

THI-SHOW TRANSCRIPT 2022-10-20

Everybody wants to rule the world, all except the ones who should be ruling it, we the people and that has to change to bring real change about. An awful lot of the narrative from our show is appearing in mainstream news now, this is not just about THI but the collective consciousness is now reverberating around the world, and forcing the liars of the MSM into covering it. Mostly not in the vein of balanced opinion, but to twist the narrative back to the old lying ways of the past. That is and will not work in the future, and many of these pieces tonight reflect that collective consciousness now prevailing all around the world. With two very positive signs.

Part 3 of the New Blueprint for humanity is now completed, and part 4 is 90% done. Once the final pieces are edited and formatted, this will then be announced and read out in a single show. After that will be the release of the documents to the relevant authorities. Preparations for that are still being finalized.

As once a great Empire we are told, Britain proudly flew its flag aloft of many a country under the commonwealth, including to this day in secret, America. Britain is now reduced to ashes as their spitting imageless puppets called politicians wreak havoc and decay of permanent decline. Not content with placing an over-privileged toff boy in office in Boris Johnson, only to have him unceremoniously removed. He waffled on for more months until a successor was found. For the second time in 6 years, a female was designated to run the country. Elevated and celebrated in female circles as, watch her show the men how to govern, and that is understandable thinking in part, but also deeply flawed and not because of gender. Liz Truss entered the scene, truss means a brace or anchor, almost symbolic of holding up and supporting the country. But, the Truss snapped yesterday and Britain is left without a leader or an anchor. Which is symbolic on many levels of a once proud nation. Her reign lasted 44 days, as she underwent a barrage of complaints, u-turns forced upon her by the real problem in the UK, bankers, particularly of the Crown variety. The self-serving and sanctimonious within the Government will be glad, as for the public, it should be noted politics is a collective and all who are currently elected from any party has to take their responsibility as well, and they should be forced to resign as well for letting down their people. Including the Israeli puppet as the Labor leader, Keir Starmer. One hopes the people of Albion rise and demand a new leader, you have had your two women and it didn't get any better, only worse. That is not the fault of either females, or indeed either party, it is the system that is radically wrong. Governments are not designed to work for the people, only the system of chaos. If Britain like America is to succeed as a country and for the people, she and America need to close of the square mile and shut it down permanently, turn it into a museum. It should go from BR-exit which was Baron Rothschild exit to the East, to CR-exit and the Crown exit. Time to end the Crown, after another Crown departed recently, the Queen. The museum suggestion is ironic at this time, as Britain is all but a museum itself and ancient set of relics of a once glorious past.

MEDICAL: Piers Morgan has explained how he had changed his mind concerning whether people should, or should not, be required to have the Covid-19 vaccination, when it was revealed that the jab had no effect on how transmissible the virus was. Posting the video clip from Piers' show, Piers Morgan Uncensored, on her Twitter, which boasts 535,700 followers, Denise Welch started by writing: Are you absolutely fing joking Piers Morgan! Not mincing her words as Piers laughed about being pilloried for both of his opinions about the vaccine, Denise continued to call out the presenter, writing: you scare mongered and terrified people, called people akin to murderers, called me a covid denier and covidiot!!! You bullied and harassed because you did not do your own homework. Covidiot are actually the ones who took it and promoted it, funny how they switch around isn't it? Whilst the reaction is understandable and this will come out more and more now, this exchange doesn't help anyone. Personally I applaud Piers Morgan for having the courage to admit he was wrong. Imagine a world where everyone does that action?

A Toronto-based tech company says it recreated ArriveCan within less than 48-hours to show that the federal government overpaid millions for the app.

Sheetal Jaitly, chief executive officer of Toronto-based TribalScale, said it would have cost his company less than $1-million to build the app, a fragment of the millions poured into the digital software. ArriveCan's cumulative cost has been contested. While a CBSA report said the organization had spent a total of $29.5 million on the app, media reports have cited a $54 million price tag.

Anthony Housefather, Member of Parliament for Mount- Royal said this gem; ArriveCan is not a simple information sharing app. It is a secure transactional tool that used Artificial Intelligence to verify proof of vaccination. An AI based app shows they are incapable of building one themselves, and also reveals the attempted fake reality world using AI also.

NEWS: As the UK warns, that January and February could be marked by three-hour blackouts, the head of Britain's National Grid ESO, John Pettigrew, said on Monday. Soaring inflation triggers national strike in France. A national strike in France on Tuesday has seen trains canceled and schools closed, as trade unions demand higher salaries for workers amid soaring inflation and an energy crisis. According to one of the country's largest trade unions, CGT, the protesters are calling for an increase in wages, pensions and social minimum and the improvement of living and study conditions. Where France leads, others follow, expect a winter of discontent in Europe. As Australia has reversed a previous government's recognition of west Jerusalem as Israel's capital, the foreign minister said Tuesday, prompting consternation from Israel. The center-left Labor Party government agreed to again recognize Tel Aviv as the capital. The Cabinet also reaffirmed that Jerusalem's status must be resolved in peace negotiations between Israel and the Palestinians, Foreign Minister Penny Wong said.

Is that evidence of faction wars? Or something playing out on a wider scale? Biden made threats to American workers in China, telling them if they don't stop work over there, they will lose their citizenship. Following that; American suppliers are beginning to withdraw staff from one of China's leading chip companies in the wake of new US regulations, a blow to Communist Party efforts to build a vibrant domestic technology industry. Which has said to have wrecked their semiconductor industry, leaving China with only one option for the supply of chips, Taiwan. Which leaves China in a position to attack Taiwan and reclaim their lands. In steps a born in and born to Israeli puppet to declare this. Beijing has decided to capture Taiwan much faster than previously thought and may use force to do so, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken has said. Are the Israeli junta arm trying to stir up war? Meanwhile on the financial war surrounding energy, takes another twist and turn. After Biden had visited Saudi Arabia in the hope of persuading the world's largest oil producer to increase production and offset petrol costs rising as a result of Russia's invasion of Ukraine. Instead, last week, Saudi Arabia and its allied oil-producing nations in the Opec+ group including Russia, agreed to a surprise reduction in supply that will push prices up. Biden threatened unspecified consequences for the Opec+ decision and on Wednesday night. US Democrats told Saudi Arabia that if the kingdom did not change course, they would force a one-year freeze on all arms sales. Negating the fact that the US junta need those arms sales, more than the Saudis need the weapons. A Saudi prince related to Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman's seemingly took aim at President Biden and the U.S., warning leaders not to threaten Saudi Arabia. Anybody that challenges the existence of this country and this kingdom. All of us, we are products of jihad and martyrdom, said Saudi Prince Saud al-Shaalan, who is married to one of the granddaughter's of the late King Abdulaziz Al Saud. That's my message to anybody that thinks that it can threaten us. King Abdulaziz Al Saud founded Saudi Arabia. The question is, who or what was King Saud? What are there relations to the Israelis? Are the Saudis just interested in the money and will sell to whomever wants it? Or is there something else at play within the faction fighting? But, given they are a proxy Israeli state, is there now a split within the Jewish based ranks? Seems the faction wars are heating up, hopefully the Blueprint will change that thinking, because they only have one way of rectifying things, war.

Just when you think you have heard it all with taxes, out comes some jackass politician to deliver more, or in this case a Jackie-ass. As New Zealand have put in a proposal for a so-called fart tax, that may sound light-hearted, but it's been met with outrage from one of the country's biggest industries. The world-first policy will begin charging farmers for agricultural emissions, including the methane burped out by cows and sheep, as well as the nitrous oxide found in livestock urine, in some form by 2025. A consultation on the plans was launched on Tuesday and will end on November 18. Ardern, who heads up New Zealand's Labour Party, has pledged to reduce methane emissions by 10% by 2030 and make the country carbon neutral by 2050. We the people aim to reduce all politicians talking shit and hot air by 2025 also. Here comes the spin, she says: no other country in the world has yet developed a system for pricing and reducing agricultural emissions, so our farmers are set to benefit from being first movers. So, you will charge them more, how is that beneficial to struggling farmers? Cutting emissions will help New Zealand farmers to not only be the best in the world but the best for the world. No, you will achieve what psychopaths like Gates wanted all along, zero farmers. That entity is an inherent danger to society, whatever gender it is, and the people of New Zealand need to get her out and away from political power altogether. I hope they don't implement that policy here, as the dark winds will bankrupt us.

As Swedish climate activist Greta Thunberg break ranks with the German Green Party on the subject of atomic energy, and urged the German government not to abandon the technology. I thought she was all about the environment? You cannot get any more dangerous to the environment and indeed people, than nuclear power.

An upcoming episode of the YouTube talk show The Shop: Uninterrupted has been scrapped after Kanye West allegedly used hate speech and extremely dangerous stereotypes in an interview. Is this more truth or is it more agenda, we shall see.

The move came as, it emerged the star had shared a series of comments based on racist conspiracy theories in a separate interview with Fox News.

Fox removed those segments before the broadcast, but the footage was leaked to technology website Motherboard.

The star, who is legally known as Ye, was previously suspended from Instagram and Twitter for making anti-Semitic comments. Those posts came in response to a backlash against his show at Paris Fashion Week, where he wore a t-shirt carrying the slogan White Lives Matter. What is wrong with that statement? Why is it that white lives don't matter? And who is the main promoter of that narrative? We don't have to go too far to find out, as here they come again, the world's greatest and most prevalent in racist policies advocating themselves as the authority on it, it is laughable in the extreme the sheer audacity of them.

The Anti-Defamation League has called the phrase hate speech and attributed it to white supremacists, who began using it in 2015 in response to the Black Lives Matter movement. That is blatant discrimination, how can one color matter and not all colors matter?

Amid the backlash, he appeared on Fox News, where he told host Tucker Carlson the t-shirt was funny and the obvious thing to do. Indeed it is, as our FHSTOS Part 9 revealed in stark clarity.

In unaired clips from the same interview, which leaked on Tuesday, West detailed his belief in an unfounded anti-Semitic conspiracy theory, that Planned Parenthood was founded to control the Jew population in conjunction with the Ku Klux Klan. He was right but not the Jews you are thinking of, as he explains next.

When I say Jew, I mean the 12 lost tribes of Judah, who the people know as the race the Blacks really are, he told host Tucker Carlson. Referring to a claim, unsupported by historical evidence, that Black people are the real Jewish race, and that Jews are attempting to steal their birthright. Partially correct and would love to engage him and banter knowledge bases back and forth. Just because the Israelites are revered in the bible, does not mean they were decent people, as our story has revealed. With more knowledge he may not wish to state that fact.

West also complained that his children were attending a school where Kwanzaa, which is an annual celebration of African-American culture is taught. Saying he would rather they learned about the Jewish holiday Hanukkah because at least it will come with some financial engineering, yet another anti-Semitic trope said the report. It is not a trope, that is a fact 100%, their financial engineering has ruined the old world, and I dare anyone to prove that fact I made, to not be correct. They control almost every aspect of finances globally, and given all the finances are in an unrepairable mess, they must take the full responsibility for it.

More Gates style jackassery of not only interfering with humans, but also our food sources. A dairy farmer in New South Wales Australia is now forced to vaccinate her herd with an mRNA vaccine. She complied and of the 200 head of cattle, 35 died instantly. Some other farmers are complaining their cows die right after the jabs also. The reporter said he would sue the DPI. The farmer said it is mandatory for all dairy farms to have their herd jabbed with this mRNA vaccine. It is not certain yet if that's for NSW or across Australia, investigations are underway to ascertain that. What are the implications? Dairy herd DNA is altered and milk is altered. Butter constitution, yoghurt, cheese, meat is altered, they are asking will chicken and other meats be next? The reporter said; it is time to grow your own folks and maybe develop herds that are private, none tagged and never vaccinated. Only problem with that here is, rogue organizations like the USDA have to give approval of it, and they won't. There is no organic meat that has a USDA label on it, all meats are sent to USDA processing plants and they add the chemicals there. Stop paying extra for organic meat or produce, it is a scam. The reporter said; it is time to set up a community farm association with member with farmers who are not part of the system, have herds or animals that are not jabbed or tagged, so a community of private people can be consumers of organic produced livestock. It's time to fend for ourselves as an organized community. I agree and in some way we have started that at THI.

SpaceX CEO Elon Musk now says that his company will continue to pay for the Starlink satellite Internet service for Ukraine, a day after suggesting SpaceX could no longer afford it. The hell with it, Musk said on Twitter. Even though Starlink is still losing money and other companies are getting billions of taxpayer $, we'll just keep funding Ukraine govt for free. He told his more than 108 million Twitter followers on October 14 that SpaceX cannot fund the network indefinitely, amid reports that he has asked the Pentagon to step in. He issued the statement after SpaceX sent a letter to the Pentagon last month, saying it could not continue to fund the Starlink service in Ukraine, and that it may have to stop funding it unless the U.S. military gives the company tens of millions of dollars a month. The Defense Department later confirmed that it received a request from Musk to take over funding for the satellite network. The official said the issue has been discussed in meetings and senior leaders are weighing the matter. And some people who think they are awake are supporting this guy. SpaceX is secret government/military joint operation that much is now clear, and yet stupid people think he is on our side, how deluded can you get. 108M followers? For someone working with and for the EL-ites, no wonder this world is in a mess. Can't teach stupid it seems.

Two FBI officials testified on Friday that while detailed to Special Counsel Robert Mueller's team, they sought to investigate longtime Democratic operative Charles Dolan for his connections to Russia and specifically to Dmitry Peskov, who is the press secretary for Russian President Vladimir Putin, but were denied by their superiors. Yet again more evidence to support the claims and allegations that, the FBI is a puppet organization for the DNC and more evidence of faction wars.

Having mentioned Anthony Blinken earlier whilst he bangs war drums again, of which the American people will have to pay for and endure. He said this week in typically fear-based rhetoric that people all too readily gobble up. Americans have to be the ones who are at the table who are helping to shape the rules, the norms, the standards by which technology is used, he said.

If we're not, if the United States isn't there, then someone else will be and these rules are going to get shaped in ways that don't reflect our values and don't reflect our interests, Blinken explained. Where is the evidence that the US have set any moral standards or values on anything? The people might have, but there is zero evidence of anything political ever being moral. Would it be such a bad thing if someone else makes the rules, sets the norm or standards? Like our blueprint for example.

The US Secretary of State Antony Blinken said; The US must be the nation that sets global rules to make sure that American interests and values are supported. What does he mean by American interests? The military? The agencies? Or the quasi-government known as Israel? Yet again, there is no evidence politically of the interests of the people or the values either. The other option is that there is nobody setting the rules, and we're going to have chaos, before we have a world that's actually organized to try to take advantage of all of the progress that we're making. Chaos then organized by taking advantage of it, now where have we heard that before? Order out of chaos, their order and their created chaos, they are just waiting for the public reaction. Mr. Blinken or is it blinkers, what progress is that? Shekels? War drums? The world is already in chaos of you and your ilk's making. Only we the people can actually organize a world that has values, morals, is organized, fair and transparent. Above all with it in the interests of everybody, not the select few. Time to wave it and them goodbye.

SOCIETY & OPINION NEWS: US President Joe Biden was recorded apparently sniffing a young girl's hair on Friday, before telling her no serious guys until you're 30. The president has a long history of inappropriate comments to children. Posing for photographs after a speech at a California community college, Biden placed his hands on the shoulders of a teenage girl and appeared to inhale deeply. He then offered the girl a very important thing I've told my daughters and granddaughters, no serious guys until you're 30. OK, I'll keep that in mind, the girl replied, as Biden repeated himself. A video of the conversation was posted on Twitter by reporter Kalen D'Almeida. The girl looks back appearing uncomfortable and secret service appeared to try to stop him from filming it. Biden offered similar advice to a nine-year-old girl in March, and has a history of inappropriate comments to and involving children. Before taking office, Biden fondly recalled having kids jumping on his lap in a Delaware swimming pool, and the president has been photographed fondling and sniffing young women since his time as vice president.

After a number of women came forward with accusations of borderline sexual harassment in 2019, Biden described these interactions as gestures of support and encouragement. A week later, however, the then-candidate called a 10-year-old girl as good looking at a campaign event.

In an entry to a diary believed by the US Justice Department to be genuine, Biden's daughter, Ashley, wrote about taking showers with my dad as a child, saying that these encounters were probably not appropriate. All this taking place in front of our faces, yet 50M plus American's voted for this guy? What does that say about Americans in overview? They don't care? That leading officials can do what they like, as long as they don't ask the populace to do anything? And as long as they take responsibility for everything as well. The very fact this does not create an internet storm says more about us than him.

The Pentagon told Fox News Digital that a diversity chief under fire after anti-White posts were exposed would be under a probe for one month before a final decision is made. The probe regards the chief diversity, equity and inclusion officer at the Department of Defense Education Activity (DoDEA), Kelisa Wing, who described herself on Twitter as a woke administrator and said she was exhausted with these White folks. The Pentagon told Fox News Digital that the matter would be taken to the Under Secretary of Personnel and Readiness, for a final decision 30 days after the initial review, which started on September 19. So, the review is due, let's see what unfolds. Wing's Twitter account also said, this lady actually had the CAUdacity to say that black people can be racist too. Caudacity is a slang term that is used to describe audacity demonstrated by White or Caucasian people. She then says, I had to stop the session and give Karen the business, we are not the majority, we don't have power, Wing said. Notice she did not address the statement? Of black people can be racist too. Just point blank ignored it, a common tactic that and why nothing ever gets addressed or fixed. On another occasion, Wing responded to a user who said, I am exhausted by 99% of the white men in education and 95% of the white women. Where can I get a break from white nonsense for a while? Wing then said, if another Karen tells me about her feelings, I might lose it. As a result of these tweets, 22 House Republicans including some on the Armed Services Committee, requested that Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin take immediate action to investigate her for shocking bias. This woke ideology is destroying our military and poisoning the minds of American children, Rep. Elise Stefanik, said. The Department of Defense has routinely prioritized adhering to woke ideologies instead of strengthening our national defense. This is shameful and an insult to the brave men and women who selflessly serve our nation she said. Indeed, the Pentagon and their think tank jackasses are part of disrupting American people and their lives, with a robust promotion of racial division, all designed to in my opinion, create wars on our streets. The black people should be aghast, after years of trying to get in prominent positions, only to see them embarrass and disgrace them, all of which fuels the racists on the opposing sides of the debate. The only way to stop this is, what we have attempted to do, unite the races, sadly a positive response has not been forthcoming as we wished. And therein lies the real problem, clowns can come up with all kinds of programs, it only works if we comply to them, and people like Kelisa Wing (yet more bird politics) are fueling it. But, there is hope on this matter, more on that later.

So, what is a Karen? Karen: is a member of an indigenous people of eastern Burma (Myanmar) and western Thailand. Or the language of the Karen, probably Sino-Tibetan. But, that has been lost in the current child level social media world. Karen is a pejorative term for a white woman perceived as entitled or demanding beyond the scope of what is normal. The term is often portrayed in memes depicting white women who use their white privilege to demand their own way. Depictions include demanding to speak to the manager, being racist or wearing a particular bob cut hairstyle. So, now these racists and division people are deciding how you can cut your own hair? Comparative much? As of 2020, the term increasingly appeared in media and social media as a general criticism of middle class white women, including during the Covid-19 pandemic and the Black Lives Matter protests. A more pointed explanation, which involves race, is the expression originating among Black people to refer to unreasonable white women. The term was popularized on Black Twitter as a meme used to describe white women who tattle on black kids' lemonade stands or who unleash the violent history of white womanhood. Violent history of white womanhood? I guess like racism that only applies to the white race as well. The highest proportion of imprisonment for all females is violence, at 40%. Given there is more black jailed than white as they point to as discrimination, this reveals the black female violence rate is much higher than the white or any other color female. In fact the fastest rising crime between 1980 and 2020 was the female, by 475%. A 475% increase in female incarceration, and yet no one appears to want to address that fact? These are the facts that no one wants to cover, the sole reason for covering it is, if you find the actual problem a solution can then be proffered. Until then we just continue to argue, spin our wheels and divide each other. Karen in essence is just as bad and as racist as the n word is it not? It is also a sexist word to boot and yet it appears as if that is ok, as it only is against one race, who don't appear to have any value, given the rhetoric against it. I wonder which race of beings gains from all of this? That is the true tragedy and problem surrounding these issues. All of it becomes a convenient distraction, as all programs tend to do. The great question is; when will the people see through the obvious programs against them?

It has now emerged in the UK that women in the workplace are selling sex as a second job due to the cost of living crisis, it has revealed. As rising inflation, soaring energy bills and real-terms wage cuts gnaw away at household budgets, greater numbers of women have been left with no option, but to turn to sex work to put food on the table, outreach groups revealed. There has been a significant uptick in single mothers, both women already holding down a primary job and others reliant solely on universal credit, entering the sex industry or returning to it after managing to leave. The type of work varies from adult phone lines and webcam performing, for those with a laptop and reliable internet connection, to in-person escorting and selling sex on the street. The decision to sell sex is almost always motivated by economic need, said Rosie Hodson, a spokeswoman for sex worker safety charity National Ugly Mugs. It's absolutely the case now, said Ms. Hodson, who is a sex worker herself. Ms. Hodson attributed the rising number of women entering the industry to the cost of living crisis, which began while the public was still feeling the strain of the Covid pandemic. The cost of living crisis is coming on top of Covid, pushing more people into financial need. The point is, that is a looping method, short of money use your body or indeed sell it. Here is a novel idea, why don't the people come together and fix who is the creator of the problem? This is why they keep abusing us, because we the people tolerate their conditions set, and/or work around it doing extra jobs like sex work or 2 jobs just to live. They will keep making things tougher and tougher for us until we all learn to come together and end it.

Here comes the labeling of what are called the Generation Z children. As more members of Gen Z enter the workforce, it can feel like battle lines are being drawn between younger employees and more established workers. Managers routinely call this generation entitled, complaining that they can't complete simple tasks. Don't blame the kids, blame the cause, which is the government and the Israelis running the education program. Meanwhile, Gen Z is frustrated that employers are often merely paying lip service to issues like mental health support, pay equity, corporate responsibility and diversity. I don't agree with all of that, employers are not responsible for people's health or support. Gen Z may be facing similar hurdles to the ones millennials did when they started to enter the workforce, it feels like every new generation is called lazy by older workers, but they're also facing even bigger challenges amid the backdrop of the Covid-19 pandemic and a rapidly-evolving work culture, says Lindsey Pollak, a leading career and workplace expert. Everyone has been through a different pandemic and a different experience with Gen Z. I think we have to acknowledge that they were enduring a pandemic at a very specific point in their lives and in their careers, and that means probably more well-being support; that means often being more explicit about expectations. Zero to do with Covid, it has become the new excuse for everything these days. Gen Z attitudes that may come across as lazy or entitled to a more seasoned worker are actually just different values and different approaches. Sometimes, it's simply a matter of taking the time to teach Gen Z employees about things that might have been considered common sense for other generations, says Pollak. Tasks like making small talk with a client or writing a professional email is a no-brainer for those who have been employed for years. But many in this youngest generation didn't grow up doing those things, or have been out-of-practice during the pandemic. It's like each generation is from a different country, you don't speak the same language and you don't have the same customs. You may know how to do your job here in the U.S., but if your boss sent you to Dubai, you would probably have to change a few things because it's a different culture. You're smart, but there are some differences that would require adjustments and learning along the way. In some respects, this is what Gen Z is undertaking right now. This is a combination of things, where were these employers complaining about the school system? The school system does not prepare anyone for work life or adulthood for that matter. What about the parents, why haven't they complained about the schooling either? This goes into what Kim and I warned 5 years ago, the full on collapse of America and it's working industry, by making people stupid and incapable of doing basic skills, means you lose business to the East. The children in many ways are far too pampered nowadays, with agenda based programs giving them every excuse under the sun to not do things. But, there is another caveat to this; maybe the youth are just not buying their system anymore, unlike previous generations? If that is the case, what happens next? Do we collapse or build anew? That is what the Blueprint is all about. Of how to lift all of our human races here into an adult-based community that thrives.

More evidence to support our claims that the religious program is floundering badly, and someone wants to try and correct by throwing ridiculous sums of money at it in an attempt to change the tide. Jon Lee has some words for evangelical leaders who argue that Christian ethics like kindness, honesty and loving your neighbor don't apply to culture-war politics. Except they are not Christian ethics at all, that is the people who choose to live that path not the church. Why do people constantly give not only their power away, but their good deeds or manners and attribute it to the church or religion? All meaning that the church and the religion is a harvesting center, and their followers are on the menu. They are not praying, they are being preyed upon, big difference. Good luck, said Lee, a principal at Lerma, a cross-cultural advertising agency based in Dallas. Lee is one of the chief architects of the He Gets Us campaign, a $100 million effort to redeem the Jesus' brand from the damage done by his followers, especially those who say one thing and then do another. Launched earlier this year, ads featuring black-and-white online videos about Jesus as a rebel, an activist or a host of a dinner party have been viewed more than 300 million times, according to organizers. Billboards with messages like Jesus let his hair down too and Jesus went all in too, have also been posted in major markets like New York City and Las Vegas. The campaign, funded by the Signatry, a Christian foundation based in Kansas, that will expand in the next few months, with an updated website, an online store where people can get free gear if they forgive someone or welcome a stranger, and an outreach program for churches, all leading up to a Super Bowl ad. Lee said organizers also want to start a movement of people who want to tell a better story about Jesus and act like him. Werrrrll that starts with you Mr. Lee, you clearly haven't studied a single word about Jesus as the narrative goes, did he not turn over the money tables for a reason? And you want to put in $100M in his name, if Jesus did exist he would have never asked for $1 in support of his name, never mind the obscenity of $100M. Mr. Lee if you are going to throw money away, give it to something useful like the homeless, the impoverished and the poverty stricken, because if you truly knew the Jesus story based on the narrative we have been given, that is exactly what he would have done. Incredulous and downright bizarre thinking, spending $100M promoting a man who has been dead for 2000 years, completely insane.

The Alberta Premier Danielle Smith on Wednesday tried to clarify her comments made at her first press conference in office a day earlier, when she suggested unvaccinated people were the most discriminated against group she's ever seen in her lifetime. She shouldn't have to clarify it, isn't it funny when truth is revealed, that it has to be clarified, and yet lies spew forth with far too much regularity and is rarely or barely questioned. You all should know what happens next, out come the sanctimonious perpetual victimhood based people in all walks of life, regaling how they have had it worse. Why would you wish to claim that title? Look at me I am a victim and my life is worse than yours, is not only competitive and comparative in the extreme, but is sadly a serious inner-based issue that your focus is on the negative experiences of life and not on the positive aspects. All of which means these people have done no inner work at all. Some of these alleged victims are worse as they are a third party group that never underwent the alleged discrimination, but just like to complain or fit in with other like-minded low vibrational people. What a way to live life that is. Immediate condemnation swelled across the country, from people pointing out the many injustices faced by marginalized groups all over the world and the millions of lives that vaccines have saved throughout the Covid-19 pandemic, (M) victimhood and delusion to boot, all of which made Tuesday a tough first day for Alberta's new premier. Clips of her suggesting unvaccinated people were the most discriminated against group garnered many thousands of views online. Smith had also pledged, just hours after being sworn in as premier, to protect unvaccinated people under the Alberta Human Rights Act and said we are not going to create a segregated society on the basis of a medical choice. Here, here and not before time either someone came in with a bit of common sense. B.C. Premier John Horgan called the idea laughable during a media appearance, we will ignore any official out of BC given the corruption ongoing there. But guess who chimed in next? The ultimate pity party espousing their special and unique to them only, brand of victimhood, as the Jewish Federation of Edmonton had said in a social media post that it had reached out to Smith's office to express our concerns. Medical experts and political figures across the country likewise scorched the suggestion. that unvaccinated people were the most discriminated against group in Smith's lifetime. We can ignore them as well as all of their experts got it wrong, consequences of those choices and opinions they forced onto others, will be forthcoming. With a provincial election just seven months away in Alberta, it's going to be a tough road for Smith as she deals with the fallout from the comment made during the marathon press conference that lasted an hour. Members of the Alberta NDP jumped all over Smith, demanding an apology, with Opposition Leader Rachel Notley calling her comment completely disrespectful and tone deaf on Twitter. Others chose to draw attention to the well-documented discrimination against other groups in Alberta, particularly Indigenous people. The last Indian Residential School closed in 1996, wrote Mi'kmaw educator Jarvis Googoo. Indigenous children died at these schools, were sexually and physically abused and they went through cultural genocide. Yes, we at THI are aware of that and have done much to highlight it, but what has that got to do with the story of discrimination against the unvaxxed? This full on pity party club is embarrassing, what was lost in that piece is, a public official stood up and told the truth, all of which appears to bother so many. Kudos Danielle Smith, keep telling the truth and you will have our support.

EXPOSE: This group we have highlighted before in general, but this is more about a subsidiary group or spin off from the main cult, known as Mormonism. A group founded on fake plates and narrative of a person stated to have relationships with children or under age children. The whole cult is based upon in part Freemasonry and the Egyptian fake gods narrative, sprinkle a bit of intrigue, fear and child abuse, and it becomes indicative of all religions. Just why are children abused sexually or otherwise at alarming levels in all religious denominations? Why are the churches held in such high esteem, when their abuses and theft from the public has been ongoing since its organized inception? The obvious example is; the fear of god, what amazes me is, with all the words “god” spoke of is, no one questions why their god would put people in fear to begin with? Why would their god send retribution for not following his orders? Where are the free will choices in that scenario? Ten former members of a Utah-based polygamist sect known as the Kingston Group are pursuing punitive damages against the organization, after they say it subjected them to years of unpaid labor, sexual violence and human trafficking. In a lawsuit filed earlier last month, the sect’s ex-members allege: It is largely through illegal marriage practices that the Kingston Group is able to, unlawfully, make girls and their children religious martyrs and traffic them for sexual and labor purposes. The lawsuit contains explicit details of how Kingston Group leaders, who also own and operate several businesses and schools in the suburbs of Utah’s capital, Salt Lake City, who allegedly arrange incestuous and sometimes underage marriages between teenage girls and adult men with exalted status, to then produce hundreds of children. It is not allegedly in general terms that is what goes on in the leafy suburbs of Salt Lake, after having spoken to a number of Mormons and an outsider introduced to a Mormon family, who they made it clear to her she should make her body available to all of the family. Producing hundreds of children? All sounds very House of Saud and royalty that to me. Bearing in mind they are copying the fake gods they worship also, all about staying in power is it not? The suit alleges episodes of rape aimed at forcing pregnancy, group members covering up years of sexual abuse and indoctrinating children in elementary school about plural marriage. The plaintiffs’ attorney, Roger Hoole, declined to elaborate beyond his clients’ lawsuit or respond to requests for interviews with former group members. In a response to the allegations against it, the Kingston Group, also known officially as the Davis County Cooperative Society and internally as the Order, said its current policy prohibits plural marriage for members under 18. They also claimed to believe that marriage is a personal choice that should not be coerced. The Order indeed, now where have we heard that before, do these people do anything original? Or given their freemasonic links, is it order out of chaos? Members they say, are encouraged to prayerfully seek guidance from their parents or through personal inspiration, but ultimately, the decision must be their own, the group said in its response to the lawsuit. The problem is the parents are a part of it, so what chances do the children have in that environment? Whereby they are sexualized at such a young age, one wonders how many of the Mormon people advocate for reducing the age of sexual consent? The group added: Once an individual has made a decision on who to marry, members are encouraged to seek the blessing of their parents, family and/or church leaders, but to say that one individual chooses or heavily influences who will marry who, is entirely inaccurate. Notice they don't say anything they are doing to prevent illegal under age marriage or under age sexual relations in that rebuke? Nine of the plaintiffs claim the Kingston Group made them begin working during their elementary or preschool days through their late teenage years. None of them received a paycheck, they allege. In her complaint, Amanda Rae Grant claims she was assigned to work in her early teens at Advance Copy, where wedding announcements and invitations were printed, because wedding pictures of little girls marrying men in incestuous or plural marriages could not be printed at Walmart. Another plaintiff, Jeremy Roberts, said he started working four hours a day the year-round, at a farm run by the Order when he was seven or eight. He allegedly was told that his hourly pay was $3.23. By the time he was 12, Roberts said, he was working 12-hour shifts at a mine the Order ran. This is sheer hypocrisy on behalf of the US government, proclaiming human rights abuses about China, N. Korea and many others, when it is unfolding in their own back yard. Where is the FBI in this matter? Why haven't they pursued numerous cases that have come up several times? Utah as a state was originally banned for polygamy, why is it now appearing to be government and law enforcement approved? The problem is, the Mormon's have money, lots of it and also they are the largest holders of gold within America. Money talks in this country and all kinds of crimes and abuses are overlooked, because some have money. The Kingston Group denied allegations that children worked for their businesses. The group also said that its business owners are strongly encouraged to follow all applicable laws when hiring, employing and compensating their employees. The key word there was, applicable, which means their laws are not in full scope or wide ranging. The allegations facing the Kingston Group come after the state of Utah effectively decriminalized polygamy between consenting adults in 2020, making plural marriage an infraction similar in gravity to a speeding ticket. However, if a spouse is coerced or underage in a plural marriage in Utah, it becomes a felony. Except everyone who falls foul of it is terrified of reporting it, as law enforcement are in part in on it, as I was told. A bit like the RCMP in Canada and the Kamloops story. Who do the children turn to? Their parents? When they are in part consenting and promoting it? The church? They will go to any lengths to protect the so-called sanctity and reputation of the church, even if it means isolating, incarcerating or sectioning children who report it. It marked the latest chapter in Utah's long, complicated history with polygamy. To help Utah achieve statehood, leaders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, issued a manifesto ending polygamy as a practice in 1890. However, more than 130 years later, polygamist sects exist in close-knit settlements throughout the state, including the Fundamentalist Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (FLDS), run by its imprisoned leader and convicted rapist Warren Jeffs. Pro-polygamy groups estimate there are about 30,000 to 40,000 people in Utah who live in polygamist communities. The Kingston Group declined to confirm its membership numbers. While the Kingston Group, founded in 1935, is not affiliated with the FLDS, members practice a fundamentalist version of Mormonism that involves polygamy. Members are primarily born into the organization whose leader Paul Elden Kingston is known as the Man in the Watch Tower. The lawsuit against the group is not the first time it has faced media scrutiny or legal peril. In August, the Utah state charter school board mandated that the Kingston Group-run charter school, Vanguard Academy, replace all nine members of its governing board after various and repeated violations. Officials alleged that school leaders hired Kingston-connected businesses and paid them with taxpayer money, the Salt Lake City television news station KUTV reported. Vanguard Academy's leaders sued state charter school officials in response, and a judge issued a restraining order that kept the targeted governing board members in their positions. So, another section of the cover up is in the so-called justice departments then, given the judge just squashed it. The school faces a three-month probation during which it is required to rectify its issues or face closure. Meanwhile, in July 2019, four members of the Kingston family pleaded guilty to fraud charges after federal authorities established that an Order-run business, Washakie Renewable Energy stole a half billion dollars' worth of biodiesel tax credits and laundered it through shell companies. The lawsuit cites Washakie Renewable Energy as an example of the group's many attempts to defraud the government. At times, the Order has members forge and fabricate documents, often against their will, to further their self-interests, the lawsuit alleges. Another in the long line of shekel based only people it seems to me. Given this cults following of all things Is ra el and Egypt related, I hope people realize this is a copy of an on world cult based on an off world cult of devious and hideous practices. The plaintiffs' complaint added those practices facilitated so-called attempts by the Kingston Group to bleed the beast, a term used in polygamous communities to describe how they can benefit by defrauding the government and its taxpayers. The Kingston Group said the concept of bleeding the beast is abhorrent and was never a tenet of its organization. The group argued that its values exact self-sufficiency and that per capita its members save or contribute more to their community than the average citizen does, all which they take off of them, more on that later. If the bleed the beast is correct, what the Mormon's are stating is: that America and its people are the beast. However, the fraud accusations confronting the Kingston Group extend well beyond Washakie and other Order-run businesses. The lawsuit explains how the birth certificates of multiple plaintiffs failed to list their biological fathers, so those men could escape the legal consequences inherent to having multiple and often underage wives. Two of the plaintiffs – Michelle Afton Michaels, 22, and LaDonna “Blaklyn” Ruth Lancaster, 18, share the same father, Jesse Orvil Kingston, the lawsuit alleges. The suit alleges Kingston family members try to preserve their blood purity, which they refer to as Pure Kingston Blood by marrying and procreating with other Kingston's. All very Jewish, EL-ite, Egyptian pharaoh and off world cultures like the Draco, that to me. The group has called the Pure Kingston Blood term fringe, unfamiliar, and somewhat offensive for its members, and it rejects any preference for any particular family or bloodline. Jesse Orvil Kingston is not listed on either Michaels' or Lancaster's birth certificates, according to the lawsuit, which additionally accuses him of fathering more than 300 children with 14 wives. What in the name of satan's portion is that type of practice? That equates to 20 plus children per wife, women are not there is to be baby factories for this cult. Why are the birth registration department not flagging these practices? Are they part of it as well? Clearly, they are in on it seems. Why haven't the doctors, hospitals, child care not flagged or addressed these obvious anomalies? Because clearly it seems they are in on it as well. The Guardian typically does not identify people who allege to be a victim of sexual violence, but the publicly available lawsuit identifies Michaels, Lancaster and other plaintiffs by name. Amanda Rae Grant alleges her father is Verl Johnson, accusing him of marrying 17-year-old Lori Peterson and two others to produce 33 children. Instead of being listed on her birth certificate, Grant says the document listed a fictitious father called Kyle Grant. The lawsuit claims that Utah state officials went so far as to track down a man named Kyle Grant for the purposes of collecting child support payments, but they concluded he was not Amanda Rae Grant's father. This was told as a funny story in Amanda's family, the lawsuit alleges. The Kingston Group argued that it is parents' prerogative to file birth records for their children how they choose within the bounds of the law. This is especially true of the mother, who has the legal right to establish paternity or not to establish paternity at the time of filing, the Kingston Group said in a statement. Yes, but what if the mother has no choice in the matter due to bullying, coercion and the fear of being thrown out of the community? The statement added that the group has not issued any specific guidance for members pertaining to birth certificates, or medical records, but encourages its members to follow the law. The great question is; which law? Talmudic? One of the lawsuit's more shocking allegations centers on claims from plaintiff Jenny Kingston, 25, that her parents sent her to a rehabilitation center named Lifeline for Youth for six months, to punish her for resisting her marriage to Jacob Daniel Kingston Jr, the son of the Washakie energy company's boss. Like I said the parents are part of it, where is the protection for the children in Utah? She accuses Kingston Jr of physically overpowering and raping her to try to get her pregnant. Group members knew of the abuse, her complaint alleges, but did not report or stop it. Instead, she claims they used group money to get her in vitro fertilization treatment. She later fled the group with her twin children. If Mormons don't like me saying this, personally I don't care what you think or say, even more so after Mormon's issued death threats on me and Kim when I was in Durango. Mothers in Utah and the fake church? Why are you tolerating these levels of abuse? Where is your self-worth? Why are you not protecting the children? They treat women and children like some sort of commodity to do as they please, and yet people tolerate this shit? Where is your dignity? Respect? And honor to your children? What example are you setting? And why would you allow yourself to be used as a baby factory and sex toy for people with severe twisted and dark maligned minds? My question in return is; what are you doing to correct this? How are you protecting the children? And why are you giving implied consent by turning up to church each week? One hopes the children are safe and protected before, during and after the lawsuit and they get the right justice served for their suffering. Mormon's if you don't like this piece, fine, just do something to protect all the children in Utah, walk away from the church, stop paying their tithe and do the right thing.

Speaking of Mormon's brings in this piece prepared by our law group and all things tithe. Tithe etymologically means; A tenth part (originally of produce) due as support of the clergy, c. 1200. Ty or is tie or bind, a suffix representing ten in cardinal numbers that are multiples of 10 English, like many other Germanic languages, retains traces of a base-12 number system. The duodecimal system also known as base 12. This duodecimal system is perhaps due to contact with Babylonia. How interesting, Babylonia brought in the twelve system as well as the money system it seems, which means in some part they were Orion's. Remember the merkaba is a 12 based system as well, The US adopted the tenth system with their currency, as dime means a tenth also. Article 99 - Tithe Canon 7482 A tithe is a system first instituted by King Henry VIII in 1534 (26Hen8. c.3) with his Pisan and Venetian advisors, whereby people subject to the jurisdiction of the Crown were obliged to donate each year one tenth of their profits to the benefit of the local parish. The tithe system was gradually replaced by the introduction of the duty system from the end of the 17th century onwards and finally abolished in the 19th century.

Canon 7483 Similar to the system of Annates or First Fruits as instituted by the Roman Cult in the 13th century (but falsely claimed of much older provenance), tithes always concerned profit derived from use and usually excluded clergy from obligation, and considered payment technically as an ecclesiastical donation, rather than a forced seizure. Clergy excluded, sounds like a modern day cor-pirate company of the EL-ites. Essentially this sounds to me like the first gambit leading to income tax. Donation rather than a seizure, is similar to the US income tax, donate or face seizure.

Canon 7484 In terms of structure, tithes were divided into estate, land and personal: (i) Estate tithes, also known as praedial tithes were claimed from the profits attributed to a large franchise and estate, and the tithes owed by the nobility, who then frequently looked for ways to avoid payment by claiming themselves as clergy; and (ii) Land tithes, also known as mixed tithes were those arising from animals deriving their nutriment from the soil; and (iii) Personal tithes were those arising entirely from the personal industry of men and women. Yep, the basis of the new taxation of the public's wealth for their own personal gain. What they are essentially saying is, we own the world and everything in and on it, and you must pay us to live, work or play here.

Canon 7485 Similar to Annates, bona fide clergy and religious were always considered exempt from paying tithes by law: All of which means they come under the Jewish jurisdiction, because the Jewish religion be it the Talmud or the Torah is the religion of law. (i) In 1535, the year after the invention of tithes and tenths, King Henry VIII through (27Hen8. c.8) ensured that spiritual persons were exempt from paying tenths, when paying first fruits or charges associated with commission to office, providing they forward the payment of first fruits to them; and (ii) The exemption of clergy and religious was reinforced in 1703 under (2&3Ann. c.11) with the creation of Queen Anne's Bounty as to the pensions of clergy and as part of the gradual shift away from tithes towards duties; and (iii) The condition of exemption from the payment of tithes and now duties was further refined in 1714 under (1Geo1. S2.c.10) with the requirement of bishops and senior clergy providing a valuation of benefices of clergy as well as certificates of exemption. Become a fake person of god, although too few ask which one, and you can keep all your money. All whilst their stupid followers have to cough up much of their earnings, all to keep these harvesters in business and wealth. Another religious based group who don't understand the true meaning of love.

OTHER PIECES: Felis which is Latin for spy/cat was a constellation created by French astronomer Jérôme Lalande in 1799. He chose the name partly because, as an alien invasive species lover, he felt sorry that there was not yet a cat among the constellations, although there are two lions and a lynx. It was between the constellations of Antlia and Hydra. Antlia or ant liar and Hydra, the Black Sun Element? oh my. The generic name Felis is derived from Classical Latin fēlis meaning cat, ferret. Ferret which is interesting, it has been claimed that the ancient Egyptians were the first to domesticate ferrets, well I never. Are they from the same origin or species via genetics? In England, in 1390, a law was enacted restricting the use of ferrets for hunting to the relatively wealthy, with this caption. It is ordained that no manner of layman which hath not lands to the value of forty shillings a year, shall from henceforth keep any greyhound or other dog to hunt, nor shall he use ferrets, nets, heys, harepipes, nor cords, nor other engines for to take or destroy deer, hares, nor conies, nor other gentlemen's game, under pain of twelve months' imprisonment. This next part may have wide ranging dot connections, if the ferret is linked with the spy. Ferrets are an important experimental animal model for human influenza, and have been used to study the 2009 H1N1 swine flu virus. Smith, Andrews, Laidlaw (1933) inoculated ferrets intra-nasally with human naso-pharyngeal washes, which produced a form of influenza that spread to other cage mates. The human influenza virus Influenza type A was transmitted from an infected ferret to a junior investigator, from whom it was subsequently re-isolated. Things that make you go hmm?

Well I never, another science change in the offing, possibly? As some scientists have now witnessed something we have stated some time back, after a black hole that consumed a star has begun ejecting its light several years later, leaving scientists with more questions than answers. Black holes are known for swallowing stars and any other celestial bodies that have the misfortune of getting sucked into their orbit, but what happens next is more mysterious. There is no known way to explore the interior of a black hole. Experts believe that the singularity at the center of a black hole compresses all matter into such an infinitesimally small point that space and time collapses in on itself. The other side of the singularity is the white hole, why white? Because the light comes through from stars that make it through. It is torus shaped, as above so below, as within so without. Scientists have employed many strategies to confirm, and better understand, the awe-inspiring power at the center of every black hole, most recently using computer simulations of black holes to better understand their behaviors. Nearly 50 years ago, Stephen Hawking speculated that black holes have the potential to erase any information about their formation when they dissipate, which is a violation of a foundational tenet of quantum mechanics, any process in physics should be mathematically reversible. In the wake of Hawking's suggestion, the fascination with black holes has only continued to grow. Recently, unprecedented behavior from a black hole nearly 665 million light years from Earth is further upending current theories about how they behave. New research published in The Astrophysical Journal recounts how in Oct. 2018, a black hole consumed a small star. While such an event is violent, it is also quite commonplace. Unusually, however, the black hole has begun to spew material from that star nearly three years later. The phenomenon raises questions about what could have caused the delay, and what was happening inside the black hole during that time. Pondering time. Their theories whilst interesting, don't attempt to cover the patterns of life and how they repeat. Which leaves many scientists floundering based on effects and not the causes. If every other body has a torus shape to it, why would a black hole not have one? As for the light from that star returning, what if it wasn't the same star? If not what is likely is, a star went through the white hole and came out of the black hole. Like a star gate in essence between differing Universes.

One of our members posted this and it shows just how many and powerful Jews were prevalent in America after the early 1900's. Remember in the census around 1900-10 that we covered in the FHSTOS Part 9, there was no listing on the census for the term Jewish. All of which begs the question as to why they were not included on the census? Why didn't the lobbyists back then cite that was anti-Semitic? The fact that it was not pulled up, suggests it was a deliberate policy by the US government to not reveal their numbers to the public. But this piece is an extraordinary story in terms of the sheer numbers, the fanaticism of it all and the in your face actions of what unfolded in the video. A recent theme in the past 2 decades is the term flash dancing all spontaneously taking place by seemingly unknown people in public. But this video blows the flash dancers away as a meticulously planned routine was performed in front of a familiar dark-based statue. The dancers and indeed the audience you can see in the video, all appear to be in trance-like states, decide for yourself. On July 3, 1933, over 100,000 Jews gather at Soldier Field in Chicago to celebrate 3,000 years of Jewish history and nationhood by worshipping a fire-breathing statue of Moloch and feeding it children which we can only hope were not real. How did they gather 100K people back then with no internet or phones? Or did they have that system Finkelstein mentioned whereby they can notify every Jew, using the Kehilla system. He said; We know how to get the word out to every Jew in the world, that goes to a synagogue, within 45 minutes. Was that in place in 1933? Three thousand years ago was the time of the Melchizedek's, the Essenes who the Urs dropped around that time. The Essenes appeared from nowhere and described as a mystic Jewish sect. Jewish history and Nationhood they say? They had no nation in the traditional sense, with nation generally meaning country. Except the original meaning of that time was, nation meant race, as in a race of beings. The term of nation for a country did not start until the term Nation-building, a creation of a new nation is attested by 1907. Nation-state; a sovereign country the inhabitants of which are united by language, culture and common descent is from 1918. The event in Chicago was called The Romance of a People, romance of the people? Seriously, they see sacrificing children as the romance of the people? Wtf!! It was organized by the Zionist Organization of America, sponsored by the Jewish Agency for Palestine, and produced by Meyer Weisgal, with help from Rabbi Solomon Goldman as well as Maurice Samuel, the author of You Gentiles. The Zionist organization oh dear, as for the book how is or was that not banned given the word gentile is a major slight on people not Jewish? The You Gentiles 1924 book written by Romanian-born British and American-Jewish author Maurice Samuel. How can you be American and Jewish? If the two don't mix? The book goes on to discuss the main points of difference in behavior between Jews and Gentiles focusing on physical activity, religion, concepts of good and evil, loyalty, science, fair play and discipline. Competitive and comparative much? The work contains some passages which, in the early twenty-first century, might be labelled hate speech, except hate speech it seems only applies if you are white, or part of the think tank agenda. As an example, under We, The Destroyers, Samuel writes, We Jews, we, the destroyers, will remain the destroyers forever. Of course, that was repeated a decade later by another Jewish EL-ite called J. Robert Oppenheimer who was the scientific director of the Manhattan Project I am become death, the destroyer of worlds, he said following nuclear testing. Of course, the original destroyer of worlds was Shiva, who conveniently has a statue of him outside what potentially was going to be the destroy of this world in modern times, CERN. The book spits forth more bile by saying; Nothing that you will do will meet our needs and demands. We will forever destroy because we need a world of our own, a God-world, which it is not in your nature to build. The wretched fate which scattered us through your midst has thrust this unwelcome role upon us. They were not scattered, they were brought here and told to spread out and multiply, if that sounds familiar in biblical terms, that is really who and what that book is referring to. Which brings into question who was the Adam and the Eve? One of the big speakers at the event was none other than Chaim Weismann, first president of Israel and the guy who alongside Lionel Walter Rothschild authored the Balfour Declaration, which was the agreement that dragged the US into WW1 in exchange for the British stealing Palestine from Ottoman Turkey and allowing Jews to settle there. The Jews from Turkey where the Donmeh we covered in FHSTOS Part 8C. Chaim Weismann has come up a few times in our story before. In part 5 of FHSTOS and also July 28th 2022, when a person of the same name cropped up. In 1903, British Colonial Secretary Joseph Chamberlain offered Herzl 5,000 square miles in the Uganda Protectorate for Jewish settlement, called the Uganda Scheme. It was introduced the same year to the World Zionist Organization's Congress at its sixth meeting, where a fierce debate ensued. Some groups felt that accepting the scheme would make it more difficult to establish a Jewish state in Palestine, as the African land was described as an ante-chamber to the Holy Land. Lobbying by Russian Jewish immigrant Chaim Weizmann, together with fear that American Jews would encourage the USA to support Germany in the war against communist Russia, culminated in the British government's Balfour Declaration of 1917. Take note of the name involved Chaim Weizmann. So, that was early last century, but we did a piece recently about the discussions taking place within the UN, declaring Jews to be Khazar's. They asked for a Jewish person to comment on it, and it revealed this. During the UN debate over the Palestine Partition, Chaim Weizmann responded, sarcastically: it is very strange, all my life I have been a Jew, felt like a Jew, and I now learn that I am a Khazar. What a coincidence that is! same name, same spelling, same race one hundred plus years apart, like I have said all along, his story always repeats unless people take notice about it and act against it. And it proves all the world is a stage, with bad actors. I will post the video of this event on Mewe. The event was Moloch-worship and child-sacrifice rituals as an expression of Jewish history, all of which confirms that the modern Jews do in fact descend from the Canaanite, Ammonite and other tribes which the Bible tells us they were cut off from God for mixing with and worshipping their idols (their fire-god Moloch) and offering their children to them (re-enacted above), which they still do today. This next is biblical scriptures the author pointed out, all of which may fit in or describe these more modern-day events, but does little to address: Where they came from? Why are they here? Who gave them rights to trample all over this world, whilst harvesting it and its people? More importantly, why have we allowed it? The Bible says that the descendants of these tribes, shall not enter into the congregation of the LORD; even to their tenth generation shall they not enter into the congregation of the LORD forever, confirming that Jews cannot be saved. Just as Jesus warned, they say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan, here is the video evidence of that. Interesting they mentioned the tenth, which came up earlier with the tithes. They were all there, worshipping their ancient tribal god and celebrating the coming war which would lead to a new world with Jews at the top, an event that took place within months of Hitler taking power. I believe this event and who made it happen demonstrates the inseparability of our spiritual and racial struggles, both connected and in perfect line with the Biblical timeline and its account of tribes and bloodlines. But whether or not you agree on that, the footage speaks volumes to the character not only of the leading minds of early Zionism and organized Jewry, but of the Jewish spirit and people. Who builds a big statue of a bull with an oven in its stomach, makes it breathe fire, and then stuffs children (real or fake) into that oven while crying out like banshees and dancing around it? The answer was: Jews in the middle of Chicago on a Monday. One has to ask why that was allowed? Who gave them license to do that in public view? Where was the outcry over it? In many ways had they been stopped or at least stalled back then, things would not be as bad as things are now. Can you imagine a white group, supremacists or otherwise doing that now? The outcry would be unmerciful. Even if the blacks requested or did it, it would likely be denied. Evil being passed off as drama or theater, well, when all the world is a stage with bad actors and bad audiences, what do you expect? 1933 it should be remembered, heralded the income tax reform as well, whereby they put all the American people up as collateral for the debt, in essence sacrificing them to debt. Was this sacrificial event a signal of that? If so, it was symbolically sacrificing America and Americans into the fire.

Last week I highlighted racism quite a bit, and asked the obvious question which seems to by-pass most people's thinking, including those who suffer the consequences. I mentioned the most maligned and left out of all people on this planet is the white, heterosexual male. In this over-sensitive day and age, that can be declared as a number of differing -isms or -isms in their bizarre word salad world, except it is true. But, the following day Friday, from that very piece, I was delighted to hear that sentence repeated and brought up for discussion. Candace Owens compared the plight of segregated Black Americans to that of straight white males in modern-day America. Owens spoke at an event organized by Turning Point USA at Michigan State University alongside Charlie Kirk. In a clip from the event circulating Twitter via Jason Campbell, Owens described just how hard it is to be a straight white male in today's society. We've now somehow gotten into this society where people are pretending what we're doing is equality and it's not, Owens said. If we have ever achieved an equality in this country, then you wouldn't blink if anybody says Asian Lives Matter, no one blinks. Black Lives Matter, no one blinks, but, White Lives Matter, they fell apart. The actually worst thing to be in this society, the one thing I would not want to be is a straight white male. For some reason, that's considered problematic, Owens said. Owens went on to say that such pressures are leading people to lie. You have to be something. It's like, people lie, they're lying on college applications. They're like, okay, I'm white, but I'm also trans, and you're like, what? Why are you pretending? Because, I don't want people to think I'm too normal, she added. And people, you know, they're just trying to find something that makes them not White.

Right? said Owens. And it's really staggering to think that once upon a time, that is exactly what the experience was for a Black American. Being a Black American was so problematic that you weren't going to be allowed into the room. Now you have the exact same thing happening in reverse, and you have liberals trying to convince you that that's equality, she said. It's not! All lives matter and that's including White lives matter, you know? Two weeks running now prominent people have said things we did not expect to hear from them. That is what we have achieved in the alt media of pushing the narrative into the public arena, and in essence pushing them into covering it. Both like, the Congress and UN debate on the Jews eliminating the whites, have come straight out of the THI manual of truth book. It is refreshing to hear and I hope it continues. Candace was one of the people our People of Colors contacted for support, perhaps she has tuned in after all?

ENDING PIECE: Recently we have done a number of pieces that seemingly do not connect together, but in overview it does. The piece about the planet greener and able to produce more food. How the amount of carbon in the atmosphere has fallen from 15,000 billion tons to just over 850 billion tons. This statement destroys the terraforming crew with their fake climate change, and yes, I said terraforming. It also said although CO₂ is necessary for life on Earth to exist, there is precious little of it in Earth's atmosphere. Oops. What is beyond dispute is that the Earth has greened dramatically over the last 40 years, thanks to the extra gas. It has been estimated that there has been a 14% increase in vegetation, mostly due to higher levels of CO₂ in this period. In a paper published in 2016 by 32 authors from eight countries, it was noted that there was a persistent and widespread increase, in growing season greening over 25-50% of the global vegetated area. More vegetation of course means more food up and down the chain. CO₂ fertilization effects were driving global greening and enhancing photosynthesis, and this would lead to a 25% increase in crop yield. With CO₂ at 600-750ppm, plants will grow 30% faster. You do realize what this all means don't you? Larger fruit bearing? larger trees? Quicker crops? What does that remind you of in terms of a movie? Think Avatar. We then covered the ecosystem of lizards and their great die off, with ants and snakes also suffering also. So that got me pondering on this and the question was, is CO₂ detrimental to lizards? And my pondering appears vindicated. By 2080, global warming could result in one-fifth of the world's lizard species becoming extinct, a global study has found. Lizard disappearances in the areas the team studied can't be due to habitat destruction because, they're occurring where habitat has been protected. Rather, hotter sites close to the equator or at low altitudes are most likely to lose their lizards. Think of the source energy flowing from the poles in a flower of life pattern, not the apple shape currently, which concentrates heat and negative energies around the equator, which also brings in the Middle East. This then brought in the Lacerta Files we covered on Tuesday evening, which brought up a number of revelations. It spoke of a reptilian lizard like species that they say has lived below us for a very long time. In some respects that is true, but what is not correct is, they think this is their planet. It was wrong then and more wrong since the 2016 Peace treaty. It brought clarity to some of our archeological and Earth history, clarified some other points of contention as it was back in 1999. In 2022 so much more evidence has been garnered and understood to a degree, largely based on, does it makes sense or not? It was fascinating to see the early internet researchers back then, of how they were unsure of so much, in essence fearing the potential of the truth, rather than walking into it. The world of the off world and the world of us, is that another example of the two worlds? Two worlds no longer merged or bound to each other. Two worlds one physical and one bubble version accessible via technology? But we have our own technology if we develop ourselves, that is superior to their external technologies. In essence what is unfolding is, what was old is becoming the new. Their form of terraforming no longer works, neither does their chemtrails as well, so they did what they have always done, and panic. They were rendered blind by the Looking Glass technology failing as well. They know all too well this is a key period of the time epoch, and they are not part of it, they certainly can't control it and what is more, they can't stop it or the truth. Out with the old and in with the new, with a planet that is being terraformed with new vegetation, faster growing and larger plants. Is that the other developing Earth we have spoken about? or is it unfolding all here and now? Was Covid a convenient distraction for the disappearing people? Is earth now throwing off the inhabitants not suitable for its and our progression? Is a new Earth evolving before our eyes? Did we not say that this time it will be done for the first time ever, in body? What can you see? Or what are you not seeing? Go within.
