the body of citizens entitled to vote for officers and representatives responsible to them. Dictatorship - a form of government in which a ruler or small clique wield absolute power (not restricted by a constitution or laws). That is what is required now, a small clique of common sense, future thinking and all inclusive people. Ecclesiastical - a government administrated by a church. Emirate - similar to a monarchy or sultanate, a government in which the supreme power is in the hands of an emir (the ruler of a Muslim state); the emir may be an absolute overlord or a sovereign with constitutionally limited authority. Federal (Federation) - a form of government in which sovereign power is formally divided -- usually by means of a constitution -- between a central authority and a number of constituent regions (states, colonies or provinces) so that each region retains some management of its internal affairs; differs from a confederacy in that the central government exerts influence directly upon both individuals as well as upon the regional units. Federal republic - a state in which the powers of the central government are restricted and in which the component parts (states, colonies, or provinces) retain a degree of self-government; ultimate sovereign power rests with the voters who chose their governmental representatives. Islamic republic - a particular form of government adopted by some Muslim states; although such a state is, in theory, a theocracy, it remains a republic, but its laws are required to be compatible with the laws of Islam. Maoism - the theory and practice of Marxism-Leninism developed in China by Mao Zedong (Mao Tse-tung), which states that a continuous revolution is necessary if the leaders of a communist state are to keep in touch with the people. Marxism - the political, economic and social principles espoused by 19th century economist Karl Marx; he viewed the struggle of workers as a progression of historical forces that would proceed from a class struggle of the proletariat (workers) exploited by capitalists (business owners), to a socialist "dictatorship of the proletariat," to, finally, a classless society -- Communism. Marxism-Leninism - an expanded form of communism developed by Vladimir Lenin from doctrines of Karl Marx; Lenin saw imperialism as the final stage of capitalism and shifted the focus of workers' struggle from developed to underdeveloped countries. Monarchy - a government in which the supreme power is lodged in the hands of a monarch who reigns over a state or territory, usually for life and by hereditary right; the monarch may be either a sole absolute ruler or a sovereign - such as a king, queen or prince - with constitutionally limited authority. Oligarchy - a government in which control is exercised by a small group of individuals whose authority generally is based on wealth or power. Parliamentary democracy - a political system in which the legislature (parliament) selects the government - a prime minister, premier or chancellor along with the cabinet ministers - according to party strength as expressed in elections; by this system, the government acquires a dual responsibility: to the people as well as to the parliament. Parliamentary government (Cabinet-Parliamentary government) - a government in which members of an executive branch (the cabinet and its leader - a prime minister, premier or chancellor) are nominated to their positions by a legislature or parliament, and are directly responsible to it; this type of government can be dissolved at will by the parliament (legislature) by means of a no-confidence vote or the leader of the cabinet may dissolve the parliament if it can no longer function. Parliamentary monarchy

- a state headed by a monarch who is not actively involved in policy formation or implementation (i.e., the exercise of sovereign powers by a monarch in a ceremonial capacity); true governmental leadership is carried out by a cabinet and its head - a prime minister, premier or chancellor - who are drawn from a legislature (parliament). Presidential - a system of government where the executive branch exists separately from a legislature (to which it is generally not accountable). Republic - a representative democracy in which the people's elected deputies (representatives), not the people themselves, vote on legislation. Socialism - a government in which the means of planning, producing and distributing goods is controlled by a central government that theoretically seeks a more just and equitable distribution of property and labor; in actuality, most socialist governments have ended up being no more than dictatorships over workers by a ruling elite. Sultanate - similar to a monarchy, a government in which the supreme power is in the hands of a sultan (the head of a Muslim state); the sultan may be an absolute ruler or a sovereign with constitutionally limited authority. Theocracy - a form of government in which a Deity is recognized as the supreme civil ruler, the Deity's laws are interpreted by ecclesiastical authorities (bishops, mullahs, etc.); a government subject to religious authority. Totalitarian - a government that seeks to subordinate the individual to the state by controlling not only all political and economic matters, but also the attitudes, values and beliefs of its population. Given the names and descriptions of that list, it seems America is in about 10 different categories. There are benefits within several of those Governments even in Communism, providing it is ran in the right way. The goal for we the people is to come up with a viable alternative that works solely for the benefit of all people.

Apparently this is an assignment for a book called The Giver. It is an aptitude test and a clever data collection for the system to decide our future path. People have to future think on this, this is an example of how to think different, and also define and overcome their spellcasting. Answering questions in the yes and no is duality, what about your choice? That is the triality of any question format. 1. They ask you are you a giver, most will answer yes, but the answer back is, giver of what? What if someone gave you syphilis, herpes or flu is that an example of giving? 2. It is better to be a part of a community than to be an individual? trick question again, and again requires a question back, what community are you referring to, because until you establish the community they are espousing, you cannot answer this question fairly. 3. People should only live a standard amount of time? again this is another question back, as three questions running they have not defined the description of the question. Most are forced into thinking they have to answer yes or no, but if you answer yes, and they make the decision of longevity for you, what if they say 49 years? Because the system needs less people over 50 now as they take from the system, ignoring the fact it was people over that age that funded the system. 4. Memories and emotions just make life more complicated and are not needed? more subtle question that is asked to define your state and thinking process. city of light pill. 5.

Consistency is much more important than freedom, again not define what is consistency referring to? rice pudding? gravy? 6. Citizens who break rules should not be part of society anymore? again asking for a yes and no, when no boundaries or definitions are proffered, what are the rules? is the question back. 7. Individuals should not make their own decisions, others should make decisions for them? oh dear, finding out whether you think for yourself (minority) or those who are non thinking and want others to think and do everything for them, as they have not developed beyond childhood. 8. Families should be limited in the amount of children they have? my answer would be yes as anything over 4 is excessive and not conducive to the growth of all children, and yes particularly bloodline families. 9. It would be great if climate is controlled and even all the time? again trick question, they have not determined what climate is being set or what is even? 1. means you give to them, 2. A hive minded smart city 3. eugenics and euthanasia 4. cold unemotional bots 5. Consistently lying to the people and people dependent on it. 6. Hunger Games analogy 7, a repeat of five they know better and you just have to follow them 8. sterilization and Governments deciding who can and cant have children 9. their next money maker to harvest the rest of the funds. This is people being guided to think for them and their agenda, this is their Orwellian world.

I have warned our members about Sacha Stone, not his real name, his dodgy links to bloodline families, infamous Bali retreats and others, but here is part of another expose on him. During Sacha Stone's Total Disclosure Podcast, I showed you receipts and testimonies. In this chapter, the focus moves towards Sacha's handler. Ciro Orsini was born on January 1st, 1965, in Naples, Italy. He's not only a known restaurant owner but also a proud member of the Orsini papal bloodline. The records on Sacha's companies show the same names for the last thirty years. This friendship is a very long, and fruitful relationship. Ciro Orsini and his family all appear not only as former managers of Sacha's failed rock band, but also as part of the Mosaic Federation. The federation receives a percentage of the ITNJ donations. Not sure whether this is connected but Mosaic is also a new channel, and describes itself as, mosaic is Jewish Federation's TV news magazine exploring timely issues affecting the local and global communities, all names involved in it are Jewish and includes the pedophile family connected with Nxium, The Bronfmans. So, in essence, money donated by people like you and me goes to Orsini and his criminal enterprise. Ciro Jr appears as the listed rep for the "Ciro Orsini and Armand Assante Children's Fund." The Papal Bloodlines are the secret, shadow hierarchy of the Jesuit Order even behind the Black Pope. These powerful bloodlines are the Breakspear, Somaglia, Orsini, Farnese, and Aldobrandini. These five dominating families unite with the Borgia, Chigi, Colonna, Conti, Este, Medici, Pallavicini, and Pamphili to form the ancient 13th Saturnalian bloodlines. The most powerful man right now is none other than the Grey Pope and King of Rome: Pepe Orsini. With the next Total Disclosure podcast, I will expose Orsini's Illuminati mafia connections. I will also talk about Jill Weatherwax, Orsini's former "sugar baby" who was murdered under mysterious circumstances. I also expose Orsini's human trafficking operation and the secret societies he supplies sex slaves to.

This is a portion of a classified document that details the hidden underworld of the Military and their Research centers for warfare purposes. It outlines the staggering secrecy of it all, the staggering costs of it all, both of which the American public are oblivious too. The sheer evil ways these people operate within and by, this the US death and war machine cult at it's worst. Summary of events and problems, US Chemical Army Corps October 1957. Scientists attending meetings from Chemical Warfare Laboratories, Engineering Command, Dugway Proving grounds(Area 52), Biological Warfare Laboratories, Material Command, Chemical Corps board and Chemical Corps school contributed 13 papers. Mr. William G. Tank of Dugway Proving grounds, received one of the three $500 awards for outstanding papers, his papers being Downwind dosage equations. Dr. Arthur J. Dziemian, Chemical warfare laboratories, received one of the six $300 prizes. Dr. Dziemian's paper was entitled, Wound Ballistic Assessment of bullets. Four other chemical corps scientists, R. M Acker, R.W Hartmeyer, R. H McQuain and H.S Greenfield were awarded certificates for achievement. All in all Chemical corps papers received 4 awards out of 22, an excellent showing. (Badges and awards for death again) Technical Operations: V Agents. The corps placed major emphasis on the development of a class of compounds known as the V Agents. The V agents, discovered in 1954, are very most prominent potential agents, that have appeared since the Germans found the G Agents in the 1930's. G or GB agents are the nerve gas Sarin. These compounds judging by animal tests, are slightly more toxic than GB when inhaled, approximately 50 times more toxic when absorbed through the skin from a cloud, and several hundred times more toxic when absorbed through the skin from liquid droplets. It is this percutaneous toxicity that makes the compounds particularly important, since a mask alone will not protect the soldier. He will need protective clothing, protective ointments, and if contaminated with V Agents, prompt medical attention. The agents that have been given the most attention are given below, with their EA (Edgewood Arsenal) number and Chemical Corps symbols. EA 508 - VG - 0, 0 - diethyl- S -2- di-ethyl-amino-ethyl- phosphoro-thiolate EA 511 - VP - 3 - pyridyl- 3, 3, 5 - trim-ethyl-cyclo-hexyl methyl-phosphonate EA 1517 -VE - 0- ethyl-S-2 (2 di-ethyl-amino-ethyl - ethyl phosphono-thiolate EA 1664 - VM - 0- ethyl-S (2 - diethylaminoethyl methyl phosphonothiolate EA 1677 - VS - 0- ethyl-S (2- di-iso-propyl-amino-ethyl) ethyl phosphonothiolate EA 1701 - VX - 0- ethyl-S (2- di-iso-propyl-amino-ethyl) methyl phosphonothiolate In February 1957 the Research and Development Command selected the VX as the agent upon which to concentrate on. The chemical Warfare Laboratories however continued their investigations of the V agents, under the possibility that one or more compounds superior to VX might be found. The V Agents evaporate more slowly than the G Agents or mustard gas. The volatility of VX resembles that of lubricating oil, as a consequence the compounds will probably be disseminated as liquid droplets. As airborne clouds or in munitions, especially designed to penetrate clothing and allow the liquid to reach the skin. Droplets from spray tanks can contaminate equipment, buildings, vegetation, the ground and unsheltered soldiers. Airborne clouds in which the particles must be large enough to impact effectively on the skin, but small enough to not settle out, can find their way into buildings and field fortifications. The dissemination of V agents has required the establishment of new techniques and means of valuation. For example, technicians must determine the most suitable particle size, taking into consideration the rate at which clouds will travel, the absorption through clothing and skin, and so on, and then try to adjust munitions to provide particles of the desired size. The Corps has been studying the dispersion of the V Agents, by the so called self dispersing bomblets, which can be dropped from aircraft or guided missiles. To handle the problems that will arise in the testing and evaluations of the V agents, Dugway Proving ground organized a V Agent team in April 1957. The V Agents are similar to GB in general physiological action. Casualties caused by aerosol or liquid agents may occur within hours or minutes, depending on the amount that comes in contact with the soldier. If the soldier should happen to inhale the V Agents, he would be a casualty in a few minutes. The indicated treatment for the V Agents is the same as for the G Agents, that is, by injections of atropine and artificial respiration. Laboratory experiments indicated that M5 ointments is as effective against V as it is against mustard. The Corps endeavored to improve its ointments to provide better protection against both G and V Agents. As is the case with V Agents, a field alarm and an area scanning alarm are extremely important for the rapid detection of V Agents. The Corps have been developing the possibility of using LOPAIR (Long Path Infrared) equipment originally developed for G Agents and V Agent detection. While the standard mask is sufficient protection against vapor borne V Agents, standard protective clothing is less satisfactory. One of the problems facing the personnel engaged in the development of protective items is the design of clothing, which will give soldiers much more protection against the new agents. During the year the Corps prepared to produce V Agents in Chemical Corps plants. The method of production and raw materials needed in the other technical services to be reduced by attrition. Dispersed stockage locations were reduced from 28 to 19 during 1957 without the expense of inter depot shipment.

Toxic planning and Production: On July 1st 1956 the Chemical Corps Phosphate Development works (PDW) at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, was transferred from the Chemical Corps Engineering Command to the Chemical Corps Materiel Command. PDW manufactured dichloro, formerly dichlor the intermediate product for the manufacture of GB Nerve Gas by the dimethyl hydrogen phosphite process. Engineering Command assigned a project engineer to the supervision of Phosphorous Oxychloride Reduction facility, where the only remaining principal production problem remained to be solved. This facility which reduced Production Step III by product Phosphorous Oxychloride to step I raw material, Phosphorous Trichloride, had never been able to keep pace either with the amount of the material requiring reduction, or with demands for raw material. During 1957 optimum operating conditions for reduction furnaces using modified refractory furnace lining were established, in the Phosphorous Oxychloride Reduction Facility. Data thus collected permitted calculation of a predictable furnace run of a 100 days, at an average reduction rate of 50 tons per day, which would support a 100 tons per day production rate of dichloro. Such maximum performance represented full operation of the plant, without the necessity for sale of Phosphorous Oxychloride to private industry. Other production accomplishments at PDW, included the installation of a vacuum jet system to replace centrifugal vacuum pumps in step I, and the operation of the entire plant on production capability runs at a rate exceeding mobilization objectives. The jet system allowed operation of step I at peak rates of 77 tons per day, at qualities as high as 92.5%. The production capability runs demonstrated that dichloro production rates, of 75 tons or better were possible in sustained production. A 45 ton per day rate was considered acceptable for round out purposes. Round out of the facility at Rocky Mountain Arsenal, where the last two steps of the agent production process take place was substantially complete in the first quarter of the fiscal year 1957. There were no significant production difficulties although modification of equipment, major and minor repair work, and maintenance work proceeded throughout the year. Demands did not require Agent production on a sustained basis, but production during the 2nd and 3rd quarters was 6,055,877 pounds of Agent at a yield of 88.3% for the 2nd quarter and 91.77% for the third quarter. (6 Millions pounds of toxic agents in just 6 months, where did all these toxic agents go?) During the second quarter the plant operated at 85.4%, and the 3rd quarter 90.2% of the available time, notably exceeding the sustained run of the fiscal year 1956, when the plant was inoperable 17.7% of the available time. The average feed rate for the 2nd quarter was 170%, and for the 3rd quarter 197.6% of the round out schedule. Two peaks of 240% feed rate was attained, the sustained rates and the peaks were a clear indication of high mobilization potential. Enlisted scientific and Professional Personnel made significant contributions, to production and operations accomplishments both at Muscle Shoals and at Rocky Mountain Arsenal. The two waste disposal facilities planned at Rocky Mountain Arsenal in 1956, were put into operation during 1957, the evaporative waste disposal lake on October 27th, and the chlorine plant reduction of by product hydrochloric acid during the 2nd quarter production run. Both methods of disposal were successful, although there was storm damage to the lake during the year. As of the end of the year plans were being made to designate the chlorine plant, as an operating adjunct of the GB plant. Agent produced during fiscal year 1957 and that carried over from the fiscal year 1956, was used to fill ton containers, M360 shells and M121 shells. Production to meet total requirements for these purposes was near completion at the end of the fiscal year. An attempt to revise these requirements to provide for, a larger mobilization agent stockpile was not successful. The principal problem was that there has been no basic agreement, on a basic day of supply for toxic munitions. The Assistant Chief Chemical Officer for Planning and Doctrine was working to establish the criteria for day of supply calculation at the end of the fiscal year, but, meanwhile, the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics ordered the cessation of Agent production in early 1958, since Budget supported force requirements would be met. During 1957 a new Agent was being considered for production. The Chief Chemical Officer, on the advice of a committee appointed to consider V Agent production plans, directed that the target for operation of a continuous process, ten ton per day V Agent production plant be moved up from June 1962 to January 1960. Slightly more than $36M was requested from higher authority for the accomplishment of this goal. (Who is the higher authority one must ask.) As of the end of the fiscal year the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics had directed $29.9M of this sum, representing actual construction of the plant, be deferred from fiscal year 1958 to fiscal year 1959 programming. (A Fiscal year runs September to September). It was expected that a reconsideration of this decision would be requested early in fiscal year in 1958.

There was a discussion this week about who are top of the tree in terms of the control system. Of course in the past until it was decimated before our Ambassador took her role, it was the Draco, The Parents, The Covens and then Illuminati or the several other names they went by. The Illuminati are the low level puppets, always were, so are the Club of Rome, Bilderbergers, Trilateral Group, Committee of 300, Le Cercle, CIA, DIA & GIA, throw in your think tanks like Tavistock, Harvard, Yale, Princeton of which you will find all politicians or prominent people have engaged with and in, all of them are puppets to the old system. The Illuminati disbanded and broke into factions, of which there was 5 or 6, but those 5 or 6 all had the two main groups of factions within their faction, the Rothschild and the Black Sun. They install their people in all areas so they always win. But lets not forget, the top of the tree was cut down, and so now all these puppets, none of which have a clue, as there is no direction from the top anymore, now these people and entities think they are the top of the tree. What they fail to realize is, that the tree was cut down to a rotting stump, and being fed on by the insects, oh the irony. The giant tree of life, theirs was the Kaballah tree, the tree of Da'ath/death, it was so big, it stifled all growth in the surrounding forest. You're riding the endless caravan bonded and sold as a slave, or thrive within and of your own sovereignty. Sleep with the devil and then you must pay, sleep with the devil the devil will take you away, or you observe but not absorb and dance within. Let go of your self made prison bars and set yourself free. In nature there is no void, new growth must arise, we the people are that new growth, we are the saplings, we are not the phoenix from the ashes, we are the eagles that soar from above, we are the butterflies emerging from the caterpillar. We have to plant the seeds of growth, and allow all to grow at the same time, so the forest blooms again in harmony with each other and nature. You want climate change? you want Environmental change? we the people are both. You change the climate by changing the peoples energy fields, you change the Environment by becoming the forest of growth, and living in harmony.

The question is will you stand watching the rotten stump decay and we all die with it, or plant your new seeds of growth? Choose wisely.
