This coming Tuesday will reveal Part 7 of our From Russia with Love Plus series, it will be at the usual time and it will reveal much. A family is thrown off a Spirit Airlines flight from Orlando to NY because their two-year-old child is eating without a mask what short bus special types of adults did that? An effort to dim the sun to stop global warming has been scrapped by the Swedish Space Agency, who announced that the program, funded by Bill Gates, has 'divided the scientific community' and will therefore not be carried out. About time someone blotted out the sun to Bill Gates permanently imo. Perhaps throw him in one of the underground bunkers on Epstein Island and throw away the key. As the fake state of Israel yet again tries to plunge the world into WW3 by attacking an Iranian cargo ship again, perhaps that is linked to the over publicized story of the Ever Given ship blocking the Suez canal recently? Yet more clowning by the pariah state, that holds the world to hostage, backbone is required to deal with them and their weakened and in parts defunct old system games. A major doctor revealed in a detailed report that Covid is a vascular disease not respiratory, and the chart revealed smokers were less likely to die or suffer from it. Oops. So now a smoke a day keeps the Covid away, as well as reps, it also creates nitric oxide which is beneficial and prevents lung cancer. Well I never. As the icebergs circle and the life force ebbs away, the life rafts offered were all refused, and the icy plunge continues unabated. Any help from the others has now dissipated, and that renders the plunder pile mute. To have a rice dish served cold, you needed to carefully select your meat and veg, dangling carrots over it will not suffice anymore. The US media has been banned from going to or filming the Mexican border, they have also been banned from filming the concentration camps ran by agency private contractors. I find it mildly amusing and annoying, that Trump was called a White supremacist and fascist, yet the current government are being more fascist by the day. Why are they banning it? they are telling you they are covering something up, just like the Covid narrative. Yes, it is annoying, but what a victory for the alt media that is, they are publicly admitting now that A: we were correct and B: they have lost the narrative. Texas Governor Abbott opened up his state at full capacity and dropped the mask mandate in early March. Joe Biden trashed Texas and said the governor was engaging in "Neanderthal thinking." Fauci also ripped Texas, "It just is inexplicable why you would want to pull back now, ". It has been more than one month since Texas has been fully opened and Covid cases are dropping. Fauci was caught flat-footed when confronted about Texas cases dropping so he just said, "It can be confusing, because ... often you have to wait a few weeks before you see the effect ... I'm not really quite sure. It could be they're doing things outdoors." So, if Texans go outdoors Covid cases drop, when Gestapo style cops and officials have corralled people inside for a year, Fauci admits dropping cases in Texas, is due to people doing things outside. All fines for people due to the ridiculous sanctions imposed on people, should be reversed and paid back after that Fauci statement. On April 12th the UK will partially open for business. Pubs and restaurants serving outside can reopen as planned next Monday, along with non-essential shops, gyms and hairdressers, as England's lockdown is further eased, the PM has said. "Pubs and restaurants serving outside can reopen", does anyone ask why it can open outside and not inside? given for the past 12 months the Government have been telling you to not go outside and stay inside. Now they tell you that you can go outside but not inside? confused yet, you better be, it is the other worlds attempt at continued rank stupidity. A report has come out from Amnesty International, that was damning about the current global crisis, but I will highlight one paragraph. In the report Amnesty takes the opportunity to direct harsh criticism at some of the world's leaders. The organization writes that: the handling in many countries "was characterized by opportunism and total contempt for human rights" where politicians wanted to silence critics.

Remember this statement, as other statements have a tendency to slide. The U.S. government won't issue so-called vaccine passports, White House Press Secretary Jen Psaki said. "The government is not now, nor will we be, supporting a system that requires Americans to carry a credential," Psaki told reporters at the White House on Tuesday. "There will be no federal vaccinations database and no federal mandate requiring everyone to obtain a single vaccination credential." Perhaps the use of the word Federal might be a future cop out, by saying it is non Federal? you know how these people twisted words and sentences.

Two Dublin women have been charged with refusing to go into hotel quarantine after arriving home from Dubai. Kirstie McGrath, 30, of St Anthony's Road, Rialto, and Niamh Mulready, 25, of Scarlet Row, Essex Street West, were arrested at Dublin Airport on Friday. Their solicitor said his clients were not aware of the regulations before they travelled to Dubai for breast augmentation surgery. The women were remanded in custody with consent for bail. They appeared at Tallaght District Court on Saturday, charged with resisting going into mandatory quarantine under the Health Act 2021. Under the rules, people arriving into the Republic of Ireland from a list of 33 countries deemed to be of high Covid-19 risk, or people who land without having recently tested negative for the virus must stay in quarantine for 14 days. The solicitor representing both women said his clients would be challenging the constitutionality of the legislation. He said that being remanded in custody would be disproportionate, given the offence they are charged with carries a maximum prison sentence of one month. The court heard Ms McGrath has two children aged six and 10, and Ms Mulready has a seven-year-old child, and they had refused to go into quarantine as they needed to look after their children. Identical bail conditions were set for both women, with each required to provide €800 (£680), and lodge €500 in cash. An independent surety of €2,000, of which €1,800 would be in cash and €200 was to be frozen in each of the women's bank accounts, was also required by the court. Both were required to surrender their passports and submit themselves to state-approved quarantine on their release. They will be required to stay there for two weeks, although they will be able to leave after 10 days if they can provide a negative PCR test. Fascism in your face as we warned near 12 months ago, people ignoring it until it all unfolded is the real problem.

The former crown prince of Jordan is accused of trying to mobilize tribal leaders against the government, the country's deputy prime minister says. Prince Hamzah bin Hussein worked with "foreign entities" to destabilize the state, Ayman Safadi said. The prince had earlier released two videos to the BBC, claiming he was being held under house arrest. He denied conspiracy, but accused Jordan's leaders of corruption and incompetence. Sixteen people, including a former adviser to King Abdullah and another member of the royal family, were arrested on Saturday for allegedly threatening security. In his videos, Prince Hamzah, the king's half-brother, said he had been told he could not go out or communicate with people. The move is thought to follow a visit by the prince to tribal leaders, where he is said to have garnered some support. His mother, American-born Queen Noor, has said she is praying for what she called innocent victims of "wicked slander". The prince is accused of seeking to mobilize "clan leaders" against the government. Isn't that what all opposition political groups do, it is what Republicans will do in 4 years time is it not? But is that any also different to lobbyists? How come lobbyists get a free reign to carry out what they like, but a person or group wishing to do the same is declared, a radical, terrorist or a despot? It is about time all countries moved away from these incestuous monarch style closed shop ruler-ships, and give the power back to the people.

A Trump-era plan to cut food stamps is now off the table, after the Biden administration said, it is abandoning a previous plan to tighten work requirements for working-age adults without children. Those restrictions were projected to deny federal food assistance benefits to 700,000 adults, a proposal that had had drawn strong condemnation from anti-hunger advocates. The U.S. Department of Agriculture on March 24 said it is withdrawing a Trump administration appeal of a federal court ruling, that had blocked the planned restrictions on the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), better known as food stamps. Trump officials had filed the appeal in May, two months after the corona virus pandemic had shuttered the economy and caused millions of people to lose their jobs. Not quite, Trump closed the economy not the virus. Hunger and food insecurity around the U.S. have surged during the pandemic, with 41.4 million people enrolled in SNAP as of November, up 13% from February 2020 before the public health crisis, according to the latest data available from the USDA. Despite that increase, the Trump administration had told CBS Money Watch last year that it believed imposing tighter restrictions on food stamps was "the right approach." Typical party politics of look we are the party of the people approach, the reality is neither party is interested one iota in the people, they are self serving puppets to the system, and if that was not true, life would be better for millions of more people.

Five organizations with ties to Hindu supremacist and religious groups have received COVID-19 relief funding amounting to $833,000, according to data released by the United States' Small Business Administration (SBA), a federal agency that helps small business owners and entrepreneurs. SBA gave the funds as part of its Corona virus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act's Economic Injury Disaster Loan Advance (EIDLA), Disaster Assistance Loan (DAL) and Paycheck Protection Program (PPP). All three programmes aimed to provide economic relief to distressed businesses, and keep their workforce employed during the COVID-19 crisis in the worst-hit nation in the world. Vishwa Hindu Parishad of America Massachusetts-based Vishwa Hindu Parishad of America (VHPA) received more than $150,000 under PPP, and a further $21,430 under EIDLA and DAL programmes. VHPA's Indian counterpart, Vishwa Hindu Parishad (VHP), was designated as a religious militant organization by the World Factbook of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) for years. VHP is an affiliate of Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), a far-right Hindu nationalist organization formed in 1925 along the lines of hardline nationalist groups in Europe, which aims to create an ethnic Hindu-majority state in India. RSS is the ideological mentor of India's governing Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and boasts of having Prime Minister Narendra Modi among millions of its members across India. Ekal Vidyalaya Foundation of USA Ekal Vidyalaya Foundation of USA, an organisation affiliated with the RSS, obtained direct payment of $7,000 and a loan of $64,462 under PPP. Through its network of schools mainly in India's tribal and rural areas, Ekal Vidyalaya has been accused of spreading the RSS agenda of Hindu supremacy and of promoting anti-minority hate among young children. Infinity Foundation Infinity Foundation, another Hindu nationalist organisation with ties to the RSS, received $51,872 in US federal funds in the wake of the corona virus pandemic according to SBA data. Infinity Foundation's founder Rajiv Malhotra, a right-wing author, is often referred to as the "Ayn Rand of Internet Hindutva", as the Hindu nationalist movement is known as. Malhotra, 70, has been accused of targeting academics and scholars critical of right-wing Hindu groups and issuing divisive statements. He has also faced accusations of plagiarism, though that did not stop him from being appointed an honorary professor at the prestigious Jawaharlal Nehru University in New Delhi. Hindu American Foundation Of the five organisations, the Hindu American Foundation (HAF), a Washington-based advocacy group co-founded by former VHPA activist Mihir Meghani, received the lion's share of federal funds with $378,064 in PPP loans and another $10,000 in EIDLA. HAF lobbies to deflect any criticism of Modi government's policies on Capitol Hill, the most recent being its vehement defence of the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA), which the United Nations described as "fundamentally discriminatory", and India's scrapping of the special constitutional status of Indian-administered Kashmir – both in 2019. Make America great again indeed, what a load of bollox that meme is, 4 years on there sadly is zero evidence to support that notion. And what is worse is, there was a massive increase in aid going out of America to special interest groups, largely to weaken America, not make it great again. We need aid in this country badly, there are few jobs, an aging population, a GDP rate plunging, foreclosures rising, bankruptcies rising, infrastructure collapsing, standard of living plummeting, manufacturing almost gone, exports drastically lower than imports due to rogue trade deals, and vast amounts of our funds spent on a war machine that delivers zero benefits for the American people.

The first witness in Benjamin Netanyahu's corruption trial has said, he was told to make negative stories about the Israeli PM "disappear". Former Walla CEO Ilan Yeshua alleged he was also ordered by the news website's owner, Shaul Elovitch, to post content that attacked Mr Netanyahu's rivals. Prosecutors said Mr Netanyahu made regulatory decisions worth hundreds of millions of dollars to Mr Elovitch in return for favorable coverage. Both men have denied any wrongdoing. The prime minister, who is being tried on charges of bribery, fraud and breach of trust in connection with three separate cases, dismissed the hearing as a "charade" and accused the prosecution of a "coup attempt". He has been indicted in three cases, known as 1,000, 2,000 and 4,000: Case 1,000 - Fraud and breach of trust: he is accused of receiving gifts - mainly cigars and bottles of champagne - from powerful businessmen in exchange for favors. Case 2,000 - Fraud and breach of trust: Mr Netanyahu is accused of offering to help improve the circulation of Israeli newspaper Yediot Ahronot in exchange for positive coverage. Case 4,000 - Bribery, fraud and breach of trust: As PM and minister of communications at the time of the alleged offence. Mr Netanyahu is accused of promoting regulatory decisions favorable to Shaul Elovitch, the controlling shareholder in Israeli telecom giant Bezeq, in exchange for positive coverage by Mr Elovitch's Walla news site. The crimes this country has committed goes way beyond one person, who let us not forget is not an Israeli, but a Russian Jew. His real name is Milokowski. Out of the same line of people who ransacked Russia over a hundred years ago, now ransacking the Middle East and America to boot.

A senior Haredi rabbi has reportedly given his backing to a potential Israeli government alliance with the United Arab List party, which has now become a potential kingmaker after Israel's inconclusive election this March. Chaim Kanievsky, who is considered a leading authority in the Jewish Orthodox community, gave an affirmative answer when asked about the possibility of, the Israeli right forming a coalition with Israeli Arab parties. The 93-year-old cleric and spiritual leader of the United Torah Judaism party, pointed out that the ultra-Orthodox and Arab communities were alike in many ways. Arab parties were more likely to find common ground with religious Israelis on issues such as secularization and family values, which would make them a better ally in "preserving the Jewish tradition" than the country's left-wing political forces, Kanievsky said. The fourth election in just two years was held in Israel on March 23, but it failed to break the country's political deadlock – leaving 80% of voters unsatisfied, according to a recent poll. Neither the Jewish right-wing and religious parties who back Benjamin Netanyahu, nor the block of six centrist and leftist parties who want the long-time PM ousted, were able to gain enough Knesset seats to form a stable ruling coalition. The situation means that the four seats claimed by the pro-Palestinian United Arab List (UAL or Ra'am) party, could prove crucial in swinging the balance in favor of one of the blocs. But UAL leader Mansour Abbas appeared to be in no hurry to choose between Netanyahu and those behind his main rival, Yair Lapid. "I have not ruled anything out," Abbas said in a speech on Thursday. In a blatantly apartheid based country called Israel, one has to ask the common sense question of, how they have so called Arab parties to begin with? does that make sense? no? then it is a program.

The administration's opening volley into diplomacy with China was an international scandal that demonstrated our worst fears being realized. Instead of opening with mutual respect in public before straight-talk diplomacy behind closed doors, U.S. Secretary of State Tony Blinken and National Security Advisor Jake Sullivan went after China hard only to be embarrassed in the end. The Alaska summit was supposed to be the precursor to determine if, U.S. President Joe Biden and Chinese Communist Party General Secretary Xi Jinping should meet directly. Except the first talk between the New West and the Old East was such a disaster, it seems unlikely the two leaders will meet. Team Biden had their first big foreign policy test with China, and they failed, there's no way to spin it. Even the media is saying the whole meeting in Alaska devolved into anarchy. This meeting was supposedly to determine if President Depends is going to meet with Xi Jinping. By how things turned out, I don't think we should even consider it. Why embarrass the United States even more? Secretary of State Tony Blinken just exposed how weak we are in dealing with China, and they know it. Of course Mr. Blinken blew it, he is playing to higher orders is why, Blinken is born in and born to and so has zero interest in making America look good, like Kushner before him, he operates on behalf of Israel. When will the media and American people wake up to this in your face eroding of this country and it's peoples? We got trashed on our own soil and from the looks of it, we didn't really respond in any way, shape, or form, we got rolled in front of the cameras. There are two possibilities for this. The one that seems to be generally accepted by nearly every news outlet this morning is that, Blinken and his team overplayed their hand and made rookie mistakes by going hard at China in the public eye. It was a disastrous blunder that may have inadvertently demolished any hopes of real diplomacy between the two leaders of their respective nations. Yes, because it keeps the war lobby in dollars and shekels is why. The other possibility is this was intentional, they knew exactly what they were doing when they called out China's human rights violations, they knew exactly how China would respond. They were fully aware that this would derail efforts to bring the two most powerful world leaders together for a monumental summit, that could determine the direction of the entire planet. It all went according to plan. It is in the interest only of the Hebrew Annunaki to not make Governments co-operate, divide and conquer has always be their forte.

COVID BS: As of March 13th the latest CDC figure show 3964 dead, 162,610 injuries just in America alone. What they don't record is, the amount of people who have got Covid after receiving the vaccine. But it's safe they say, try telling that to the 3964 dead due to the vaccines or the 163K injured because of the vaccine.

Covid-19 Vaccine Astra Zeneca now renamed to Vaxzevria. Vaxzevria is a vaccine for preventing corona virus disease 2019 (COVID-19) in people aged 18 years and older. COVID-19 is caused by SARS-CoV-2 virus. Vaxzevria is made up of another virus (of the adenovirus family) that has been modified, to contain the gene for making a protein from SARS-CoV-2. Vaxzevria does not contain the virus itself and cannot cause COVID-19. The vaccine does not contain the virus, so common sense question is, if the body doesn't recognize the virus, how can it counteract a virus it doesn't know exists?

The EU has ordered 200 million doses from Johnson & Johnson plus an option for further deliveries from the 19th of April. Only one shot is needed. Only one shot is needed for what? is the great question.

The European union drugs regulator said a link between Astra Zeneca jab and a rare type of blood clot is possible. Citing 62 cases of the side effect, which forced Germany to restricted it to elder people amid growing concerns about the side effects.

Eight out of 10 medical staff in Korea who were given AstraZeneca's corona virus vaccine report systemic side effects. It was reported there was 7.2 times more adverse reactions from AstraZeneca than Pfizer jabs. There was an online survey in March among 532 medical workers who recently received their injections. Some 501 were given AstraZeneca and 31 Pfizer, and 82.7 percent complained of local reactions and 75 percent of systemic reactions. The most common side effects like swelling, skin redness and injection site pain, while systemic side effects include fevers, muscle pains, fatigue and anaphylaxis. There was 78 percent of AstraZeneca recipients showed systemic reactions compared to 32.3 percent of Pfizer recipients. But only 6.2 percent of people who were given AstraZeneca do not want the second shot, though 29.9 percent said they are undecided. In contrast, 97 percent of people who received the Pfizer injection said they want the second shot. The side effects that was reported came with the first dose of the AstraZeneca vaccine and the second dose of the Pfizer vaccine. Younger people tend to be more prone to side effects. Out of AstraZeneca recipients in their 20s, 85.5 percent showed systemic reactions, compared to 84.5 percent in their 30s, 77.7 percent in their 40s and 62.4 percent in their 50s and 60s. The results were much higher than a previous study of 18,000 people conducted by the Korea Disease Control and Prevention Agency, which showed only 32 percent reporting side effects. So, lets get this straight shall we, before the lockdowns and introduction of these techno jabs, we were told two things. 1.

Young people were immune and 2. Our own immune system worked at 99.97%. Then in came the vaccines with a maximum immune system of 90%, which for those who went to John Hopkins, that means are own immune system was a minimum of 9.97% better than any vaccine. Why would we take a vaccination, when we have a cure rate that is from 9.97% to 36.97%, better than the vaccine itself? Why since the vaccine are the youth now vulnerable to Covid all of a sudden? Does that tell you the vaccine is now giving a whole group of people, who we were told repeatedly were practically immune from the virus, are now suffering with side effects of Covid and death. The common sense deduction is, this vaccine does not work, and puts a whole generation of our children in unnecessary risk.

Geert Vanden Bossche, DMV, Ph.D., has nothing against vaccines. In fact, the independent virologist formerly worked for Gavi, The Vaccine Alliance and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. Bossche says the COVID vaccines approved so far have been developed by “just brilliant” people and he has no criticism of them. But, as he tells Dr. Phillip McMillan in an interview, “please use the right vaccine at the right place, and don’t use it in the heat of a pandemic on millions of millions of people.” Bossche says that a mass vaccination campaign in the middle of a pandemic, with vaccines that don’t prevent transmission, is disastrous at an individual, and at a global level. “We are going to pay a huge price for this, I’m becoming emotional because I’m thinking of my children, of the younger generation. I mean, it’s just impossible what we are doing, we don’t understand the pandemic.” In an open letter to the World Health Organization (WHO), Bossche wrote that “we are currently turning vaccinees into asymptomatic carriers shedding infectious variants.” Bossche hasn’t heard back from WHO, which concerns him. “It is about humanity ... I mean, it’s about your children. It’s your family. It’s my family. It’s everyone. Right. And it’s simply for me, I put everything at stake because I’ve done my homework. And this is simply a moral obligation. A moral obligation.”

“People act like they have a choice. You don't have a choice. Normalcy only returns when we've largely vaccinated the entire global population [against COVID-19].” Bill Gates (2020) Vaccines for COVID-19 are the subject of much controversy. The official narrative as of early 2020 was that at best, such a vaccine might be a year or two away, and might never be developed. An eventuality which did not stop politicians suggesting that a COVID vaccine rollout, could be a precondition for the end of the COVID lockdown. Bilderberger Jared Kushner announced Operation Warp Speed, a largely US Defense Department run vaccine rollout which promised to make "initial doses available by January 2021". Although nominally a joint effort, a significant number of military personnel is utilized in this effort. By late 2020, vaccines were being given to recipients, to much fanfare. Precedents: In the 2009 swine flu panic, some governments, among them France and Germany, bought vaccines and/or drugs (GSK's Relenza and Roche's Tamiflu) that they later destroyed. Some Third World countries showed little interest in obtaining them as gifts, as the flu turned out to be rather harmless. Doctors did not recommend vaccination at the time, the risks seemed too high compared to possible gains. German doctors believed that "the Health Department had fallen for a campaign of the Pharma Industry". Moreover, officials got a different shot than the general public; their version contained a small dose of the full genome of H1N1, whereas the rest of the population got a mix of toxic adjuvants and crippled virus parts called Pandemrix. Hmm, officials got a different shot than the general public, well I never. French MP Marisol Touraine remarks: "The French people seem to be more worried about the vaccine, than the flu!" Large scale antibody tests as preparation?: At first, politicians like Germany's Minister of Health Jens Spahn assumed, that antibody tests could act as "proof for immunity". After he met with Roche lobbyists in Penzberg, Germany, he reversed his position and echoed the WHO position. Continuing the airtight logic that "a case" constitutes a person who carries a corona virus, then anybody who is antibody-positive constitutes a 'case' - and therefore is in need for vaccination. Before 2020, before the corona virus, having antibodies did not necessarily indicate having the disease, but could also have meant, that the person has had the disease and is has now developed antibodies. Deep state operatives: Nadhim Zahawi, former Chair of Le Cercle, put in charge on 28 November 2020 of overseeing the COVID-19/Vaccine roll out in the UK. Early trials: Some serious side effects have been reported during the early trials, the candidates as of mid-2020 were: mRNA-1273: Moderna, NIAID AZD1222 (ChAdOx1 nCoV-19): Oxford University, AstraZeneca Ad5-vectored COVID-19: CanSino, Chinese military BNT162b1: BioNTech, Pfizer. Russian vaccine candidate: On 11 August 2020, Science Magazine reported that Russia had "approved" the world's first COVID-19 vaccine, as the nation's Ministry of Health issued what's called a registration certificate for a vaccine candidate that has been tested in just 76 people. The certificate allows the vaccine, developed by the Gamaleya Research Institute in Moscow, to be given to "a small number of citizens from vulnerable groups," including medical staff and the elderly. But the certificate stipulates that the vaccine cannot be used widely until 1 January 2021, presumably after larger clinical trials have been completed. Gamaleya has developed vaccines before, and Mikhail Murashko, the Russian minister of health, said in a government press release that the COVID-19 vaccine showed "high efficacy and safety" and there were no serious side effects. The same release suggested the vaccine would confer 2 years of immunity to SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19. That estimate is apparently based on vaccines Gamaleya has made with similar technology. Russian President Vladimir Putin reportedly endorsed the use of the Gam-COVID-Vac Lyo vaccine, which is dubbed "Sputnik V" saying it had "passed all necessary steps" and noting that one of his adult daughters had received it. Putin, who apparently made these comments at a government meeting, added, "I hope we can start a massive release of this vaccine soon." On 12 August 2020, It was reported that Western media had indulged in an anti-Russian frenzy to sow fear and doubt about the vaccine, based on a willful misinterpretation of the Russian announcement: "Russia has not approved a vaccine against Covid-19 and it is not skipping large-scale clinical trials." Promotion: Heavy COVID censorship was evident already by April 2020 of any dissent from the WHO's official narrative, fuelling skepticism about it, and the big pharma lobby promoting a vaccine as a mandated response to COVID-19, undermining personal sovereignty. Mandatory COVID-19 vaccination: Starting as early as March 2020, the commercially-controlled media have been stoking fear of COVID-19, and promoting the idea of mandatory Covid-19 vaccination possibly every year. Some national governments stated they were planning to mandate it for their citizens, while some others will merely make it impossible to lead normal lives for people who refuse. It is when it is rolled out as a yearly dosage the vulture capitalists invested in this will make a killing cash wise and possibly death wise also. Background to the worldwide vaccination campaign is the ID2020 campaign, to solidify social control by implementing biometric ID - also referred to as 'phase two response'. Bots in other words. Psyops: Military psyop units like Britain's 77 Brigade have been given the task to fight misinformation (aka vaccine skeptics) online. Smearing of critics: In April 2020, Novak Djokovic spoke out against mandatory vaccination because of COVID-19. In March 2021, Serbian model Natalija Scekic reported that an unnamed person from the City of London tried to get her to seduce Djokovic while a hidden camera was operating, so that he could be either smeared or sexually blackmailed. Safety: Byram Bridle, an associate professor of Viral Immunology wrote that "knowing the virus, knowing these vaccines, knowing these two areas of science, I am quite confident that it's just a matter of time before we will have a number of variants that can readily bypass this narrowly focused immunity that these vaccines confer." Even Bill Gates points out that there are risks: "So, really understanding the safety at gigantic scale across all age ranges, pregnant, male, female, undernourished, existing co-morbidities, it's very, very hard and that actual decision of OK, let's go and give this vaccine to the entire world, governments will have to be involved because there will be some risks and indemnification needed before that can be decided on." Bill Gates (May 2020) Gibraltar: Mark Crispin Miller points out that after the Pfizer / BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine was delivered to Gibraltar on 9th January 2021, the island saw a huge spike in Covid related deaths. Israel: Israel quickly vaccinated a large proportion of its citizenry in early 2021 and introduced "green pass", a so-called "vaccine passport" system restricting entry to formerly public places. Norway: Norway warned the frail elderly against having a vaccine after fatalities in January 2021. Austria: Austria suspended use of the AstraZeneca vaccine after fatalities in March 2021.

EXPOSE: This expose is another deep delve into the hidden world, of what goes on behind the scenes in war theaters and never reaches the medias doorstep to uncover. Largely because the media, as Operation Mockingbird revealed, are all ran by Intelligence Agencies at the behest of their Hebrew Annunaki Overlords. ISIS Mayhem Being Fueled by Drugs and Arms, supplied by Saudi Arabia and the CIA. It's the untold and often hidden history which underpins many of today's proxy wars, conflicts and the horrific activities of death squads the world over. The strategic dispensing of narcotics in the military theater and in guerrilla warfare, is more common than many people realize. In many cases this is the X-factor that fuels the mayhem, and terrorizes vulnerable bystanders on the ground. Aside from the traditional problem of substance abuse by the US military and others, drugs have played a pivotal role in many recent conflicts, and tend to be a feature where the US military and covert intelligence are involved. Narcotics trafficking by the military has been well-documented in US-backed wars in Vietnam and Central America, specifically with El Salvador, Nicaragua, Brazil, Columbia, to name only a few. Add in NATO's 21st century opium boom in Afghanistan, other NATO narco-wars like Yugoslavia, as well as in countless CIA-linked conflict zones featuring death squads in Iraq, Sierra Leone, Uganda, Rwanda and Angola. This issue is very real. Examples of the narco-guerrilla warfare phenomenon are numerous and well-documented. A UNICEF report explains: "Children are often deliberately brutalized in order to harden them into more ruthless soldiers. In some conflicts, children have been forced to commit atrocities against their own families. In Sierra Leone, for example, the Revolutionary United Front forced captured children to take part in the torture and execution of their own relatives, after which they were led to neighboring villages to repeat the slaughter. Elsewhere, before battle young soldiers have been given amphetamines, tranquilizers and other drugs to "increase their courage" and to dull their sensitivity to pain." Drugs are also coupled with sexual exploitation in order to help war planners retain cadres of militant recruits. These reports have been commonplace coming out of the ISIS crisis in Syria and Iraq, but has also been a fixture in other US-linked dirty wars. UNICEF adds here: "For girls, recruitment may lead to sex slavery. The report notes that in Uganda, for instance, young girls abducted by rebel forces were commonly divided up and allocated to soldiers to serve as their 'wives'. A case-study from Honduras, prepared for the Machel report, illustrates one child's experience of joining armed groups." Western destabilization merchants know well, the effects that depravity brings, when it's unleashed on poor populations through militarized violence, drugs and sexual abuse. They know that the scars will run deep and guarantee sectarian divisions for generations, allowing external powers to maintain a hand in managing the division. The CIA's Deadly Cocktail: Throughout history, where ever you find the corrupting combination of the CIA, drugs, flood a region with weapons and US-backed guerrilla warfare, the result is almost always the same, the most brutal death squads imaginable. The terrorist wave that took place in Iraq and Syria is no different. The drug of choice for ISIS and other CIA-backed terrorist confabs like Al Nusra Front, seem to be an amphetamine called Captagon. The Guardian reports: Those effects explain why fighters from most of the warring parties in the conflict, with the exception of al Qaida-linked groups, which mostly hold to a strict interpretation of Islamic law, are now said to be making extensive use of Captagon, often on night missions or during particularly grueling battles. So now, not only are Al Queda linked to the CIA, but also Al Nusra, the reality is all of the rebels and terrorists in the Middle East are CIA created and funded organizations. There is evidence of this being on a wider scale when a Saudi Arabian Prince was caught trafficking large quantities of Captagon. But because of Turkey's "look the other way" (border guard back-handers) policy, northern Syria border cities like Kobani and Raqqa serve as major international Heroin and Captagon smuggling corridors. Kurdish gangs are also a key link in the chain, helping ferry narcotics to lucrative European markets. Recently uncovered was also possible links between Dutch organized criminal gangs and Kurdish operations in northern Syria. The Gulf States, full of wealthy, non-working, disaffected youth, are also a growing drug consumer market. Judging by the usual cluelessness or willful ignorance of the mainstream media, do not expect this CIA trade secret to get very much air time in the west any time soon, they are very careful not to overtly implicate the US gravy train known as Saudi Arabia.

The Drug-Smuggling Saudi Prince and the Story of Captagon, NATO, ISIS, Libya/Syria & the Nazis. So here's a question: who remembers Gaddafi's claim back in 2011 that the jihadists and NATO-backed 'rebels' fighting to overthrow his government, were feeding young Libyan men hallucinogenic drugs to fuel their violent activity? "Bribed, drugged, and supporting the Devil..." was one of the late Gaddafi's more colorful descriptions of the armed gangs that, were terrorizing the Libyan people in early 2011. Based on subsequent evidence, that seems a rather pertinent description, and all the media commentators and journalists who made fun of him for saying it, are now the ones doing backtracking, because as it turns out, he was correct. The utter absence of proper, investigative journalism or fact-finding in regard to Libya in 2011 was utterly astounding. The police in Lebanon arrested a Saudi prince (identified by the media as Abdel Mohsen Bin Walid Bin Abdulaziz), on allegations he was attempting to smuggle two tonnes of amphetamines on his private jet, simply reinforced the reality that much of the rabid, ultra-violent jihadism we've seen from 2011 onwards has been linked to illegal drugs. The dot connector is the CIA, Mossad, Unit 8200, the fake state of Israel and the proxy Israel country known as Saudi Arabia, are all working together, committing heinous levels of crime, deaths and destruction, all at the behest of their Hebrew Annunaki Overlords. Four others were held in Beirut in what authorities described as a drug bust, conducted at the city's Rafik Hariri International Airport. In this instance, investigators said they found 40 bags of Captagon Amphetamine pills and some cocaine aboard the plane, which had been about to depart for the northern Saudi city of Hael. It turns out that arrest and story links back to Gaddafi, Libya, Syria and the rise of ISIL/Daesh. Mainstream media commentators and journalists laughed at Gaddafi in 2011, dismissing his claims as the delusions or lies of an old man trying to cling to power. Yet evidence has since emerged from the fighting in Syria, that many of the Syrian (and foreign) rebels were fueled by illicit substances. Syrian rebels have been captured and video-recorded clearly in drug-induced frenzies and altered states, whether this explains some of the depravity of many of the rebels operating in Syria (and in ISIS/ISIL) in those early stages of the Syrian Civil War (particularly in 2012/13) or whether they were just brutal, ultra-violent people anyway is difficult to say. Unbeknown to the writer of this document, those people who took the drugs became host possessed, so it is not them carrying out the ultra violence or atrocities, but the dark spirit now ensconced in the persons vessel. These are people, let's remember, that were in some cases, among other things, beheading Syrian children and leaving their headless bodies in the street. But it's worth noting that most of the very worst and most brutal crimes of the various jihadists and militants operating in Syria, occurred in the early months and the first year or so of the fighting. Which was around the time jihadists and militants were flooding into Syria from the freshly fallen Libya, in the now well-attested transfer of both weapons and jihadists that occurred in 2012, and was overseen by the CIA and the US State Department. 'Captagon', an amphetamine and psycho-stimulant said to be widely used in the Middle East but mostly unknown elsewhere, was reported to be keeping fighters (in Syria) on their feet, during grueling battles and generating money for more weapons. Evidence was starting to emerge that the brutal conflict in Syria, despite having various causes, was also being fueled by both the export and consumption of rapidly increasing quantities of illegal drugs. Again, footage exists on-line of various Islamist militants, including Al-Qaeda, in Syria or Iraq where they are noticeably deranged, their behavior and their mannerisms are visibly a type of 'mania'. Remember Abu Sakkar, the crazed Syrian rebel who was filmed ripping the heart out of a Syrian soldier and eating it? Reminiscent, it has to be said, of the 'Libyan rebels' who publicly tore out the internal organs of Libyan army soldiers in Misrata early in the 2011 uprising. All of that is evidence of host possession, the demons have taken over and to them life is another energy harvesting feeding frenzy, plus the increase in adrenaline, allows them to feed more off of the host also. This seizure of amphetamines involving the Saudi prince in Lebanon is simply the latest tell-tale incident. Also reported was a shipment of around six-million captagon pills were seized, headed for ISIS/ISIL fighters in Syria, and the accusation was being made from multiple sources, that NATO itself began production of the drug in a Bulgarian laboratory in 2011. The Bulgarian connection brings in the CIA Eastern European division which is in Bulgaria, think Neil Keenan. That shipment was capture was the very same year of the Libyan and Syrian uprisings, and that they are now also producing the drug elsewhere too. For those unfamiliar the term uprising and revolution are both now a code word for Intelligence agency based coups. There is enough evidence to suggest that these drugs have been driving much of the most ultra-violent terrorism since 2011, first in Libya, then Syria and Iraq, and that the drug has been steadily provided by agencies within NATO, Saudi Arabia and possibly other sources, from the very start. Which, if true, would provide a very different context to some of the more inhuman, shocking behavior of jihadists and extremists, including mass beheadings or, the setting alight of the Jordanian pilot, or even the sadistic rape and murder of Gaddafi himself in October 2011. These substances and their proliferation would've, in all likelihood, been intended to create manic behavior and possibly increased susceptibility to following morally-questionable orders. It seems possible that some of the particularly barbaric crimes were being committed by people on these substances. But considering how many of those who's blood-lust was deliberately amplified and utilised for the purposes of the bloody revolutions in Libya and Syria, then subsequently went and joined ISIL/Daesh either in Syria, Iraq or Libya, it tends to beg the question of whether ISIL, itself owes more to drug-induced mania than it does to religious ideas. But Gaddafi, as with most of the rest of his explanations in 2011, has been proven absolutely correct. He tried to explain right from the beginning that the Al-Qaeda leaders and operatives, were giving young men free drugs and weapons and telling them to join in, and that this was how the violent events of February 2011 unfolded so quickly and chaotically. What Gaddafi presumably didn't know was, that the terrorists were probably getting their drugs and other supplies from the various governments (certainly including Saudi Arabia), who were invested in the downfall of Gaddafi and the Libyan state (and then Assad and the Syrian state). Saudis are invested as they are the proxy country of Israel. This element of 'Captagon' in the violent jihadism from 2011 onwards (and, in turn, in the rise of ISIL/Daesh) is interesting for another reason too. You will have heard numerous people over the last year or so, compare ISIS to the Nazis or the SS in terms of their brutality and their fascistic ideology, right? One and the same group of people is why, aligned with various agency based minions. Well, a German author and researcher, Norman Ohler, recently published a book in which he revealed a new dimension to the rise of the Nazis. Specifically that Hitler's armies had carried out their "Blitzkrieg" invasions of Poland and France, while high on a version of crystal meth which kept them wide awake, feeling euphoric and invincible. Norman Ohler reveals the key strategic role of the methamphetamine-based drug, manufactured from 1937 onwards by the Nazis under the brand name of "Pervitin" and distributed among the Nazi armed forces. According to these findings, based on months of research at military archives in Germany and the United States, the Nazi leadership was well aware of Pervitin's value as stimulant during combat. After having tried it in 1939 during the invasion of Poland, the German army subsequently ordered 35 million tablets of Pervitin for soldiers before advancing on France in the spring of 1940. This invasion of France shocked the world at the time. In just four days, the radicalized and zealous Nazi forces had captured more French territory, than German troops had managed to secure in four years of the First World War. 'Pervitin', it is now claimed, helped the invading Nazis stay awake, keep going and, apparently, "feel great". It's true to say that ISIL/Daesh's 'lightning' capturing of key Iraqi cities last year also 'shocked the world' in precisely the same way, and was considered by most neutral observers as having been unprecedented. Mr Ohler of course draws no parallels between the Nazis and ISIS; his research is purely historical. He would if he understood that ISIS stands for Israeli Special Intelligence Services. Given that the rise of the so-called 'Islamic State' has certainly been a cynically manufactured event for geo-political purposes, I tend to wonder if knowledge of how the Nazi soldiers proved so effective early on, has been used as a blueprint of sorts for the early successes of the ISIL/Daesh terrorists and Islamo-

Fascists. Indeed same people, same program. The question being frequently asked last year of why the various Iraqi forces had been defeated 'so quickly' by the marauding ISIL hordes, perhaps is a little easier to answer when we consider that, those under-equipped and unprepared units found themselves under attack from hordes of insanely zealous jihadists who here high on psycho-stimulants, feeling utterly invincible and who were already known to be barbaric. The drug-induced feelings of invincibility, as with Hitler's troops and their lightning invasions, would also explain how these gangs of maniacs have been able to defeat the non-drug-taking Syrian Army and, earlier, the overwhelmed Libyan army soldiers. Gaddafi's Libyan troops had had no idea what they were up against, no idea why all these insane youth were rampaging along with Al-Qaeda and other jihadists, no idea about the drugs or about the involvement of foreign intelligence agencies, until it was too late. Which is why Libyan soldiers were initially so quickly overrun and slaughtered in those earliest incidents in 2011. Assad's Syrian troops at least had the benefit of foreknowledge because they'd watched what was happening in Libya first, which may be one of the reasons the Syrian conflict has gone on for five years, whereas the initial Libyan conflict was over in a matter of months. As for this Saudi prince and that drug bust, isn't drug-trafficking punishable by death in Saudi Arabia? Not that I condone the death penalty in any country, but if you're going to execute a teenage boy for attending a pro-democracy event when he was still technically a child, it seems to me a major drug dealer would surely have to be dealt with even more harshly. Somehow there are laws for one group and none for others. In Expose 8 show we uncovered the US Military engaged in bio warfare, which involved missile based toxic agents and also rain or cloud based toxic agents. We mentioned about a secret country club, and if you didn't believe the worlds leading artists didn't put truth and or piss takes in songs, the next song will reveal differently. Here is the excerpt reminder from that show. A secret meeting place was constructed for the MJ-12 group in Maryland and is only accessible by air. It contains full living, recreational, and other facilities for the MJ-12 group and the Jason Society. It is code named "The Country Club", the land for The Country Club was donated by the Rockefeller family. Only those with ULTRA TOP SECRET - MAJI clearances are allowed to go there. We had a fun and revealing zoom call last Friday for those who attended, and I did say I would record it, but only remembered that half way through it, anyway the key parts of it were revealed and tonight I will go over the key points of it. There was several scenarios that had the potential to play out last month, and my intuition advised me to not make any moves or plans within that month. Some were to do with Trump and some the Trustee, neither of which manifested, others were to do with dark magicians dancing again around the 21st, this was prevented. The new way of getting funds from the Trust via some slag heap, is also not valid as it stands either, and even if it is, I am not sure she will be allowed access into that town to do what she planned to do. I have seen the piles she is referring to they were there over 3 years ago, and it is unclear of who it actually belongs to. Tank's report this week confirmed it with great clarity, for those that read between the lines, plus there was two other major backtrackings from there in the past week. I guess 11 months after sacking me from the Trust position for no reason or reasoning, is now coming home to roost, but for me personally it has brought much advancements. Her talking of that is suggestive she cannot access the cash reserve assets within the system anymore, or the other physical assets either. I know both exist, I have records of one of them and also how much the Trust personally has to gain for admin fees. I wish it was different, but it is not, which leaves us with one option which has been around 5 years now, The Peoples Club. The gist of this call is to re-energize the TPC movement, that was badly stalled due to the split with the Trustee. Time has moved on near 11 months now and the promise of Trust funds coming to anyone currently is disappearing into the mist. If the Trustee couldn't get funds out with Trump, there is even less chance with the Demoncrats, they don't like her very much and have made attempts on her life in the past. We waited 4 years for Trump, Q and the Trustee to deliver, none did, despite the sterling efforts at that time of Kim, and also her team. But, waiting for 4 years for Trump to rise again, when he delivered nothing to the people in previous 4 years, is pure folly. The current administration will need to be challenged and made accountable like never before, and that applies in other countries. The need for a combined peoples group and platform now should be obvious to you all. We have no say in life or matters that affect all of our lives. We are not connected together within a tight knit community, all spread out across the internet, with similar goals but nothing concrete with which and how to go about things. This is not just for THI members and listeners, this will be open to all people, all colors, all religions and all groups to come and combine our ideas, ideals and new improved methods of going about things, in one giant community and cooperative based group. It is not a group with a figurehead, it is your group. The old system has collapsed, and what hasn't yet developed is, what we replace it with. If we don't replace it with something better, the old system will rise again and provide their system for us, and you all know how that works. We can build for the first time in history our own faction, our own empire, our own system operating in a better way than all has gone before us. We the people have never had a voice or say in anything on this planet, why? because too many were all too content to allow other to run things for them, that is adult children behavior. This group will be built upon adults being adults, future thinking, cooperative thinking and mindset, what do we need, not what we greed, a caring and sharing group that benefits the all. It is not designed to make anyone a millionaire, build their own individual empires of greed based ownership, comparative or competitive based people, none of those worked for us in the past, so why replicate it? Not much of the old system worked for us, so we are tasked with developing and creating system that does work for us, the old systems and programs all need to go. You know why the remnants of the old system continue to carry on? because we haven't stepped up and provided a viable alternative. Once we do, they are doomed forever, because once we get millions operating within the TPC and adhering to the guidelines, they cannot stop us. Because we always had the power, we have the numbers and we have a clearer path of where we are going and heading. I am asking you all to get on board fully and lets build this together, the groundwork is done, now for expansion.

To accommodate the TPC revamp this is what I am proposing and at the same time, this is the revamp of the Thinkdifferent website, there will be no more THI on that page. THI shows has it's own page now, with all the archives and links. We are introducing a new concept that in essence replaces the State groups we formed, but I am not against the State group gatherings continuing, as once this takes off, it will revert to State by State involvement again anyway. Participation in these gatherings is not dependent on joining or listening to THI anymore, it is an open group of like minded people coming together, with the goal of improving life, lives and lifestyles. This way you can encourage your friends, family and work colleagues to join in and we increase the numbers and the standing of our venture. The reason for the disconnect from THI is, there is content in our shows that goes way beyond the understanding of most in this country. One controversial subject, whatever it maybe, will be enough for a non doer to find an excuse to not participate. There are far more non doers than doers, and they seek any excuse to not do anything, these are the people who chase papers with numbers on and savior programs. A lot of work needs to go into this, the bulk of which has been on my shoulders to this point, but now I need people to step up in whatever way possible. There are the assemblies running and their validity as mentioned recently, is highly questionable at this point, and possibly illegal I am informed. I pondered on committees but that is more corporate terminology, and so came up with a new description for our groups, communal gatherings. There will be a one off subscribers fee of $2 to join the site, but we encourage all people who join to put whatever amounts they can afford in each month, that all goes into helping each other within the communal gatherings. All subscription funds will go to TPC. Communal gatherings will be your choice of participation, a chance for you to be involved with like minded people, in topics that interest you. These gatherings are designed for you all to come up with actionable events, things that can be done by us all, without waiting for funds, most of the changes we need can be done by little to no funds. Obviously we have the TPC fund, and where possible we will endeavor to continue to support members, small projects and equipment where required, based on validity and availability of funds. The idea is to increase the awareness of the Peoples Club, and how if we get thousands chipping in each week or month, we can create our own jobs, businesses, development and ideas from within our own communities. This is your opportunity to be the change, we currently have no voice or designated platform with which to make and be the change we all wish to see. Once the database of subscribers has reached a reasonable figure, then emails for the communal gathering topics will go to the people, in each topic to arrange a meeting and formulate your group. No need to select a leader, you are all pioneers and leaders for this venture, but perhaps at first one person can co-ordinate all your gatherings, ideas and plans. Whilst this is for America and possibly Canada only, I am open to speaking with other countries or regions to set up their own gatherings under the banner of the TPC. Click here to subscribe to join The Peoples Club communal gatherings, just a one off payment of $2. If you are not familiar with THI or the TPC, I encourage people to watch the two TPC videos to understand what we are about, and how you can be the change. This will give you all the basic guidelines of the TPC and our memes of, need not greed, caring and sharing, cooperative not comparative or competitive. They are the memes for us all to go forward with, those 7 words is our blueprint for real change, if, we all adopt those thinking processes and attitudes to life and other people. To register and subscribe click here: (link) Name: First and last County: County and State Email: There will be a log in for members after they have subscribed, and a section for each communal gathering

Select from this list your choice of communal gatherings Law Tax and finances Gardening, non GMO food Activism Personal/self help School curriculum Grant writing and fundraising Housing/moving Suggestion box of other gatherings you would like to see: we have option of our own blog or posting site within the website, so members log into the communal gatherings and then access their own group page. This allows the many who don't engage in social media to all join in as well.

Law section: lets not argue over common or natural law, both have drawbacks in their terminology and lets build our own actionable law group, preferably not based on Magna Carta's, reclaiming Birth Certificate funds, canceling driving licenses and taxes, they are not actionable. This will also become a support group that can give legal/law advice at a later date, and we can employ one person to give law support to members and the TPC on a commission basis, with the employee charging less than normal lawyers and a portion of the fee goes to the TPC. Eventually we will need more than one person for that role, and those people will be designated as the official TPC law team. The grant writing team will be similar to law, if we have people available and competent to do it then they will be the TPC grant team, I am open to the TPC paying for 1-2 people to attend a college course to learn how to do it and build a team of 3 grant writers. They will be paid based on commission of the grants being approved, and a small portion of each grant would go back to the TPC. Taxes and Finances, the same applies, as it stands we have one designated TPC tax accountant, I would like a few more as numbers grow. The accountant would be able to do all your taxes each year, for a low fee and a small donation to the TPC would be included. Finances are if people wish a financial review of their finances, people within the group can perhaps give ideas of how to improve your situations, whether loans, credit cards or mortgages. There are ways to improve all of our financial situations, if people put in the time and wish to share their finance details with other members who can help, or we get a designated small financial help group for more privacy, and charge a small fee to go to the TPC for the help provided, based on what you can afford. So, those 3 categories, law, finances and grant writing would be our first employees of the TPC initially under a commission basis, but as we grow, permanent positions for people.

These gatherings we need people acting like adults, and not the child like manner some of the state and country groups exhibited. It is ok if you don't like everyone, but at least be civil and not ruin the group based on 1 or 2 people not liking each other. It is also ok to disagree with certain topics or discussions, but the key is to find a common consensus to work with, and so agree to disagree and keep the focus on the goals of the group, not personal opinions or conflicts. I am open to Canada joining America in these communal gatherings until they build up their numbers there, and create their own, should they wish to do so. Maybe European countries can copy the method and go forward together and then split off into individual countries, once numbers are sufficient to go alone. I think people doubted me that this was our last chance to combine, and stop the onslaught of the weakened aging psychopaths running the dying embers of the old system. If we wait long enough, the lower minions will take up the baton and we will end up with Orwellian techno based world, that will benefit only those who comply. I don't think many here now doubt that concern, unless we fill the void, they will yet again fill it for us. You are not only dooming yourselves, but your children, grandchildren and great grandchildren for many generations. Do you wish for history to look back on us as the generation that ended all freedoms? Declared a weak and gutless generation, cowered by fear and insecurity, division and pettiness, or, this was the generation that changed this planet once and for all, into a better more vibrant, caring, sharing and cooperative planet. Free of war, free of scarcity, free of abuse and free of the dog eat dog games played out on a daily basis around the world. This is your opportunity to quit crying about govts, cabals, factions, violence, unfairness and heinous crimes, and do something about it. Not dabble at it like all other groups, but put a genuine effort into making it work. Currently we have no power, due to divide and conquer, but if we build together we become the force, a force to be reckoned with, as for the first time in history, should we succeed, we will have our own Empire, our own Faction and our own voice and enforcement. All it takes is for people to come together.

We are also launching a TPC sales website, and everyone can sell their goods on there, like a TPC ebay. We will be adding other companies to sell their wares, for example Harold Thiers tech boxes, a CBD oil and wares company is interested as well. All sales will include a portion of the sale going to the TPC, which will be decided in a drop down box by the seller. A small fee will go to the designated website operator also, and so this will be another paid position created within the TPC. TPC will not be held responsible for any issues between seller and buyer, damaged goods, non arriving items or any delivery issues, all sales and issues are solely the responsibility of seller and buyer, not TPC. The website will be called THI sells? and will be ran by one of the members initially. As it grows we will add more operators to it for those who are skilled at it, and commission on sales will be shared.

I have been busy with another project this past month or so, but was waiting until the March madness or the potentials of it to pass, before launching into it. Much research has been done and I am now seriously looking into and perhaps launching a community gathering for THI members. In essence it becomes the starting point of a THI/TPC Community, not exactly the village, but maybe that will come later. The details of where will remain closed for now, but several members are considering to move to one location or region so we can be with each other and work together as a team. I have located an estate that is around the 4 corners region, it's a lovely site, a nice energy vibe to it, scenery is really nice, and whilst ruralish is close enough to a major town and airport, for access and groceries. This estate currently only houses around 130-40 homes, with around 20-30 plots of land available for sale around the $27.5K mark, so no land rent per month you would own it. There is 8 plots of land available so far at $27.5K each. The cost to install foundation for the home can range from $5-10K depending on whether you are zoned for piers or slab foundation. All the homes on there currently have manufactured homes and our priced between $80-150K if purchasing an existing home, although others can be more expensive depending on what you require. I have visited a manufactured home company that specializes in bank repo manufactured homes, that are fully remodeled. The cheapest fully remodeled homes with kitchens and bathrooms is $87K for a 3 bed 2 bath home, and $91K for a 4 bed 2 bath home. Everything is ready to move in. The cost of the home is inclusive of delivery, installing on the foundations on your land, inspections, hooking up water and septic tanks if within 20 feet of the home, there is no sales tax, no closing costs and in house financing. Homes are remodeled using 2 x 6 studs, shingle roof with 30 year life span. For a piece of land and home the cost is $119K, plus the cost of the foundation and set up of utilities. The land can be bought with 20% down which $5.5k payments on that would be around $107 pm. The homes can be bought with 5% down, but always better to put 20% down to avoid PMI, 20% down on the 3 bed is between $17-18250. They also have high end homes, a nice 4 bed for $140K.

Recently I received some will settlement funds from my dad's estate, and now looking to purchase a home just 1/2 - 3/4 mile on the estate, that was going to house 3 THI members living together, but one pulled out and the other two have agreed to go ahead. They will be renting from me with that home, and rent will be cheaper than anywhere else, but this is about members coming together and building the community. The plan is will be for me to move there as well, but either way I am only one hour or so from that region anyway for meetings etc in the mean time. If other members wish to purchase lots and homes on that estate they would all be welcome. The area is not prone to hurricanes or tornadoes, extreme heat or cold, excessive winds or excess snow either. Taxes around $271 a year without a slab foundation, maybe around $5-800 per year with the foundation. Cost of homes $91K, with a down payment of $18250K P&I is at 3.5% over 23 years $386 pm. So your monthly payments of loans on the land and home is $495 per month. Around the equivalent most pay for land rents on community or leasehold lands. Homes take around 12 weeks to be ready so you have time to plan, you must buy the land first though. All lots are around 1 acre. Septic and water hook ups already installed on the plot and is inbuilt with the cost of the land, and can take manufactured or mobile homes.

This will become the launching pad for a THI/TPC community, the object is to buy up all the homes as they become available and the whole estate to become the village. Or we can encourage other homeowners on the estate to become a part of the TPC. Single family homes in the region for those not wishing to be in a manufactured home in the village, are reasonably priced within the whole region. We will be also looking into applying for grants for rural land areas available in the region, as a non profit we can apply for them, to take over land and build on them. There is a commercial plot at the end of the estate available for $50K for 25 acres, again we can look into getting grants for that, and have a TPC shopping mall, possibly with a charter school. All members are welcome to come and live with us in the village, there is lovely scenery, and plenty of available plots to takeover. From there will can kick start The Peoples Club in a meaningful way, the object is to have several of these centers, strategically placed around the country. There is no personal or financial gain to me doing this as it creates more work for me, but this is an opportunity for us all to come together.

Should the communal gatherings not take off as it should do, after 5 years of running the TPC for no pay, I will take the TPC company in a new direction and steer the funds from the TPC into this village project. I have put a lot of work into the TPC for no return, 5 years of filing, doing the taxes, collecting all the emails and responding, 5 years of keeping a database of all donations and the associated banking processes, all for no compensation. How many other people would run a company for 5 years and receive no pay? I wish this year for it to become more actionable and profitable to fund projects, ideas and ventures. This is us being the change, a change for us, a change for each other and a change for the wider picture. Build it and they will come.

I have noticed several articles now around the country, as more and more parents are homeschooling, or even better pooling funds together to have their own home schooling classes. This is a good thing and maybe the charter school communal gathering can come up with a curriculum that is suitable. A couple of things develop from this consequence of actions, which in the long term will not help the system. Your child should receive better teaching, no longer receive pro pagan da and mind manipulation, no longer will be exposed to some of the abuse and harassment that goes on in schools, and may end the peer pressure culture. But there is one other thing if suddenly a larger proportion is now not relying on the State school system and self funding, people in small towns will need to lobby their council for reduced property taxes, given the bulk of property taxes are to fund State schools. I have no idea if that applies in all states, but I know the bulk of my Property Taxes in Florida was attributed to schools funding, even though none of my family attended schools.

A couple of pointers from the Mewe chat for listeners to ponder on. My experience with family overall was not too pleasant, and it is often the case the family do more damage to you than friends or work colleagues. Now you can rail at them for being nasty, uncaring or worse, or use it as a spring board to develop the self. That way they can't hurt you as much as previously, or at all if you develop fully the self mastery skill. I get why some have issues with family all too well, and the desire to prove them wrong, but that becomes a slippery slope. Your challenge is to prove to yourself, not others. Families can build or break you, but it is not them that is the cause of it, it is you for allowing it into and invading your space.

One member said this, We all will be gone from our form someday and none of this will matter. That attitude is why this planet is in a mess, it is the equivalent of the where going to 5D crew, don't do nothing as we are going 5D. If 5D exists and it is a more advanced way of living, then those people will not be going there, it's that simple. Why, because they haven't advanced themselves on 3D enough, sitting around doing nothing as part of the wait club. 5D has been turned into a Utopia world, yet no one knows where or whether it exists, they only think they know, because some agency or Institute program made it up to distract people. Are there other planes of existence? absolutely, that is why we are classed as multi dimensional, we can go to and operate on several planes of existence, including multi universes. The point I am thinking is not get fixed on one meme, because 5D appears to be another limitation program, like the sky is the limit, my reply is, which sky? But, statements like "We all will be gone from our form someday and none of this will matter." Is just plain wrong THInking, everything matters on a soul level, the doers make progress on a soul level, regardless of what unfolds on the physical level. Non doing or non action is a waste of life, they are the reason we have cabal, poor govt's, errant Military, rogue agencies and secret societies, people all too content for them to run their lives - badly. Which then allows the non doer to play victim, the perpetual hamster wheel of a wasted life. I can assure you that never works out well for anyone.

I can now announce the Thinkdifferent.thepeoplesclub.org website for subscribing to The Peoples Club is now live. I am asking for all members to sign up and become a part of the change. Lets see some commitment with this and all get behind it, no matter which group you are connected to or with, this is all about us. With regards to the communal gatherings, think of this as getting behind a concept not the person or the group, it is our chance to grow and expand into a more doing aspect. It is important the people come together and decide yours and our own future, regardless of what the dark forces plan or do. The people coming together is the key path to a brighter future, and one we must all endeavor to take. The very first show of THI, I tasked you all with the meme of think and act different. Many, if not all of you, are now thinking in a very different way than before you started listening to THI. That pleases me greatly, but our next task we must all undertake to master as well as the thinking is, now we have to act different. That means us all challenging our own limitations and boundaries, and pushing ourselves onto greater heights within ourselves and part of a collective. Twice in the last month I have had to rebuke members for labeling themselves as disabled, for those people that must not be what defines you. Yes you have an impairment, but that is still not what you are about. I also have a disability in this world, it's called common sense, it hampers you greatly when you dare to speak of it. Having a disability only hampers you in one aspect, it does not hamper you in all aspects, and so your focus shifts of I can't do this or that because I'm disabled to, I can do this and that despite being disabled. Just a simple shift of mindset, allows big changes within yourself. That then pulls in another meme said in THI, you go from impossible to i'm possible, or remove the D from disable to is able. Is this daunting? well, yes, but what is more daunting is, sitting around watching stupid people and non doers, destroying theirs and our world. But, Thomas we are only a small group how can we change the world? it is the ripple in the pond effect, lots of small stones creates lots more ripples, if those ripples build, you end up with a tsunami. But, one of our members reminded me this week, who created the global control system? large numbers of people? no, it was only a small handful of people who built their global control structure, bribes, coercion and playing on peoples weaknesses did the rest. Throw in people all too content to be the unaging child, like some mass archetypal Peter Pan, and the system was born. So, if it only took a small contingent to build a global control structure, then it only takes the same to bring it down. It only took a few people to smash their system to smithereens, and I am glad I was a part of that, but now we have the task of rebuilding it, in our image, not theirs. Which image do we create? well that is all laid out in the blueprints for a better humanity called The Peoples Club. We will change to our image with need not greed, there is plenty for all peoples needs, but not for peoples greed. Caring and sharing is a must in our new vision, that ends the haves and have not's program. Cooperative not comparative or competitive, we must learn to work together like the cabal did, they all pulled together as one and made enormous progress, we have to do the same. Still don't believe a small group can change the world? I leave you with a reminder of a Steve Jobs quote to change your mind then. Here's to the crazy ones, the misfits, the rebels, the troublemakers, the round pegs in the square holes... the ones who see things differently -- they're not fond of rules... You can quote them, disagree with them, glorify or vilify them, but the only thing you can't do is ignore them, because they change things... they push the human race forward, and while some may see them as the crazy ones, we see genius, because the ones who are crazy enough to think that they can change the world, are the ones who do. Based on that piece, I am just about as crazy as it gets, I have been a part of changing this world already, because I dreamt and thought bigger, I am asking for you to all search your hearts and minds and join me on our next challenge. Make this world a better place if you can.
