

THI-SHOW TRANSCRIPT 2021-06-17

Having spent a week playing the knight in the shining Ford flex here are some other developments. Further developments on the TPC village with now two lots under contract and the first house purchase is underway, one more has committed to the land and home in the community, another two are committed when their home has sold, three other groups of members are in advanced talks and preparation as well, with two other groups still pondering. We have connected with the county about attaining grants for the TPC on a plethora of ideas, and we are all looking forward to engaging with them and exchanging our ideas and plans with them. The town is in a transition currently, it was once an oil and gas boom town, but that has now passed and they are trying to regenerate the town into a more vibrant place, and we at the TPC can help them with that, and they can help us grow and develop as well. We are enquiring about a second site around 10 miles from the village community, a tract of land around 50 acres for $300K or less, that has a hay growing business attached to half of the acreage, which can be developed by some members who like the farming side of things, or turn a portion of the land to a horse rental stables, and or a greenhouse for hydraponics. We are also looking at purchasing another business in the region that comes with staff, but the new owner if it goes ahead, he will be looking to employing part time, members of the TPC village. The TPC promotional video is gathering pace, a reminder for those who wish to participate in it, we are asking for you to promote the TPC in a short 3-5 minute video or audio, that does not reference THI in any way. Hoping maybe some of the members who have been supported by the TPC can give a quick speech of how we helped, and appeal to a wider audience of how they can help also. The promotion of it being different to other foundations, our TPC memes is the way forward, and how if we pool our resources and funds into one giant venture for we the people. The team are assembling memes and themes for the 20-30 speech sections that will go into a two hour video all promoting the TPC. Please add your own memes and themes as suggestions, and please add whether you wish to do a speech within the recording and also name which topics you would like to discuss. This will help the team to push forward quicker with the production of the video, and have more people participating in it. We have and our building this by generating and sharing our own funds and ideas, we do not require Trust funds per se, the Trust funds should they come out and the TPC funded, which would require a change of heart from the Trustee, can be used to supplement our venture, not create it. We can create it and indeed in many ways have, with a small amount of donations each week or month. We have done much already with less than 150 making donations each month, imagine what we can do with 10, 100 or a thousand times more people donating. If you can't donate although I think everyone no matter what their status is can afford to put in $1 a month, $12 a year, it is less than the price of two packs of cigarettes or about 6-8 cans of beer, you can still participate within the communal groups for a one off donation of $2 to join, and then pick which gathering you wish to join. Go to thinkdifferent.thepeoplesclub.org and sign up. I was asked the question could the EU create their own communal gatherings, the answer is yes but perhaps better when more people join up, and also you will get benefits out of coalescing with the main TPC group, via ideas, plans and cooperation from being in there first, before going onto creating the EU communal gatherings. Israel's new Prime Minister Naftali Bennett has vowed to unite the nation frayed by four elections in two years of political stalemate. He said his government would work for the sake of all the people, adding that the priorities would be reforms in education, health and cutting red tape. The right-wing nationalist will lead an unprecedented coalition of parties backed by MPs in a vote on Sunday. He succeeds Benjamin Netanyahu, who was forced out of office after 12 years. Will Mossad play magic disappear a politician act? time will tell. Will Netanyahu disappear also? it is a great day for Israel he is gone, but always be aware of others stepping into his shoes, it is not about the personality, but the program behind the scenes running them. Bye Bye Mr. Milikowsky or better known on this channel as Benjamin Nuttyasshole.

NEWS: David Sirota, founder of The Daily Poster, said top Democrats may soon have to choose between solving housing affordability issues among Americans, and their political funding from private equity firms that are increasingly buying up suburban neighborhoods. I know exactly who these people are, as I get from 2-8 calls or texts per day asking to sell my home, coming from various states also, vulture capitalists again wanting to own everything and control, when we can share and thrive together. In an interview Sirota reflected on recent reporting from The Wall Street Journal, which found that big investment firms like BlackRock and Blackstone, which have contributed significantly to members of the Democratic Party, are engaging in a bidding war to buy up housing, including single-family homes. Black Rock are the owners of the Federal Reserve taken over by monies provided by the Trust in March last year. Black Rock and Black Stone are both Black Sun members, so the Federal Reserve has gone from Rothschild's control to the Black Sun control, all under the watch of the Comptroller of the Trust which should have prevented that ever taking place. Sirota said It's a difficult situation, you've got huge amounts of capital that are looking for bigger returns, frankly than even the market is giving right now, and real estate has been an asset class that more and more investors are pouring into. Sirota added that, the Wall Street involvement in the housing asset class creates a political issue for a Democratic Party, that has deep ties to some of those major Wall Street firms. The Democratic Party's going to have to choose, are we going to be with our private equity backers who pour lots of money into our campaigns, or are we going to be with those who are trying to deal with the housing crisis in a serious way? We all know the answer to that question, these greed based vulture capitalists are all parasites within our communities, preying on people who are struggling all for their own gains and bank balances. There is a solution to that also, if enough people put enough funds into the TPC we can run our own mortgage business, fund our own houses, without vulture capitalists or banks harvesting vast amounts of funds from us all. 10% of America putting in $1 a month, generates $33M a month, imagine what we can do with that? Homes, cars and businesses with very low interest rates, homes paid off sooner and the interest goes to help more people.

Amid increased scrutiny of Black Lives Matter co-founder Patrisse Coullor's lavish spending, including her reported purchases of multiple homes totaling upward of $3 million, and the installation of fencing and an electric gate around one of those homes. The original ten BLM chapters are demanding more accountability and transparency from the BLM global network. The BLM infighting comes on the heels of Coullors announcing she would step down from her role as the BLM foundation executive director as questions surrounding her finances swirled. Coullors, however, denied that her decision to resign had anything to do with that controversy, insisting she had planned to step away for more than a year. But Coullors' move to step down is not enough to satisfy a growing number of BLM chapters' demand for change within the organization. Referring to initial calls for more transparency and accountability from the "BLM 10," the name for the ten original BLM chapters, a new group, deemed the "BLM 10 Plus" is now speaking out. The same story over and over again, of how supposed ordinary people rise to the top of these movements, yet over time you find out they are as corrupt as the people they are engaging against, or they were actors in a play making fools of their audience. A tragic comedy act that no longer is deemed to be funny. Corrupt people comes in all colors, hey BLM remember that guy who was President and black, what did he do for black people? absolutely jackshit, so it matters not which color you fight against, perhaps that tells you that you are fighting the wrong group. You are all missing the bigger picture here, you attack the program not the people, the people like Patrisse Coullor comes and goes, but the program running it remains.

An investigation has revealed widespread allegations of sexual harassment and abuse in the Afghan Police Force. After months of research, the BBC has spoken to a number of women who say they were raped or assaulted by their superiors or colleagues. Human rights groups say the majority of the attacks go unreported. Momena waived her anonymity to talk to the BBC about what happened to her. She is still working as a policewoman, although she has changed departments. Hosna Jalil is no longer Deputy Interior Minister, she says she believes she was removed because she had been "a loud voice". Afghan police force are ran by the CIA, so not surprised by this story, a common theme the world over currently, silence those that speak the truth.

The Biden administration on Thursday announced the formation the National Artificial Intelligence (AI) Research Resource Task Force, a group of 10 AI experts who will create a plan for giving AI researchers more access to data, computational resources and other tools. Congress mandated the creation of the task force when it passed the National AI Initiative Act of 2020. The group will set up the National AI Research Resource (NAIRR) -- shared research infrastructure that the White House says will spur AI innovation and economic prosperity nationwide. Lets just stop that right there as this is how people are bought off to ignore the obvious dangers, he said it will spur AI innovation and economic prosperity nationwide. How is AI going to spur prosperity nationwide? it will replace people and jobs, including the clowns who developed it at the agencies. People go oh good it will bring prosperity to us, but hello McFly, they did not state it was the people who would gain prosperity did they, they didn't define it, people just assume it. When have the government ever done anything for the prosperity of the people, the answer is zero, zip, nada. The NAIRR will be designed for AI researchers and students across all scientific disciplines, as long as you are connected to Harvard, Yale, Stanford, Johns Hopkins and the CIA then. By bringing together the nation's foremost experts from academia, industry, and government, so that means all the agency based people then, I wonder how that will work out for the people? We will be able to chart an exciting and compelling path forward, ensuring long-term US competitiveness in all fields of science and engineering and all sectors of our economy, NSF Director Sethuraman Panchanathan said in a statement. US is USA Inc it does not mean us as we the people, it means US the clown peoples.

Speaker Nancy Pelosi (D-Calif.) and her entire leadership team on Thursday sought to quell a growing controversy over Rep. Ilhan Omar's (D-Minn.) remarks equating war crimes committed by the U.S. and Israel to those by the Taliban and Hamas terrorist groups. She is correct, Taliban was created and funded by the CIA, Hamas was created and funded by Mossad.

It was nice to see a report from China of the people turning on celebrities and their wealth. One popular celebrity complained that $101 a day enough for meals, this is in a country where the average yearly income is $5000, $416 a month. Need not greed is the way forward, and it is time to make all celebrities uncomfortable.

As Spain and Russia announce people who are vaccinated with not be allowed to fly now, a flip from the unvaccinated not being allowed to fly, what a joke this world is, all leaders and experts should be fired immediately they are an embarrassment.

Asking our THI and TPC members in the UK to get ready for Freedom Rally in London on 26th June. If you can attend then great, I have one request for that group, keeping targeting the BBC, Sky and other clown media outlets, they are the voice that needs drowning down and out.

In another example of them losing the narrative and their desperation to get back on track, the BBC took the extraordinary step of showing the public how and when to trust statistics. It's funny it was fake statistics that started this pandemic, yet when the public worked out their own statistics, suddenly those statistics are no longer of any use. The BBC doing a statistical broadcast on behalf of the Johns Hopkins we can't add up party - too funny.

There are statistics and there is statistics, how you are swayed by them depends largely on whether you believe Governments, Agencies and the media, or you do your own research. Latest figures for England up to this week, deaths after 28 day test, 8, weekly deaths 64 up 8.5% on previous week, cue mass hysteria for just 8 to 64 deaths, out of a population of 60M, if only they created that much hysteria over the Clinton death trail, that goes way beyond 64. But here is the kicker statistics deaths in England and Wales for the week 21-28th May 9628, total deaths not just Covid, 232 fewer, and 3.1% lower than the national 5 year average. Just England 9006 deaths for the week, 238 lower than previous week, and 3.2% less than the 5 year average. In Wales 610 deaths, 5 more than previous week, but 0.7% fewer than the 5 year national average.

Another event to put in perspective was the G7 and the topic was climate change and emissions, yet all flew in on emissions belching planes, with their sky ruining contrails, which as we all know has other elements to it. But the real kick in the teeth to the public, there was no social distancing, no masks, inside dining, outside drinking and no mention of them having to quarantine upon returning. At which point do the stupid not see this as a piss take on the public. I wrote in May or June last year, are politicians, royalty, celebrities, the media, cops, military and agencies all curiously immune? as none of them were or are abiding by the rules they created. Because I can almost guarantee the UK lockdown ending will be put back, that was written last weekend and right on cue. Boris Johnson & Johnson the UK crime minister pushes back the end of lockdowns to July 19th, whereby they will find another variant that doesn't exist, another wave that doesn't exist, as the statistics in the last piece proved. The move towards a full reopening has also been affected by the news that both the Pfizer and AstraZeneca jabs give only 33 per cent protection after one dose, in comparison to the 80 per cent protection against the previous variants. Yet not taking it is 99.97% with zero side effects, and as an added bonus you get to live as well. After their non Covid hob nobbing in Cornwall last week by these guffawing jackasses, this is a massive piss take on the people, and it is time all people fought back.

Following the kick back to July 19th, other measures were slipped into that debate. Covid jabs are to become compulsory for staff in care homes for older people in England, so 14 months later we are back to where it all started from, killing off the elderly, watch for the spike of deaths in the older range. Their new word for the variant is delta, which is the 4th letter of the Greek alphabet, symbolized by a triangle or pyramid depending on choice of description, all very dollar bill that. Delta is also an area of low, flat land, sometimes shaped approximately like a triangle, where a river divides into several smaller rivers before flowing into the sea, they do love their water analogies. Delta also means a change in a figure or an amount, perhaps we need to rename the University Johns delta Hopkins then. The one good news is, vaccines offered to children over 12 is now unlikely.

Apple announced last week that they are asking to staff to return to their offices for at least 3 days a week come September, and stupidly some staff are refusing, not a smart move that. But, here is something I doubt many have considered since the lockdowns, and most office staff and other workers working from home. They have been using your electric whilst you were at home, and no doubt saved themselves millions of dollars in the process. Has any employee asked for compensation for their now home office and energy use? I suspect not as people don't think that way. Here is another suggestion for your 2020 and 2021 taxes, charge a 1/3 of your home cost as a business office, if you were employed from home. Another thing that boggles my mind that is similar to this is, how we have to pay or spend our time each year on behalf of the IRS. Nice perk that, running a business operation and getting the people to do your paperwork for free, again it is because people don't think in the right way.

Christian Eriksen suffered a cardiac arrest when he collapsed in Denmark's Euro 2020 match against Finland, said Danish team doctor Morten Boesen. Earlier, officials said the midfielder was stable in hospital and had sent his greetings to his national team-mates. Eriksen collapsed shortly before half-time in Denmark's opening Euro 2020 game against Finland on Saturday. He was gone. We did cardiac resuscitation, it was a cardiac arrest, said Boesen. How close were we to losing him? I don't know, but we got him back after one defibrillation so that's quite fast. The examinations that have been done so far look fine, we don't have an explanation to why it happened. We do, it was just 12 days after he was given the Pfizer vaccine, and now the world knows these experimental jabs are a grave danger to your health.

Last week yet again, we were told of breaking news a great day for humanity is unfolding. I can reel off around 25 of these days coming in the last 12 months or so, none arrived, sadly. The Fed have to come to the table or their charter is to be revoked and it is all happening within 72 hours. The Fed's charter and license was actually expired in September 2011. The 72 hours came and went, the UN, Fed, Banks and Governments all ignored the Comptroller of the Trust, and then we are told yet again, the proof of yet again is in the transcripts of our past shows, that the response to the efforts of the Trustee being ignored was, the Trustee removed them from the system again. I am sorry but that is loop news being replayed over and over again, and is not a genuine attempt to report news accurately. The Fed is dead the people were told on Tuesday, one has to ask the question is: we were told it was blocked from the system 2-3 years ago, who let them back in? Bonds connected to Covid are now blocked, the question is who allowed them to be created and then not stopped 14 months ago? Why has the system changed name again, from the Restoration funds to the global repository? what is the definition of repository? Four very basic questions that everyone is entitled to ask of the Guardian, given they are our assets. If you keep doing the same thing over and over again, you will get the same results, of zero predictions correct and will be reporting loop news. If you state you are about the truth, one must speak it, otherwise you are no different to the plethora of agency backed alt media, and their corrupt counterparts in MSM, the alt media has to be better than that. I will repeat again, they are all playing you like a fiddle, it only took 5 years to listen to my stance on Trump, how long will this take?

As a BBC reporter is chased down the street this week by protestors, finally some people are seeing who is the real problem, but please no threatening or violence against them, we have to show we are better than that. Here is another person calling out the BBC and their fake news and bs reporting, was great to see thousands of UK people marching on the BBC recently and calling them out. With all the issues going on in the UK you would think it would be about them, no, it was about the Jewish elements calling people out for having the temerity to question them. Letter to the BBC: I have serious concerns about the lack of due impartiality and accuracy evident in the BBC's reporting of Margaret Hodge MP's verbal abuse of the Leader of the Labour Party, Jeremy Corbyn. Margaret Hodge was born to. My complaint is not limited to one broadcast item but to a number of items over a period of a week, which give rise to the same complaint. I note that the leader was verbally attacked behind the Speaker's chair in the House of Commons on the evening of Tuesday July 17. The attack was unprovoked by anything that Mr. Corbyn said immediately before the event, and was unrelated to any procedure in the House. One witness to the incident reported that Dame Margaret was shouting: "You are a fucking racist and anti-Semite." The BBC Code of Conduct states that the BBC has a responsibility "to act in the public interest, serving all audiences by providing impartial, high quality and distinctive output and services." Section 1.5 regarding Editorial Standards states that: People expect that whatever we tell them is as true, accurate and unbiased as possible based on credible evidence, from credible sources. Well that's a load of bs'ery for a start, MI5 being true, credible and reliable is the equivalent of saying Avril Haines is Mother Teresa. The current controversy revolves around the Labour Party's draft Code of Conduct on Anti-Semitism, agreed by its National Executive Committee on July 17. It is this decision which Dame Hodge herself identified as the trigger for her charge that, Jeremy Corbyn is a racist and an anti-Semite, a charge which she has neither withdrawn nor apologized for. It would plainly not be in keeping with the BBC's editorial guidelines, or the Broadcasting Code, to simply report this charge without interrogating the substance behind it, and giving due attention to opposing views in the controversy. Conclusion: It is of course entirely appropriate for the BBC to report on the horror of anti-Semitism, but it ought not to be presented as an issue specific to the Labour Party unless the BBC has evidence to the contrary. Indeed, YouGov data show that anti-

Semitic attitudes are higher in the Conservative Party than Labour, and have actually been reduced under Corbyn's leadership of Labour. The BBC has not included these vital facts in its reporting which makes it neither proportionate nor accurate. We regret that the BBC has failed to comply with its own codes with regard to impartiality and accuracy. Given the gravity of allegations of anti-Semitism, the role performed by the BBC is all the more critical if it is to live up to Reithian principles of informing the public. We demand that future reportage focuses on the issues associated with anti-Semitism and the Labour Party in a neutral manner and with accuracy and rigour. The Labour Party and its leader should be offered an apology and a correction. Signed Pamela Blakelock Classic divide and conquer, Conservative are the party of the Jews and Labor is anti Jewish, yet many of the top Conservatives during WW2 were hobnobbing with the SS Black eagle Hebrew Annunaki group, funny that. It's unreal, the world is in a mess and certain Jews seems to think that questioning them is anti Semitic, and that takes precedence over everything else unfolding. Perhaps those same people can label or ask these questions: why despite being the wealthiest race on the planet, are so many Jewish people in poverty? ditto why are so many Jewish people living in poor living conditions? why does the Jewish race have a caste system against it's own people? why is it ok to label all non Jews as goyim, yet any questioning or sleight on the Jewish is seized upon and people are labeled and denigrated? why has Israel never had a Prime Minister that hasn't committed gross atrocities on several countries? It is another example of classic deflectionism, don't look at what is real, look at ISRAEL and what we provide you is the modus operandi.

It is often overlooked the risks people like myself and others take to give you the truth behind the lies. Death threats, general threats, constant stream of disruption via agitators, trolls and shills. Bizarre events in your life designed to throw you off your path. This week saw another casualty of the truth versus lies war, and has an all too familiar theme to it. The Alabama TV anchor who broke news of the infamous 2016 tarmac meeting between former President Bill Clinton and then-Attorney General Loretta Lynch died Saturday in an apparent suicide, according to reports and his employer. Christopher Sign, 45, was found dead by Hoover, Ala., police around 8:13 a.m. Saturday after cops received a call of a person down at his Scout Trace home, according to Al.com. The former college football player's death is being investigated as a suicide, Hoover Lt. Keith Czeskleba said, according to the outlet. It is an extraordinary and amazing phenomena that people who discuss the Clinton's in a non positive light, all end up dying various bizarre deaths. Perhaps Johns Hopkins can work out the percentages of that event, well, perhaps not given their inability to count forward, never mind subtract, divide and multiplication. Who is responsible for all of these deaths, where are the FBI investigators in this? are they not able to connect the dots to a case anymore? We have had a serial killer on the loose in this country for the past 30 years, and the dead all have a common theme of, revealing the crimes of the Clinton's, then ending up dead. This is a program and the Clintons are the front puppets, I say Clinton's and yet it is singular, as one of them died on Sunday 9pm September 4th 2016 on the way to Phoenix, that person was Hillary Clinton. That is not conjecture that is fact that I have had it verified by several sources. I was personally informed two hours after she died. Rest in peace Christopher Sign, your sacrifice for the truth, will not go in vain. To the truth deniers, assassins and others of your ilk, this song is for you all.

COVID BS: YouTube suspended Sen. Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) from posting videos on the platform for one week over his remarks touting unproven treatments for COVID-19. The platform said it also removed a video from Johnson in line with its policies against COVID-19 misinformation. The video had highlighted Johnson's remarks from a hearing where he discussed experimental treatments for COVID-19 like hydroxychloroquine and ivermectin. We removed the video in accordance with our COVID-19 medical misinformation policies, which don't allow content that encourages people to use Hydroxychloroquine or Ivermectin to treat or prevent the virus, said a YouTube spokesperson. Does anyone ask why a social media video platform are now suddenly declaring themselves as medical experts? Does anyone ask YT for their credentials to make these claims? where is their proof those medications don't work? Why aren't YT declared as a fascist dictatorship?

As Massachusetts prepares for the ultimate in seducement, a lottery only for the vaccinated, with a title of become a millionaire with your vaccine card. That is coercion and should be illegal, disgraceful and pathetic attempts by the Governor there, Charles Baker. Lets look at him shall we and see where his connections leads to, first off CEO of Harvard Pilgrim Medical, then involved with Harvard Vanguard Medical, he was born in, does it lead to Jewish connections? yes he then joined the Beth Israel Deaconess Medical center under much controversy, due to his connections with Paul F. Levy, who was born in and born to. In December 2016, the state Labor and Workforce Development Office released jobs estimates showing that the state unemployment rate had fallen to 2.9%, and Baker's administration undertook an economic development mission in Israel. During the mission, Baker signed an agreement with Israeli Chief Scientist Avi Hasson to foster research and development cooperation between the Massachusetts and Israeli governments, the Massachusetts Technology Collaborative or better known as MIT, and an Israeli non-profit organization signed a cyber security agreement, and Baker met with Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention announced Thursday that, it will convene an emergency meeting of its advisers on June 18th to discuss rare but higher-than-expected reports of, heart inflammation following doses of the mRNA-based Pfizer and Moderna COVID-19 vaccines. Two days later a high profile soccer player suffered the same adverse effect, and the big tech junta went into overdrive to stifle the reports coming out. So far, the CDC has identified 226 reports that might meet the agency's "working case definition" of myocarditis and pericarditis following the shots, the agency disclosed Thursday. That might meet the agencies definition, what a snake slithering version of terminology that is, plus 226 is Johns Hopkins level figures, so we will take that with an ocean of salt. The vast majority have recovered, but 41 had ongoing symptoms, 15 are still hospitalized, and 3 are in the intensive care unit. The reports represent just a tiny fraction of the nearly 130 million Americans who have been fully vaccinated with either Pfizer or Moderna's doses. About 35% then, which curiously is the same figure for the toilet paper mind control experiment. It's a bit of an apples-to-oranges comparison because, again, these are preliminary reports, said Dr. Tom Shimabukuro, a CDC vaccine safety official. clown then. Not all these will turn out to be true myocarditis or pericarditis reports, Yes, Mr. Shimabukuro, the same can be said about the figures for people dying of Covid, can it not? Man jumps off bridge - Covid, car crash - Covid, suicide - Covid, medical malpractice - Covid are the more ridiculous methods of accounting. But how about man dies of flu - Covid, man dies of pneumonia - Covid, two large killing diseases that have virtually vanished North and South of the equator, which is a good thing and we have the proof that, there is less deaths globally in the last 12-18 months than the previous 5 year average. So, on that note Covid is a life saver is it not? He said their findings were mostly consistent with reports of rare cases of heart inflammation that had been studied in Israel, and reported from the U.S. Department of Defense earlier this year. Israel and the DOD were responsible for the findings, seriously? the two largest warmongers on the planet, is now declared medical experts on a supposed cold virus variant, or perhaps it is because they are involved in it as revealed in our Expose 7 show, and Covid is a bio weapon, oops. The CDC is working on more data and analysis on the reports ahead of the emergency meeting of its own advisers next week, he said, and also planned to analyze the risk of heart inflammation posed by catching COVID-19. Common sense question is: how has flu or pneumonia which are similar if not the same virus as Covid, yet they didn't cause heart inflammation? Where is flu and pneumonia these days, why has it vanished faster than a UN Israeli investigation?

Johnson & Johnson confirmed that the FDA authorized two batches of COVID-19 vaccine produced at the Emergent BioSolutions facility, but did not comment on a report that the regulatory agency said to throw out 60 million other doses, over concerns of possible contamination. Selective news reporting a common theme these past 14 months. The report, published by the New York Times, cited people familiar with the situation and came ahead of an FDA news release that said, several other batches of vaccine produced at the troubled Baltimore facility were not suitable for use. The FDA also noted in a news release posted Friday that additional batches are still under review, and the agency will keep the public informed as those reviews are completed. At this time, the agency stated that it is not yet ready to include the Emergent BioSolutions plant in the Janssen EUA as an authorized manufacturing facility, and continues to work through issues there with Janssen, which is the fake name for Johnson and Johnson, and Emergent BioSolutions management. Lets take a peak at Emergent Biosolutions and see how many familiar names connected with Covid scam emerge. Emergent BioSolutions was founded on September 5, 1998 by Faud El-Hibri, under the name BioPort, and renamed Emergent BioSolutions in 2004. At the time, the Michigan Department of Public Health, through its Michigan Biologics Products Institute, owned an anthrax vaccine manufacturing facility in Lansing, Michigan. BioPort purchased the facility and the rights to manufacture the vaccine for the U.S. military, this despite the Geneva Protocol. The Protocol for the Prohibition of the Use in War of Asphyxiating, Poisonous or other Gases, and of Bacteriological Methods of Warfare, usually called the Geneva Protocol, is a treaty prohibiting the use of chemical and biological weapons in international armed conflicts. In 2000, operating as Bioport, the company was the subject of Congressional hearings and FDA action (official action indicated (OAI) and voluntary action indicated. After the 2001 anthrax attacks that caused the deaths of five Americans and made 17 others ill, Bioport began providing its anthrax vaccine to US biodefense agencies. hmm. In June 2012, Emergent, along with Novartis and the Texas A&M University System was selected by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services as one of the three Centers for Innovation in Advanced Development and Manufacturing. Novartis a Swiss based company who has spent the last 20 years buying up dozens of medical divisions and suppliers in virtually every field of medicine, suggesting this is a Rothschild's backed company. Novartis was the supplier of the CIA MK Ultra experiments on soldiers and the public with LSD. They were also responsible for a number of cancer related child deaths in New Jersey, following a chemical spill into the Toms River. In 2000, Novartis and AstraZeneca combined their agrobusiness divisions to create a new company, Syngenta. In 2009, Novartis reached an agreement to acquire an 85 percent stake in the Chinese vaccines company Zhejiang Tianyuan Bio-Pharmaceutical Co., Ltd., which is part of another recognized name. Sino-American Tianjin SmithKline & French Laboratories, GlaxoSmithKline own the Wuhan laboratory. On February 2, Sino-American Tianjin SmithKline & French Laboratories successfully delivered 5,000 boxes of Fenbid, (300mg) for Huoshenshan Hospital in seven days, to support prevention and control against the virus in Wuhan. What is fenbid used for in normal scenarios? Fenbid and Panadol which are on the reference list of the first batch of medicines, reserved for the prevention and control of pneumonia. hmm. In 2013, Novartis was sued again by the US government, this time for allegedly bribing doctors for a decade so that their patients are steered towards the company's drugs. Novartis paid $1.2 million to Essential Consultants, an entity owned by Michael Cohen, following the 2017 inauguration of Donald Trump. Cohen was paid monthly, with each payment just under $100,000. Novartis claims it paid Cohen to help it understand and influence the new administration's approach to drug pricing and regulation. Back to BioEmergent, the public-private partnership granted Emergent $163 million over eight years, to assist in the development of countermeasures for health, nuclear and radiological epidemics. On June 27, 2016, the US Biomedical Advanced Research and Development Authority (BARDA we covered them in the Expose series) contracted with Emergent Biosolutions to develop a vaccine for the Zika virus. The contract was spread out over 30 months and is worth around $22 million. Proof of a previous show of ours back in 2015, when I revealed the zika virus was the zombie virus was going to be released on the public in 2016-2017, due to that outing, it was likely the cause of preventing that Military led spreading of the virus. Yet again showing the US Military are, have and were open to using chemical warfare on the American public. Lots of large scale pharma contracts given out over the last decade, not one of those vaccines have provided any safety or any large scale prevention, and is just a license to print money off of the public, for diseases they by and large seeded onto and into the public. Create a disease, disperse it, have antidote, play the savior role, get media clowns to create fear, promote pharmaceutical products and collect lots of money is the game then, now and the future unless people see through the illusion these dark magicians create for us.

Merck, known as MSD outside the United States and Canada, today announced it has entered into a procurement agreement with the United States government for molnupiravir (MK-4482). MK oh my it's all very ultra isn't it? Molnupiravir is currently being evaluated in a Phase 3 clinical trial, the MOVE-OUT study, for the treatment of non-hospitalized patients with laboratory-confirmed COVID-19, and at least one risk factor associated with poor disease outcomes. I was curious as to why MOVEOUT was accented that way, with MOVOUT capitalized and the e not, so I did a search on movout, and it brought up a paper that was part of a research into computers. Movout is part of computer programming for, Hybrid Message-Passing and Shared-Memory Programming in a Molecular Dynamics Application On Multicore Clusters. That word hybrid comes up again, message passing is coded and coding, shared memory opens up a possible whole new ball game. MK-4482 is an experimental antiviral drug which is orally active, and was developed for the treatment of ? influenza. Fenbid for pneumonia and MK-4482 for flu, the common sense question is, was Covid flu and pneumonia all along? Merck is developing molnupiravir in collaboration with Ridgeback Biotherapeutics. Ridgeback Bio are under investigation for misleading evidence of their vaccines and drugs, and attempting to attain $100M funding from BARDA. The lead people of Ridgeback Bio are both former hedge funds managers, which shows again of advanced knowledge and money making opportunities to be made, by those on the inside of this scam. Merck is pleased to collaborate with the U.S. government on this new agreement that will provide Americans with COVID-19 access to molnupiravir, an investigational oral therapy being studied for outpatient use early in the course of disease, if it is authorized or approved," said Merck president. Investigational, Pertaining to or of the nature of an investigation, I thought that was what the trials are for? investigation, oh dear I spoke common sense again, perhaps I need a jab for common sense, I know I will listen to THI, that speaks in common not rare or no sense. Investigational? now where have we heard that before? as for oral therapy that sounds like a priests doctrine to me. First we stab you then force pills down your throat? the caring health service in it's full glory, not, but whilst we jab you and install pills, then investigate you, we will empty your wallets and purses for good measure, then we program you to our specification. And people fall for this shit? serves them right if you ask me, you can't teach stupid. In addition to this agreement with the U.S. government, we are actively engaged in numerous efforts to make molnupiravir available globally to fulfill Merck's commitment to widespread access. Through the agreement, if molnupiravir receives Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) or approval by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), Merck will receive approximately $1.2 billion to supply approximately 1.7 million courses of molnupiravir to the United States government. Merck has been investing at risk to support development and scale-up production of molnupiravir, and expects to have more than 10 million courses of therapy available by the end of 2021. Therapy given by the therapist, when split becomes the rapist, fitting if you ask me. Merck also plans to submit applications for emergency use or approval to regulatory bodies outside of the U.S, and is currently in discussions with other countries interested in advance purchase agreements for molnupiravir. Merck is committed to providing timely access to molnupiravir globally, and intends to implement a tiered pricing approach based on World Bank data, that recognizes countries' relative ability to finance their public health response to the pandemic.

Reports coming out of the UK of 3 British Airlines pilots all dying after the 2nd Covid jab, BA in talks with UK Government about only using non vaccinated pilots is being discussed, but the issue is 80-85% of pilots have been jabbed, so BA maybe down to only a few pilots to fly, watch out for flight delays and cancellations again, which happens every summer in the UK. Those talks are ongoing in Canada as well.

Further reports of mass walk outs of teachers in the UK due to enforcement of vaccines, I am hearing they will be struggling to open schools in September due to mind control officers better known as teachers being short in numbers.

Another thing that has come to light this week is, a recruitment drive person for the oil and gas industry made an alarming discovery for the wider masses, but not to our members. As part of the Human Resources section of recruitment for the oil and gas industries there is a belief that they have to go through all personnel files and ascertain which of their staff members have had the vaccines. The outcome of that reveals that they know or believe they will have to replace all vaccinated employees within the next 2-3 years. The oil and gas industry are projecting they will lose roughly half of their personnel within the next 3 years. The great question is: is the vaccine a one way trip to the west gate again? Sad if it is, but each and every person was given the choice, they were given the details and resources from many on the internet to come to their own informed decisions, and took the easy way out and believe in their parents, the Government and the Media to decide for them.

As the US Senate this week all combined to investigate and get to the bottom of the Wuhan bio lab incident. They shouted out against big tech social media groups for banning and censoring of the Covid origin. This is of use to the alt media and the American public, but for me, I have seen all their tactics before and like patterns they always repeat. So, now we are looking into the lab leak, yet we have given all the Covid evidence in our 8 part Expose of gain of functions, deleting the elderly, bio warfare in Italy, Fauci, Obama, Trump, Kushner all involved in it, along with the agencies, Universities, Medical research centers, Government agencies, BARDA, DARPA, The Pentagon aligned the vulture capitalists. Before the investigations begin, they are all blaming one group, the CCP. But lets go back to Project Lockstep a 2010 Rockefeller document that outlined the blueprint for Covid 19, or lets go back to the Event 201 which we covered both in the Expose shows, perhaps the Senators could ask for the transcripts of those 8 exposes shows, because everything to do with Covid are contained within that series. Check out the transcript of the January 7th show this year, we revealed it all, this is a portion of it. We have known for a long time that the lab in Wuhan, China, is owned by an American drug company GlaxoSmithKline. We have known that Dr. Fauci's National Institutes of Health gave over $3 million in assistance to the Wuhan Lab. We have known that Dr. Fauci's main specialty and claim to fame is his work on the HIV virus, which he patented for profit. We have known that fragments of HIV virus spliced into a normal corona virus, are what have made the Covid 19 virus more infectious. We have known that the Australian Government shutdown distribution of the vaccine, reportedly because people who received it were testing positive for HIV. We have known that GlaxoSmithKline, the owner of the Wuhan Lab is managed by a Black Rock subsidiary, which also works for George Soros and AXA, the giant French insurance corporation. We have known that George Soros built the lab in Wuhan and sold it to a Vanguard company, while Vanguard itself is a shareholder in Black Rock, and which is internationally famous for dirty Special Ops involvement. We have known that Black Rock is one of Bill Gate's major investors, while Gates is a major investor in Pfizer, the GlaxoSmithKline-owned company that is producing the vaccine, and Bill Gates is also a primary donor and supporter of the World Health Organization that declared a "pandemic" based on 187 unconfirmed cases, and which is a primary beneficiary of Pandemic Bonds foisted off on investors by the World Bank. We have known that Pfizer, the vaccine company producing the Covid 19 vaccine is owned by GlaxoSmithKline, the owner of the Wuhan Lab. We have known for a long time, almost from the beginning, that the Chinese Government had little or nothing to do with the development of the Covid-19 virus and even less to do with its escape. What emerges is a textbook example of the Hegelian Dialectic in action. Self-interested schmucks causing a problem, then presenting themselves as the experts with the handy, dandy, patented solution to the problem they caused, and then profiting from it. These criminals are nothing to do with countries, but a majority surrounding this fake pandemic originated in America, not Chinese. So tell me why these people are not in jail after what they've done and the damage they have caused? Tell me why these corporations aren't being charged for crimes against humanity? GlaxoSmithKline, Pfizer, Vanguard, Black Rock, WHO, the World Bank, any corporation that had any hand in this hideous fiasco, why shouldn't they be gone? Blame the Russians, blame Iran, blame Bin Laden, blame Hussein, blame terrorists and now it is blame China which Trump is endorsing, despite him being aware of all of the facts by April of last year, something the Trustee can agree with. Yet we outed many peoples, groups and agencies with our Expose series globally, but many of those leads all led back to one country, and it was not China, but the criminal elements in the military, Pentagon, Universities, Research centers, Medical agencies and the Intelligence Agencies all in one country, not China, but America. So we welcome the Senators delving into the truth, but the great question is, do they wish to hear the truth or find another boogeyman to target and hate on?

OTHER ITEMS: The binary gender system in Western society is far from universally accepted, indeed the Western culture backed by jackass think tanks, and word salad liberals go some way to muddying waters of what a gender is these days, when all it requires is some common sense thinking. Incapable of defining anything because these people are moronically stupid, and think they are being clever coming up with differing word salad definitions for 2 + 1 genders. Far from being clever, I would describe their levels as socially, morally and spiritually bankrupt, they are like computer codes spitting out random words and numbers, and thinking it makes some sort of sense, well in one way it does, it's called nonsense. On the Polynesian island of Samoa, near Fiji, fa'afafines and fa'afatamas are widely regarded as third and fourth genders, alongside male and female. What are fa'afafines and fa'afatamas? The third and fourth genders of fa'afafine and fa'afatama have always existed within Samoan society. When translated literally, they mean "in the manner of women" (fa'a fafine) and "in the manner of man" (fa'a fatama); these genders are fluid and move between the traditional world of men and women. Fa'afafines and fa'afatamas have specific roles in Samoan society, in an interesting contrast to transgenderism in Western society, which is yet to be widely accepted. Have there always been four genders in Samoan culture? The recognition of these genders is not a recent occurrence: pre-Christian Samoans accepted and acknowledged that every individual, man or woman, had a separate role in society. Hence, it is still acceptable for a male child to be feminine, for example. Samoan boys who display marked effeminate behavior in childhood, are recognized to be fa'afafines and are fully accepted within their families and society. In the same way, girls who exhibit more masculine tendencies are accepted as fa'afatamas. These genders tend to care for the elderly in society and educate people about sex, which is a taboo subject for men and women to discuss in public. What is the dance of taupou? This is one of the lasting Samoan traditions preserved by fa'afafines and fa'afatamas. The taupou is a ceremonial host, usually chosen by the village high chief. During a pageant, a fa'afafine or fa'afatama is chosen to take on the role of taupou because of their gender-fluid nature, which allows them to dance in a graceful and feminine manner and to use sexual comedy to highlight taboo subjects. Taupou wear specific clothing, usually a tōga, which is wrapped around the body, alongside an ula nifo, a whale-tooth necklace, usually reserved for chiefs and their offspring. Today, they also carry a nifo'oti, a large club modelled on a cane whaling knife. How does this compare to Western gender categories? It is difficult to classify the Samoan genders in Western cultural terms. These societies often misuse or do not fully understand categories such as transgender, homosexual and transvestite, all of which were created to classify males and females. Samoans reject many of these terms; fa'afafines and fa'afatamas identify as separate genders. They cannot be termed homosexual, as in addition to having a separate gender identity, they have a varied sex life which may be with another man, woman, fa'afafine or fa'afatama. Within Samoan society, tolerance of all individuals and their likes, dislikes and choices is very important, and children are not pushed to conform to particular gender roles in the same way that Western children generally are. Where can I learn more about fa'afafines and fa'afatamas? The book Memoirs of a Samoan, Catholic, and Fa'afafine (2007) is a valuable read for a better understanding of fa'afafine life in Samoan culture. It tells the story of Vanessa, a fa'afafine born to Catholic missionary parents, and his upbringing in the American Samoan Territory of the United States, close to Samoa. During these years, he outlines his struggle to come to terms with his sexuality and gender, and the ways in which he contributed to society. There is also a book called Samoan Queer Lives (2018) by Dan Taulapapa McMullin (himself a fa'afafine) and Yuki Kihara, which contains autobiographical stories from the 1940s to today from fa'afafines. I have no issue with people choosing their differing sexuality, in fact quite frankly it is no one else's business. But what I do have issues with is, people putting it in your face and creating word salad labels for each other, and then using that as an agenda to divide the people. The real issue with society and sexuality lies within the church itself, it is they who created division within the people over sexuality and it's varying forms. Whether that be homosexuality, pedophilia or even bestiality, all of which is mentioned in the bible, what a holy book that is, not! Yet these same dividers of the people engage in all those acts and more, it is the greatest height of hypocrisy on this planet.

A recently partially de-classified British Intelligence document, WD 199, confirms that Osama bin Laden aka U.S. CIA employee Tim Osman, died of kidney failure in the mountains of Tora Bora near the Afghanistan-Pakistan-Chinese border in December of 2001. The late Tim Osman aka Osama bin Laden is currently buried inside the People's Republic of China. We can also divulge that the WD 199 British Intelligence document details how Osama bin Laden aka Tim Osman, illegally signed over control of the U.S. national security proprietary accounts to representatives of the U.S. State Department, who were present at the CIA Dubai hospital where bin Laden was in early December of 2001 before he was flown to Tora Bora and soon after died. The CIA have a hospital in Dubai oh my, and what are the coincidences of Tim Osman the CIA operative attending there. All of these national security proprietary accounts tied to Osama bin Laden aka Tim Osman were frozen in September of 2001 under the terms of the UN-Constitutional Patriot Act, which basically gave Bush and the conspiratorial Federal Reserve and its then Chairman Alan Greenspan emergency control over the U.S. Treasury. These funds have been used in various illegal trading programs, on offshore trading platforms in Pakistan and India for over eight years. It should come as no surprise that internet gossip columnist Christopher Story has finally stopped trying to co-mingle the funds under the trusteeship of Ambassador Leo Wanta aka the Wanta-Reagan-Mitterrand Protocols with the funds that are tied to a financial dispute between former illegal White House occupant George W. Bush and the Queen of England. We can also reveal that U.S. Treasury investigators have absolute proof that the noted CIA proprietary account Marvelous Investments Ltd. (MIL) was hijacked from the administrative control of American patriot Ambassador Leo Wanta when noted East German DVD agent and Hillary Clinton confidant Eva Telege aka Teleke aka Teleki forged Wanta's signature. This operation had the approval of both Hillary Rodenhurst Clinton and then Massachusetts Governor Mitt Romney and known neo Nazi, East German DVD agent Colonel Dana Wilcox. The stolen funds from MIL were then used to replace stolen funds from the known CIA proprietary account Delmarva Timber Trust. Note: It was Colonel Dana Wilcox himself that originally looted funds from the Delmarva Timber Trust on the order of his 'handler' former President George Herbert Walker Bush. We can now divulge that these funds tied to the Delmarva Timber Trust were used to finance alleged Al Qaeda aka the Hamburg, German terrorist cell code name "Becker" through the noted German Deutsche Bank.

In what sounds like something straight out of science fiction, Israeli and US researchers say they have created nine different mini human Organs-on-a-Chip that will pave the way for researchers to test out drugs on humans. Not only that: the researchers also managed to connect the nine Organs-on-a-Chip they have developed, including a Brain-on-a-Chip, a Heart-on-a-Chip and a Liver-on-a-Chip, creating what they call a "mini Human-on-a-Chip." Two new studies by researchers in Tel Aviv University and Harvard University on the subject were published in the journal Nature Biomedical Engineering on Monday. The use of the word human to describe a person has increased dramatically over the last few years, why even reference the use of that word? the only logical and common sense reason for using that term is, is if those using it are not. Organs-on-a-chip were first developed in 2010 at Harvard University. Then, scientists took cells from a specific human organ, heart, brain, kidney and lung, and used tissue engineering techniques to put them in a plastic cartridge, or the so called chip. Despite the use of the term chip, which often refers to microchips, no computer parts are involved here. What is new in the two studies published on Monday is the fact that, the researchers have now managed to link-up the various organs, and have proven that these can react to drugs in the same way as human organs would in a clinical trial, said Dr. Ben Maoz of Tel Aviv University's

Department of Biomedical Engineering and Sagol School of Neuroscience in an interview with The Times of Israel. When developing drugs, researchers try them out first on rodents and only then, if successful, on humans. But some 60%-90% of the drugs that are successful in rodents fail in humans, explained Maoz, a co-author of the studies. This makes the process of drug development very long and expensive, he said. Ideally one would want to cut out the rodent stage and get to human testing directly, for quicker results. So, you kill humans and not the rodents, nice non thinking, but then the authorities out of Israel were never known for their compassion for non Jews. That of course is impossible he said until the two new studies. A team of 57 scientists at Tel Aviv University and Harvard and other research entities and drug developers, worked for seven years on a project to develop what they call, a functioning comprehensive multi Organ-on-a-Chip platform that reacts to drugs, just as real humans would react to them in a clinical setting. We created a human model that is not a human being, said Maoz, who co-authored the studies on the subject with Prof. Donald Ingber, the founding director of Harvard University's Wyss Institute for Biologically Inspired Engineering, Ingber is born in and born to, and with the Wyss Institute's Prof. Kevin Kit Parker. The scientists did this by taking human cells and through tissue engineering. managed to mimic the functionality of the organ from which the cells were taken, like the liver or the heart within a plastic cartridge the size of a USB flash drive. The kidney acts as a filter, and the heart acts as a pump in the body, Maoz explained. So the researchers managed to tissue engineer the human kidney cells to work as a filter within the plastic cartridge, creating a "Kidney-on-a-Chip," he explained. Likewise, for the heart. The scientists managed to make the human heart cells contract within the cartridge, creating a Heart-on-a-Chip. And the same procedure was performed on other organs and parts: the liver, the brain, the blood brain barrier, the lung and bone marrow, skin, and the intestine. The scientists created a so-called Interrogator, a robotic liquid transfer device to link individual "Organ Chips" with each other, in a way that mimics the flow of blood between organs in the human body. We created a unique machine that connects between the nine organs, the brain, the lung, the bone marrow, and others, like a lego, to create a mini 'Human-on-a-Chip'," Maoz said. The linking system they created was tested successfully for at least three weeks, the Tel Aviv University said in a statement. The researchers then tested their Organs-on-a-Chip with two drugs: a drug to combat intestine inflammation and a cancer drug. Their study showed that when the drugs were injected into the new system, the Organs-on-a-Chip reacted and responded to the medications just as real human organs did in clinical trials with the drugs. We were able to create nine unique human organs on a chip, and connect between them, and show that what you put in the system is comparable to human clinical data," he said. To get to this point was not easy and there were many challenges on the way that had to be overcome, Maoz explained. For example, real human organs live off oxygen supplied to them by human blood. So the researchers had to develop a way to feed their cells in a chip and devised an artificial blood, made-up of different chemicals, minerals, vitamins and hormones and other components, that fed the cells in the chip. Also, whereas in a human organ there are billions of cells, the Organ-on-a-Chip just has thousands of cells, so the researchers had to develop computational models to overcome the size problem, and ensure that the cells function like those in a real organ, even while on the chip. So, what now? “There are millions of directions we can take this,” Maoz said by phone. indeed few that are beneficial to people. Hopefully one day people will be able to use this to test drugs instead of animal models, serving as an alternative to animal experiments and cutting back on their suffering. Another application could be to use the system to create personalized mini Organs-on-a-Chip, each person with their own cells and organs, to test how they would react to a particular drug. We could create a mini me-on-a-chip, this would help save time and pain of experiments. The dream is to expedite and personalize drug development. The multidisciplinary research project was funded by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) project at the Wyss Institute. Since when have DARPA done anything but use technology for weaponisation against the people. Several authors on both studies, including Prof. Ingber and Prof. Parker, are employees and hold equity in Emulate, Inc., a company that was spun out of the Wyss Institute to commercially develop Organ Chip technology, the universities said in a statement on Monday. Emulate Inc. indeed, what are they emulating? humans, this is a form of cloning and leading to ultimate goal of transhumanism. Mini me's, fake blood, organs on a chip all leads to their desire for an all bot world, these people are egotistic psychopaths pretending to be god. Where is the regulation on this research? who oversights it? We need a full moratorium on all research centers globally, because the shit these psychopaths are up to these days, is beyond evil.

Hellmouth, or the jaws of Hell, is the entrance to Hell envisaged as the gaping mouth of a huge monster, an image which first appeared in Anglo-Saxon art, and then spread all over Europe. It remained very common in depictions of the Last Judgment and Harrowing of Hell until the end of the Middle Ages, and is still sometimes used during the Renaissance and after. It enjoyed something of a revival in polemical popular prints after the Protestant Reformation, when figures from the opposite side would be shown disappearing into the mouth. A notable late appearance is in the two versions of a painting by El Greco of about 1578, and political cartoons of the time showed Napoleon leading his troops into one. Medieval theatre often had a hellmouth prop or mechanical device, which was used to attempt to scare the audience by vividly dramatizing an entrance to Hell. These seem often to have featured a battlemented castle entrance, in paintings usually associated with Heaven. The oldest example of an animal Hellmouth known to Meyer Schapiro, was an ivory carving of c. 800 in the Victoria and Albert Museum, and he says most examples before the 12th century are English. Many show the Harrowing of Hell, which appealed to Anglo-Saxon taste, as a successful military raid by Christ. Schapiro speculates that the image may have drawn from the pagan myth of the Crack of Doom, with the mouth that of the wolf-monster Fenrir, slain by Vidar, who is used as a symbol of Christ on the Gosforth Cross and other pieces of Anglo-Scandinavian art. In English, crack of doom is an old term used for the Day of Judgement, referring in particular to the blast of trumpets signalling the end of the world in Chapter 8 of the Book of Revelation. A "crack" had the sense of any loud noise, preserved in the phrase "crack of thunder", and "doom" was a term for the Last Judgement, as doomsday still is. More biblical fearmongering. In the assimilation of Christianised Viking populations in northern England, the Church was surprisingly ready to allow the association of pagan mythological images with Christian ones, in hogback grave markers for example. The churches are based on Paganism and ritual sacrifice is why. In the Anglo-Saxon Vercelli Homilies (4:46-8) Satan is likened to a dragon swallowing the damned: They never come out of the pit of snakes and of the throat of the dragon which is called Satan. The whale-monster Leviathan translated from Hebrew, Job 41:1, wreathed animal has been equated with this description, although this is hard to confirm in the earliest appearances. However, in The Whale, an Old English poem from the Exeter Book, the mouth of Hell is compared to a whale's mouth: The whale has another trick: when he is hungry, he opens his mouth and a sweet smell comes out. The fish are tricked by the smell and they enter into his mouth, suddenly the whale's jaws close. Likewise, any man who lets himself be tricked by a sweet smell and led to sin will go into hell, opened by the devil, if he has followed the pleasures of the body and not those of the spirit. When the devil has brought them to hell, he clashes together the jaws, the gates of hell. No one can get out from them, just as no fish can escape from the mouth of the whale. Later in the Middle Ages the classical Cerberus the three headed chimera, also became associated with the image, although it is hardly likely that the Anglo-Saxons had him in mind. Satan himself is often shown sitting in Hell eating the damned, but according to G.D. Schmidt this is a separate image, and the Hellmouth should not be considered to be the mouth of Satan. The Hellmouth never bites the damned, remaining wide open, ready for more. In general the motif had fallen from favour in Italy and the Netherlands by the late 14th century, and is rarely seen in the many Last Judgements in Early Netherlandish painting, but in late medieval works by Hieronymous Bosch and his followers, where the wide interior of Hell is shown, there is often a Hellmouth leading to some special compartment. It continued in use in Germany and France. The Hellmouth appears, swallowing a bishop, at bottom left in The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, a famous woodcut by Albrecht Dürer (c. 1497–98).

So, here is the reasoning behind doing that piece. There was a G7 summit in Cornwall England this past week, during the summit a man died on the cliffs located near the summit, the name of the cliffs? Hells Mouth, one has to ask was that a sacrifice? But we just spoke of the whale connected to Hells mouth, and just by massive coincidence this story appears. A Cape Cod lobsterman who claims he survived nearly being swallowed by a whale, says he could see Matt Damon the Good Will Hunting star and fellow Massachusetts native portraying him in a potential Netflix movie about his harrowing tale. Michael Packard, 56, added to fans asking him questions on Reddit on Saturday that people have taken to calling him the obvious, “Jonah” and described how hospital doctors responded when he told them what happened. I said, I got stuck in a whale’s mouth, all the nurses and doctors at the hospital came to see me and ask me about it. Some Packard families are connected directly to the elites, ain't that right Tom? Hells mouth sacrifice, whale swallowing man, Jonah story and asking Matt Damon or is it Daemon to play his part in an acting role? all in the same week? It is often said, all the worlds a stage, and everyone is an actor in a role, these events prove it. It is all pure theater and illusion, replaying scenes and acts from a very old movie script, these el-itist clowns love to play.

EXPOSE: A bit of a follow up on last weeks piece. Jews and Judaism in China are predominantly composed of Sephardi Jews and their descendants. Other Jewish ethnic divisions are also represented, including Ashkenazi Jews, Mizrahi Jews and a number of converts. The Jewish Chinese community manifests a wide range of Jewish cultural traditions, and it also encompasses the full spectrum of Jewish religious observance. Though a small minority, Chinese Jews have had an open presence in the country since the arrival of the first Jewish immigrants during the 8th century CE. Relatively isolated communities of Jews developed from ancient all the way to modern China, most notably the Kaifeng Jews, the term Chinese Jews is often used in a restricted sense in order to refer to these communities. Kaifeng the name literally means "opening the border" and figuratively hidden and vengeance, sounds apt to me. In the 19th and early 20th centuries, Jewish merchants from around the world began to trade in Chinese ports, particularly in the commercial centers of Hong Kong, which was for a time a British colony; Shanghai (the International Settlement and French Concession); and Harbin (the Trans-Siberian Railway). In the first half of the 20th century, thousands of Jewish refugees escaping from pogroms in the Russian Empire arrived in China. By the time of the establishment of the People's Republic of China in 1949, only a few Jews were known to have maintained the practice of their religion and culture, like the Donmeh they went underground. China's Jewish communities have been ethnically diverse, ranging from the Jews of Kaifeng and all other ports throughout China. It is reported that they came to be more or less totally assimilated into the majority Han Chinese populace, due to widespread intermarriage; especially during the Ming Dynasty, a common el-ite theme that, and also confirmed by Rosenthal and Finkelstein. In the late 20th and early 21st centuries, however, some international Jewish groups, most notably Shavei Israel, have helped Chinese Jews rediscover their Jewish heritage and reconnect with their Jewish roots. China’s first contact with the Jewish people came as a result of the development of the Silk Road, an ancient trade route linking China with the Middle East and Europe that was created during the Han Dynasty in 206 BCE and incorporated existing trade routes that were established 200 years earlier by the Persian Achaemenid Empire. Actually the silk road was ran by the Jewish traders, not Chinese. The first wave of Jews in China traveled from West Asia over the Silk Road and by sea via India during the Tang dynasty

(618 – 907 CE). It wasn't via India, it was from India, the sub gray race. The fact they traveled by sea during the 6 to 9th century backs up an earlier claim that the Spanish conquistadors who attacked native in America and Central America, were the Sephardic Jews expelled from Iberia. They consisted of Babylonian and Persian Jews who traveled along the Silk Road, and received the Tang Emperor's blessing to reside in Kaifeng. They eventually formed a distinct Kaifeng Jewish Community during the Song Dynasty, where many eventually became prominent civil servants, doctors, rabbis, and businessmen. They eventually assimilated into Chinese culture, learned the language, and began to intermarry with the Han Chinese populace. Other Western scholars speculate that the first wave of Jewish settlement in China may have arrived even earlier during the Later Han dynasty (25 – 220 CE), which coincides with the Roman persecution of Judean Jews after the Roman destroyed the Temple at Jerusalem in 70 CE. The presence of a community of Jewish immigrants in China is consistent with the history of the Jewish people during the first and second millennia CE, which saw them disperse and settle throughout the Eurasian landmass, with an especially large concentration of Bukharan Jews settling throughout Central Asia. Bukharan comes from Uzbekistan, and they are part of those thrown out of the Indian garden of Eden. By the 9th century, the Persian geographer Ibn Khordadbeh noted the travels of Jewish merchants called Radhanites, whose trade took them to China via the Silk Road through Central Asia and India. He mentioned the presence of Jewish merchants in a number of Chinese cities, and the important economic role they played transporting merchandise, as well as transmitting scientific and technological expertise by land and sea, all the way from Spain and France via the Middle East to China. The medieval Italian explorer Jacob of Ancona, the supposed author of a book of travels, was a scholarly Jewish merchant who wrote in vernacular Italian, and reached China in 1271, although some authors question its veracity. During the period of China's opening to the West and British quasi-colonialism, the first group to settle in China were Jews who arrived in China under British protection following the First Opium War. Many of these Jews were of Indian or Iraqi origin, due to significant British colonialism in these regions, nothing to do with colonialism. The second community came in the first decades of the 20th century when many Jews arrived in Hong Kong and Shanghai during those cities' periods of economic expansion. Many more Jews arrived as refugees from the Russian Revolution of 1917. A surge of Jews and Jewish families was to arrive in the late 1930s and 1940s, for the purpose of seeking refuge from the Holocaust in Europe and were predominantly of European origin. Shanghai was notable for its special area assigned to Jewish refugees, most of whom left after the war, the rest relocating prior to or immediately after the establishment of the People's Republic of China. Over the centuries, the Kaifeng community came to be virtually indistinguishable from the Han Chinese population, and is therefore no longer recognized by the Chinese government as a separate ethnic minority. This is as a result of having maintained already-Jewish and adopted many Han Chinese customs including patrilineal descent and extensive intermarriage with the local Han population. Since their religious practices are considered to be functionally extinct, they are not eligible for expedited immigration to Israel under the Law of Return unless they explicitly convert. So much for being one of gods chosen people then, do as we say or your banished with the goyim. A cryptic and fitting song before the final piece.

In a car manual 50 years ago it showed you how to adjust the valves, the current one asks you not to drink the contents of the battery, how time has changed and how dumbed the masses have become. Built on convenience of letting the system look after you, the school educate you, the supermarket to process food for you, the government to think for you, the tv to dictate your thinking patterns and dominate your perception of other people and other countries, celebrities to decide for you what to wear and what to buy, media telling you how to vote, medical people telling you, and in some cases forcing you to take this and that, brokers telling you how to invest, insurance companies telling you to fear, vaccine for profit groups passing off as governments agencies to jab yourself, hospitals telling you what treatment you can and cant have, its bizarre and time the people stop being children and grew up and make informed decisions for themselves.

The journey of the meat suit, it gets battered and bruised, humiliated, tortured, poisoned and broken, it is abused externally and internally, external harm and internal harm, as within so without, but the soul/spirit package goes on regardless. We identify by our meat suits, making competitive and comparative judgments on them, we put them through rigorous turmoil's both physically and mentally, not spiritually as that is not the realm of the meat suit. We add cosmetics, surgery and other extensions to the meat suit in the pursuit of vanity, yet rarely do we tend to or care for enough our soul/spirit package. It is criminally neglected, starve of nourishment, devoid of spiritual enlighten and rendered almost obsolete, yet without it, the meat suit dies. You are and never were about the meat suit vessel that operates temporarily in terms of time on this 3D planet, your soul/spirit package has done this many times in many forms in the past, and will do in the future, the great question is, how have you the meat suit looked after it and treasured it for the life it has given you? Without the soul/spirit the meat suit is an empty clone vessel, like a naked shop window dummy awaiting to be dressed. The sadness is, so many despite wearing clothes on their animated body, are in real terms naked in terms of spirituality. Often people judge external growth, better job, house, car, clothes and bank balance as a sign of growth, nope they are all external gratification elements, your real growth is and always was internal, and the praise can only come and be administered by you. Self hugs and self praise is heavily neglected areas of our own growth, no one else needs to be aware of it, it is your own personal contract with your soul/spirit package. Speaking of it for external praise is pure ego imbalance. This is what the program known as religion has taken away from all who still participate in that mind control deflection program, where everything is external of you, and you are perpetually seeking something that never materializes, why? because it is all fake. Everything you are, have or need is within you, including technology, including healing modalities and also including your god. Once the individual comprehends that, their whole essence and vibration changes, from the fear based religious program to the love based soul/spirit and spirituality package, where real enlightenment begins. The soul is a particle of the Source possessing in embryo all his capabilities. It's action is defined and regulated by the nature of the physical organization it animates. The lowest point of sentient existence is that, in which evil is unmitigated by any particle of good. From this point existence ascends by cycles of genera, until it attains its acme by being blended with that of the Source. The human cycle is the middle one in which good and evil are equipoised. Every human being is a free agent, the soul according to its choice being liable to fall back into the lower cycles, or capable of rising into the higher. Probation ceases with the human cycle. Above it good becomes the dominant, evil the helpless principle. Continually thus ascending, the soul becomes at last united to and part of Source, and in Source again pervades the universe. And with that we all become the one on one with the one. Let 'em say we're crazy, we don't care 'bout that, put your hand in my hand, don't ever look back. Let the world around us just fall apart, we can make it if we're heart to heart. We can build this dream together, standing strong forever, nothing's gonna stop us now.
