

THI-SHOW TRANSCRIPT 2023-07-13

NEWS: Hope you all enjoyed the new show last week, The Blueprint show. This was what I was planning 4 years back when I first mentioned to lots of collective gulps, of transitioning to more of what we are doing from these shows of what they are doing or not doing in many cases.

The Israeli clowns doing stuff again whilst the world was distracted by an underwater submersible. The US State Department spokesman Matt Miller is asked during a press briefing for comment on Israel's advancement of plans to build 5,700 new settlement homes in the West Bank. Miller did not appear to have a new statement prepared on the latest development; instead, he says, I will reiterate our longstanding position which we have said publicly from this podium. Privately, we say this directly to Israeli officials, that we believe that settlements are an impediment to a negotiated two-state solution along 1967 lines, which ultimately, we believe is the best way to resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. Why say it privately and not condemn it publicly? Why should Israel have its own state, when it has never existed ever before? Miller says the US is deeply troubled by the moves and opposes such unilateral actions that make a two-state solution more difficult to achieve. Two solutions to this; move the Israelis back to India from where they came and secondly, unless they stop building settlements, cut off all of their funding. The funding should never have been given to that state anyway, given most of the world's wealth is held by Jews, let them fund Israel and not American taxpayers.

Roseanne Barr made some interesting claims about the Holocaust during a recent appearance on Theo Vonn's This Past Weekend podcast. The controversial comedian's did a rant about Joe Biden which took an unsettling turn, when she challenged facts about the mass genocide of an estimated six million European Jews between 1933 and 1945. Nobody died in the Holocaust either, that's the truth. Then she said; It should happen, six million Jews should die right now because they cause all the problems in the world. But it never happened, it never happened, mandated. Barr, who let's not forget is Jewish herself said, nobody wants to hear the real truth. They're horrified of it and rather go with bullshit, it's easier, the Roseanne star insisted. The exposure of the Jewish narrative now gathering a real pace, perhaps it will be announced soon they are fleeing. Oh wait! This came in 3 days later.

This is an interesting headline and short piece that could have major ramifications. Jews should leave Russia before it's too late, says former chief rabbi of Moscow. Rabbi Pinchas Goldschmidt, who himself fled the country in March 2022, noted that he had spent three decades supporting the Jews of Russia. But Goldschmidt, who now resides in Israel, said his co-religionists should get out too, having previously warned that they risk being scapegoated for the failure of Russia's special military operation. Oh my the pity party has started again, this time pre-emptive. Russia has changed its face, he said in a July 1 statement, as reported by The Jerusalem Post. I call on the Jewish community to leave the country, before it is too late. Now why is that we all ask? Yes, it could be that the Jewish EL-ites are planning something rogue again. Or are they realizing their game is up and fleeing? There was a similar warning to the Jewish community in France, in relation to the riots as they are called, going on in France. The warning was, that the people would suddenly turn around and blame it all on the Jews, then subsequently attack the Jewish community in Paris. No one should be attacking anyone, but the system. But finally the major fear of the Jewish EL-ites is now coming home to roost. That the people would begin to find out who and what they are, what they stand for and what they have done to us. One hopes the ordinary Jewish people who have been used as pawns by these EL-ites, don't suffer the consequences of the actions of those who say they are Jews, but they are not.

As Israeli protests continue despite back tracking on reform by Netanyahu, now it appears reservists are refusing to be called up as well. That's because Netanyahu and clowns are still trying to push through part of the judicial review. All is not well in Satan's backyard. I applaud the Israel people for standing up to the Junta running that State.

As the billionaire squeeze begins to gather pace also, as forecasted in June 2019 with the Clowns in Panic show. The nonprofit founded by billionaire philanthropist George Soros plans to lay off at least 40 percent of its global staff of 800. Open Society Foundations is the world's largest private funder of independent groups working for justice, democratic governance and human rights, according to the group's website. (M) That is funny but not funny, Soros who died 4-5 years ago was a Jewish psychopath, dealing in pro pagan da, division of people's and countries and altering people's culture and way of life in a harmful way. Human rights? Is that for the serpent human?

A little bit of reality and truth about America, Russia and Ukraine. The Bolsheviks and Stalin made the Soviet Union into parts, called Oblasts. They guaranteed that every Oblast had many minorities within them, which creates division. In Ukraine they put about 15 million of Russians and Tartars, plus many other minorities, to just guarantee that the Oblast would never go for independence. The definition of the name Ukraine the land on the periphery, on the edge or borderland, so not central to Russia. The Soviet Union (Russia) got divided into 15 Republics in 1991. Listen closely to this because I reported it back in 2014 on the Cosmic Voice show, when I said there was a genocide program going on in Ukraine and 8 million had been slaughtered, few believed it. Well listen to these figures; In 1990 Ukraine had 90 million people. In 2021 Ukraine had 37.5 million people. Now Ukraine has 18 million people. From 2014 - 2022, NATO trained and equipped 640k soldiers to attack the Russian break-out Republics in the east of Ukraine, Luhansk and Donetsk. The Russian part of Ukraine stood for about 90 % of technical production in Ukraine, so all about the shekels again. During the Reagan era the Elites started to move their production from the USA to China. Real production in the USA has declined every year since 1967. There are reports of severe ammunition shortages. As the Ukraine, NATO, the EU, USA and Sweden has war stocks for 2 weeks. Russia has war stock for 2 years and Russia produces 100K armored vehicles per year. Blinded by a socialist ideology, which was created by the EL-ites for them, the West is just acting psychotically with hatred. The West as it is called are essentially Israelite puppets, dancing to the tune of Satan and or Lucifer.

Ireland next and it seems their major MSM outlet RTE are fighting off a major scandal, as it came that dodgy payments inside the organization were hidden from the public. The Irish like the UK pay a TV license of 160 euro a year to watch utter drivel and listen to pro pagan da. Many have refused to pay and have gone to prison for nonpayment. A major Presenter Ryan Tubridy stepped down from The Late Late Show, hosting position just before this was leaked to the press. Now it seems many were double paid and more benefits were given as back handers. So a huge investigation is underway. People are disgusted and alarmed by the lies. Suddenly now, a whole heap of Irish will begin to question the narrative. The truth is unraveling at a greater speed now.

This came in from a member in New Zealand, a fairly harrowing story is unfolding there. What I get so far is, that NZ has been selected to be the first country in the world to be all smart city, the so-called managed retreat as the politicians call it and whatever is needed to make that happen is being employed. As former PM John Key twice said in his speech after the Christchurch disaster several years ago in 2011 man-made, eh, I mean natural earthquakes. For the above-mentioned reason, I believe this little island nation is currently relentlessly and unmercifully being attacked. Rob Deutsch, the UK weather man, calls it what it is, a land grab. Thanks to him people who know of him are able to learn days ahead of time what is coming their way and get their arks ready. Yet earlier this year a power company Genesis, interesting name, opened their dam in the middle of the night without any warning to the sleeping residents of that region and many lives were lost, animal and human. The media told the sleeping masses 5 people drowned, one person with a criminal record is still missing. There are reports from people on the ground, who talked about digging through a meter of mud and finding cars full of people who tried to escape, but didn't make it. A pilot who flew over Hawkes Bay reported hundreds of bodies floating off shore. My new former uniformed friend mentioned just days after the disaster, that she read on the police computer a mention being made of more than 40k animals which drowned. There has been no help from the so-called government. As I am writing this, the rain is coming down heavy and relentless, it has rained for days. People who have lost everything, family, home, income, belongings are being hit again. Ancient old heritage orchards are buried under meters of mud. And this is happening to the country known as "God's Own", or the Land of the long white cloud. Unfortunately, those days gone. Maybe Rudolf Steiner was right when he said: New Zealand will be used for the re-seeding of humanity. Which type of human though? New Zealand was the desired location for all the EL-ites to quit and move there in the late 2000's. It wasn't approved and the Christchurch Earthquake took place in retribution I was informed.

One of the federal prosecutors who allegedly declined to charge Hunter Biden with tax fraud, has donated to President Joe Biden and the other gave money to Vice President Kamala Harris while working in the private sector, Federal Election Commission records show. U.S. Attorney David Weiss, who led the Department of Justice's investigation into Hunter Biden, requested the U.S. Attorney in the Central District of California and the U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia to each bring tax charges against Hunter Biden, according to testimony from IRS Whistleblower Gary Shapley. Weiss' requests were rejected by Biden-appointed U.S. Attorney for D.C. Matthew Graves and Biden-appointed U.S. Attorney for the Central District of California E. Martin Estrada, Shapley testified. Weiss requested special counsel authority after each request was rejected, and Attorney General Merrick Garland denied his requests, according to Shapley. The Biden administration is turning out worse than the Bush and Clinton ones, for cover ups of blatant crimes. Even the White House spokesperson was found telling lies to cover the Biden's and the cocaine in the White House incident. What an example that is setting, not only to American's, but the rest of the world. Embarrassing in the extreme.

The Florida Governor DeSantis will get rid of 4 Federal Agencies, if elected President. We would remove Education, Commerce, Energy and the IRS. If Congress will work with me on doing that, we'll be able to reduce the size and scope of government. All very Blueprint I have to say.

The Social Security Act was created in 1935 under Franklin D. Roosevelt as a federal safety net for elderly, unemployed and disadvantaged Americans. The new policy was largely created in response to the Great Depression that left many, particularly the elderly, devastated. But in reality, it was also a slush fund for the EL-ites let's not forget, because amidst all their perceived benefits for the public, there is always a kickback for them. That fund has been used and abused to fund EL-ite programs and not the purpose it was said to be created for. Now it is bankrupt, the media try to spin it away from those who used and abused it and then guilt and shame the public into letting it go. In 1977 when it became clear the popular program was in financial peril. Despite many amendments, commissions, and downright Jimmy- rigging, the program is the biggest drag on the federal government's budget, accounting for more than 20% of overall spending. There is the veiled warning, it drags on our budget, no it doesn't, you have had that budget since 1935. Now, Social Security is facing a $22.4 trillion financing problem that is due, in part, experts say to income inequality. Interesting figure, about the same amount missing from the DOD budget as well. Here is the second media spin to convince the public to drop it. Here's an unpopular opinion, we should have never created a permanent safety net for retirees, nor should we tether health insurance to employment. It made sense back when the program began, when there were roughly 16 workers for every beneficiary. That ratio is now less than 3 to 1 and Social Security makes less and less sense, they are saying. The use of the word beneficiary should be noted as well, making out it is some sort of hand out. Yet again a piece that ignores the problem, the Jewish bankers. They created the poor conditions that led to its formation, then harvested vast sums of money from the people and now they wish to not pay it back, just like the Trust funds they stole as well. If the fund is short raid the bank accounts of the Jewish billionaires and bring the fund back up, it is they who stole from it in the first place. You do realize this is another attempt at a bail out? They then replace it with pension funds, of which they own all of them as well, nice gig while it lasts, but it won't anymore and their desperation is palpable. The key now is; to make them culpable. Remember because many people don't, Social Security is not a benefit, it is your own savings fund for your retirement, which you paid for. A sensible plan is required that can be easily added to the banking solution of the Blueprint, only done by people without a vested interest.

MEDICAL NEWS: The Central Intelligence Agency and another agency remain unable to determine the precise origin of the Covid-19 pandemic. Isn't that ironic, given they have the most strains of corona virus' in their labs. Four agencies believe the virus was transferred from animals to humans, said the findings. Two other agencies, the Energy Department and the FBI, continue to believe that the virus leaked from a lab. The findings said the US intelligence community still could not rule out the possibility that the virus came from a laboratory. All US intelligence agencies agree that Covid-19 was not developed as a biological weapon, said the report. Except it was, which means they are covering up the facts and points to them being involved. But the report also noted that scientists at the Wuhan facility have engineered chimeras, or combinations of coronaviruses, and used reverse genetic cloning techniques that could hide intentional changes. And who funded that? The NIH and Dr. Fauci. Engineered chimeras? Oh my. They won't last in the enhanced frequencies circulating the planet either.

Dr. Rochelle Walensky who quit the CDC, has given the US a grave warning: The nation is not prepared for future public health crises. To this day some of our public health data systems are reliant on old fax machines, Walensky wrote in a guest essay in the New York Times. These faxes led to significant delays across the nation during the coronavirus pandemic. Washington state even had to bring 25 members of the National Guard to help with manual data entry from faxes, The Times reported in July 2020. In Austin, Texas, was recording deceptively low coronavirus case counts because of lags caused by fax machines. Walensky is a Jewish clown operating on behalf of the shekel people, they are the reason for no investment in any products, utilities or services. We are never ready for any crisis, due to appointing incompetent clowns like Walensky and those crisis' are generally manufactured under a cloak of secrecy so people are never prepared.

All the warnings I gave over the legalize cannabis program is now coming forward. Is this sabotage by the faction-based clowns or is the planet herself changing things for the better? An infectious pathogen is currently spreading widely in California's cannabis farms. This scourge is attacking plants and growing invisibly for months before spoiling crops. This happens just as farmers are getting ready to harvest. Scientists believe it currently affects over 90 percent of farms, it will cause billions of dollars in damages to the national cannabis economy. The hop-latent viroid was first identified in hop plants, a close relatives of cannabis in the 1980s. It shrivels cannabis plants, reducing how much weight they produce by as much as 30 percent. This next line maybe the keys to the earlier question. The pathogen also destroys the plants' amount of THC, marijuana's main psychoactive compound. This decreases their value dramatically. Hmm how interesting, consequences of actions? Frequencies improving things?

SOCIETY NEWS: It has now emerged that Pedophiles are using artificial intelligence technology to create and sell life-like child sexual abuse material. Some are accessing the images by paying subscriptions to accounts on mainstream content-sharing sites such as Patreon. The National Police Chief's Council said it was outrageous that some platforms were making huge profits, but not taking moral responsibility. GCHQ, the government's intelligence, security and cyber agency, has responded to the report, saying: Child sexual abuse offenders adopt all technologies and some believe the future of child sexual abuse material lies in AI-generated content. Then why hasn't the GCHQ gone after the DOD and their extensive catalogue of real child porn on their servers. The makers of the abuse images are using AI software called Stable Diffusion, which was intended to generate images for use in art or graphic design. AI enables computers to perform tasks that typically require human intelligence. The Stable Diffusion software allows users to describe, using word prompts, any image they want and the program then creates the image. We highlighted Stable Diffusion in the AI expose back in March this year. But the BBC has found it is being used to create life-like images of child sexual abuse, including of the rape of babies and toddlers. UK police online child abuse investigation teams say they are already encountering such content. Freelance researcher and journalist Octavia Sheepshanks has been investigating this issue for several months. She contacted the BBC via children's charity the NSPCC in order to highlight her findings. I guess she is not aware the BBC have a history of child sex allegations, including just this week a presenter had to step down. Since AI-generated images became possible, there has been this huge flood, it's not just very young girls, they're pedophiles talking about toddlers, she said. A pseudo image generated by a computer which depicts child sexual abuse is treated the same as a real image and is illegal to possess, publish or transfer in the UK. The National Police Chiefs' Council (NPCC) lead on child safeguarding, Ian Critchley, said it would be wrong to argue that, because no real children were depicted in such synthetic images and that no-one was harmed. He warned that a pedophile could, move along that scale of offending from thought, to synthetic, to actually the abuse of a live child. Like I have said, all technology is used against us. Check out their latest warning movie The Artifice Girl, again stating oh look it is being put to good use, but elements within it should concern everyone.

The classic ouroboros is playing out in the twin states of evil, New York and Kali-ma- fornia. Did we not warn this would happen, are these people too stupid to future think? The business districts in a number of America's major cities like New York and San Francisco are facing an urban doom loop, as the workforce shifts away from office work in the wake of the Covid-19 pandemic, a trend that has economists raising alarm about the fiscal impacts. Covid was the effect, it is not the cause. The cause is shitting on their residents via taxes, woke programs, corruption, fraud and in the case of California, bringing in illegal immigrants. That is the real cause. The growing popularity of remote work has decreased the number of workers heading to the office on a daily basis and made it easier than ever for workers to live in suburban and rural areas without needing to commute. That workforce migration poses challenges for businesses reliant on sales and traffic from bustling downtowns, and risks triggering a fiscal doom loop in which cities see tax revenue dwindle and respond by raising taxes or reducing services, further exacerbating conditions for the remaining residents and businesses. The economists who wrote the paper – Arpti Gupta of New York University’s Stern School of Business, and Columbia Business School’s Vrinda Mittal and Stijn Van Nieuwerburgh – noted that office occupancy in major U.S. office markets plummeted from 95% in February 2020 to 10% at the end of March 2020 due to the pandemic. As the economy has reopened, occupancy hasn’t fully recovered and had only reached 47% of its pre-pandemic level in mid-September 2022. Those two States are the most expensive on the planet, living there is ridiculously expensive and they relied on people’s reluctance to change. Well the Covid scam gave some to opportunity to have a re-think and they acted. Both States will turn into wastelands in the future, clown ouroboros programs at its finest.

If someone would have said this one line would cause so much consternation 30 years ago, people would have laughed and called you a conspiracy theorist. But no, stating the captain obvious and the truth, leads to widespread derision, accusations, firing and condemnation from the bot level offended by everything section of our society. The sooner these people disappear into the inorganic wave, the better. They are a total blight on our society. A colonel has claimed he was forced to quit the Army after he was criticized for stating that men cannot be women. Dr Kelvin Wright, 54, had been a Reservist commanding officer with 14 years’ unblemished service, including two tours in Afghanistan, before his honor was attacked with a transphobia complaint and an investigation he described as hellish. In May, he shared a post on his private Facebook account from Fair Play for Women, a campaign group that works with governing bodies to preserve women’s sport for those born female, which consisted of a quote from Helen Joyce, a feminist campaigner backed by the author JK Rowling. The quote, shared without any additional comment, said: If women cannot stand in a public place and say men cannot be women, then we do not have women’s rights at all. My answer to people who were offended by the original statement is, don’t be a dick. Simple solution for those who wish to mess with Source creation is, build your own toilets, build your own dressing rooms and competing in your own sports. Then nobody gets offended, yet another common sense solution brought to you by the common sense crew. Further evidence of the youth showing the adults the right way. It seems this generation is not mired in the fear programs like the older generations and are sticking it to the system. Students walked out of an Ottawa high school to protest the gender ideology curriculum. Ottawa has seen a pair of recent protests from students opposed to gender ideology. Today, students walked out to the sidewalk in front of Longfields-Davidson where some in the crowd held signs opposing gender ideology and received supportive honks from passersby. True North contributor Cosmin Dzsurdzsa chimed in on the protest, saying an infusion of youthful energy was exactly what conservatives need. Young people around the world are increasingly rejecting gender ideology and the far-left woke orthodoxy, he added. This is a generational revolt against the system and it's only getting started! Sounds like the end of two more programs, gender and woke. It’s all falling apart as we forecasted, this is our time to act and change things for the better.

A storm has broken out over the showing of a film called Sound of Freedom that Netflix and others have refused to show. They posturing of it all is interesting to see, the deflections and out comes the labels to denigrate it. Actor Jim Caviezel has defended the film Sound of Freedom, in which he has a lead role, amid criticism it is linked to the baseless QAnon conspiracy theory. On The Charlie Kirk Show, Caviezel addressed claims that he and the Sound of Freedom were QAnon adjacent. The film is based on the story of Operation Underground Railroad founder Tim Ballard and tells the story of the fight against child sex trafficking, primarily in the Western Hemisphere. Caviezel gave the perfect response during the podcast he said; Caviezel compared people who believe in the theory to Christians persecuted by the Pharisees, an ancient Jewish group mentioned in the Bible. Caviezel correctly stated there had been ties between the KKK and members of Congress but erroneously stated Congressmen had not gone after them or Nazis, only the QAnon. I will add some more to it, Pelosi links to China, Biden's linked to organized crime in Ukraine, Antifa, Black Lives Matter or the Church of Satan. Freedom of speech they will cry, indeed is my riposte. QAnons whether you believe in them or not have a right to voice their opinions, and not be labeled as such by a media, who are supposed to be unbiased. That's a laugh of hysterical proportions. It also shows just how childish they are, throwing names and labels about. But do you know who they sent out to counteract the claims of Caviezel, said to be a QAnon expert, one Mike Rothschild! (M) Absolutely hilarious, Rothschild's once the world's richest clan sending their own out to discount valid news stories. Oh how the mighty have fallen – just embarrassing. The whole thing turns into a distraction of what the original was about, child trafficking, which should be everyone's concern. But no, lets deflect away from that shall we and throw childish names at people. MSM newsreader these days are just about the lowest form of humanity and should be boycotted for this attempt to deflect a serious crime alone, never mind all the other lies they peddle. They resemble the newsreaders in the first V Series to me.

Things are fairly bad in Holland right now, as not only has the Government collapsed but another pre-staged program kicked in behind it. Was this done to provide a convenient news distraction or something deeper? Holland has had many problems, not least housing the House of Orange and having to split their country with a fake state called Belgium, where more sinister committees and dark forces groups playing their daily and nightly stream of darkness. Holland's government has collapsed over an immigration policy, which is ironic, as that very policy was created to not only bring down governments, but the country and the EU as well. All courtesy of the Soros Foundation. Of course we warned the governments would have a rough time this year and it would be a merry go round of sorts. Behind all that came a sinister decision directly from the orchestrators of reality, the think tanks. What can we do to deflect? Any events on this week? Can we create an event, like a Muslim shooting up a shopping market? They decided on an event, Miss Netherlands, as there was one participant with a tad extra in their pants. As a side note in the world of programs, just where does beauty pageants fit in with feminism, girl power, girl's being equal and independent, girls being recognized not just for their body or looks? Tad contradictory is it not? Just how are females prancing around scantily clad, talking utter bs and posing provocatively, is that showing the world how females should be taken seriously these days? What an ideal opportunity for the fake reality members to have a man in a dress win the female competition, then sit back and watch the furor unfold. Distraction applied and distraction unfolded, all so predictable, about as predictable as one soccer player winning the World Cup last year. All the world is a stage you see. A couple of things comes from this, why did the females not boycott the show? Why did they not make a stand then and show their girl power? No they stood there like the fake lemmings they have come to represent. The second thing is, said tongue in cheek, although it does have a more serious connotation to it. To the females of Holland, how does it feel to be beaten in looks by a man? It doesn't say much for the beauty of Dutch women does it? Whether you like that statement or not, think it is funny or not, that is the statement being made by that winner of that contest. The statement by some of these feminists of; we don't need men anymore is now brought into question, as you can't even win your own gender contests. If you answer there are lots of pretty Dutch people here, wrong answer and wrong thinking, you are missing the point. The point was to slap every Dutch woman in the face, indeed every woman globally. The point was to confuse and merge the genders to create division amongst the populace and provide a nice media led distraction to the carnage of your own country not being ran properly. To the women who took part in that parade, that is what you get for being shallow, operating in ego and seeking fame, status and wealth based on your looks. It is not very Divine Feminine is it? This parading of the body and then taking it all away, is just teasing and not particularly nice to do or be. It is confusing, the look at me, look at me and then when a guy takes a look or makes a move, it's no go away. This then leads to men feeling rejected and abused, the big come on and then sorry you are not good enough and leads to deep psychological problems for the men. Not all men look like Chris Hemsworth, have the money of the Tom Cruise's, have the toys and materialistic items of the rich and famous and many men go into deep debt trying to please a female by acting in a role outside of his own status. Is that how life should be? Has it worked? $30-100K for a one-day ceremony, all designed for the female. Followed by expensive honeymoon trips, again all designed mainly for the female, because that is how the superstars live. But they have the money to do so, we don't, does that mean men who cannot spend those amounts on you are A: inferior B: cheapskates C: nonromantic or D. don't care or love enough for their woman? The response is, he just wants to get into my pants, well if he does, it seems he has to pay enough. In overview is that not glorified prostitution? Some serious rethinking is required as to how we engage each other on a dating, relationship or marriage level, as the current mode of operations is an abomination of the Divine Masculine and Feminine. You know who are the winners in this program? The shekel people, they are laughing all the way to their banks. Plus think tanks laughing and playing with their tiny penis' in secret rooms.

EXPOSE: This is said to be the story of the more modern-day Rus in the first millennia. The Tale of Bygone Years, often known in English as the Rus' Primary Chronicle, the Russian Primary Chronicle, or simply the Primary Chronicle. Also, after the author it has traditionally been ascribed to, Nestor's Chronicle, is an Old East Slavic chronicle of Kievan Rus' from about 850 to 1110, originally compiled in Kiev around 1113. The work's name originates from the opening sentence of the text, which reads: These are the narratives of bygone years regarding the origin of the land of Rus', the first princes of Kyiv and from what source the land of Rus' had its beginning. There is the first slide in the narrative, the Rus did not originate in Ukraine. The work has long been considered to be a fundamental source in the interpretation of the history of the East Slavs. The Chronicle's content is known today from several surviving editions and codices, that have been revised over the years and evince a slight degree of variation from each other. The historical period covered in the Tale of Bygone Years begins with biblical times, in the introductory portion of the text and concludes with the year 1117 in the Chronicle's third edition. There always has to be a reference in his story to biblical times, have you noticed. But our story goes back way further than a very minor date on a fake calendar around 0AD. Russian philologist and founder of the science of textology Aleksey Shakhmatov, was the first one to discover early on that the chronology of the Primary Chronicle opens with an error. The Chronicle has it that; In the year 6360 (852), the fifteenth of the indiction, at the accession of the Emperor Michael, the land of Rus' was first named. However, 11th-century Greek historian John Skylitzes' accounts of the Byzantine history, show that Emperor Michael III did not begin his reign in 852 but rather a decade earlier, on January 20, 842. Because of the work's several identified chronological issues and numerous logical incongruities that have been pointed out by historians over the years, the Chronicle's value as a reliable historical source has been placed under strict scrutiny by the contemporary experts in the field. All of which is to create doubts about the Rus whole existence. Now why is that? You will notice a similar theme in an up and coming FHSTOS Plus 20 show. Maybe next Tuesday.

The First edition: Tradition long has regarded the original compilation as the work of a monk named Nestor (c. 1056 – c. 1114); hence scholars spoke of Nestor's Chronicle or of Nestor's manuscript. His compilation has not survived, now isn't that interesting? Probably too much truth revealed that dispels the myths of his story and so the history revisionists removed it all, then get fake scholars to pick holes in it to create doubts in the reader. Nestor worked at the court of Sviatopolk II of Kiev (ruled 1093–1113), and probably shared Sviatopolk's pro-Scandinavian policies. Nestor's likely Pan-Scandinavian attitude was confirmed by a Polish historian and archaeologist Wladyslaw Duczko (2004), who argued that one of the central aims of the Chronicle's narrative is; to give an explanation how the Rurikids came to power in the lands of the Slavs. Why the dynasty was the only legitimate one and why all the princes should terminate their internal fights, to rule in peace and brotherly love. The early part of the Rus' Primary Chronicle features many anecdotal stories, among them: It spoke of the arrival of the three Varangian brothers, the founding of Kyiv, the murder of Askold and Dir around 882, the death of Oleg in 912, the cause of which was reported foreseen by him. The thorough vengeance taken by Olga, the wife of Igor, on the Drevlians, who had murdered her husband. Her actions secured Kievan Rus' from the Drevlians, preventing her from having to marry a Drevlian prince and allowing her to act as regent until her young son came of age. Drevlians were considered the people of the forest, due to where they were dwelling. A portion of their territory came under the Khazar Khangate, which is why they disliked the Rus. The account of the labors of Saints Cyril and Methodius among the Slavic peoples also makes a very interesting tale, and to Nestor we owe the story of the summary way in which Vladimir the Great, who ruled 980 to 1015, suppressed the worship of Perun and other traditional gods at Kyiv. Cyril and Methodius were both saints and so connected to the Draco, which explains why they suppressed the following of Perun and Tara.

The Second edition: In the year 1116, Nestor's text was extensively edited by the hegumen Sylvester who appended his name at the end of the chronicle. Hegumen is a monk or abbot type role in the church. The great question is; why is all of our history written only by people of the church? Certainly covering the period 0-1300AD and later with the Crown written King James bible. As Vladimir Monomakh was the patron of the village of Vydubychi, which is now a neighborhood of Kyiv where Sylvester's monastery was situated, the new edition glorified Vladimir and made him the central figure of later narrative. This second version of Nestor's work is preserved in the Laurentian codex. Laurentian is used in something else in America, called the Continental divide, known as the Laurentian Divide or the Northern divide. How interesting is that in relation to the piece I did about America being in 4 parts at one point in history.

The Third edition: A third edition followed two years later and centered on the person of Vladimir's son and heir, Mstislav the Great. The author of this revision could have been Greek, for he corrected and updated much data on Byzantine affairs. This latest revision of Nestor's work is preserved in the Hypatian codex. The surviving manuscripts: Because the original of the chronicle as well as the earliest known copies are lost, it is difficult to establish the original content of the chronicle. The two main sources for the chronicle's text as it is known presently are the Laurentian Codex and the Hypatian Codex. The timing of those revisions should be noted at this point, as it will become clear as to who and why they were revised.

The Laurentian Codex: The Laurentian Codex was compiled in what are today Russian lands by the Nizhegorod monk Laurentius for the Prince Dmitry Konstantinovich in 1377. The original text he used was a codex, which is since lost, well I never! and compiled for the Grand Duke Mikhail of Tver in 1305. The account continues until 1305, but the years 898–922, 1263–83 and 1288–94 are missing for reasons unknown. The manuscript was acquired by the famous Count Musin-Pushkin in 1792 and subsequently presented to the National Library of Russia in Saint Petersburg.

The Hypatian Codex: The Hypatian Codex dates to the 15th century. It was written in what are today Ukrainian lands and incorporates much information from the lost 12th-century Kievan Chronicle and 13th-century Galician–Volhynian Chronicle. The language of this work is the East Slavic version of Church Slavonic language, with many additional irregular east-slavisms, like other east-Slavic codices of the time. Whereas the Laurentian (Muscovite) text traces the Kievan legacy through to the Muscovite princes, the Hypatian text traces the Kievan legacy through the rulers of the Halych principality. The Hypatian codex was rediscovered in Kyiv in the 1620s, and a copy was made for Prince Kostiantyn Ostrozhsy. A copy was found in Russia in the 18th century at the Ipatiev Monastery of Kostroma by the Russian historian Nikolai Karamzin. Numerous monographs and published versions of the chronicle have been made, the earliest known being in 1767. Aleksey Shakhmatov published a pioneering textological analysis of the narrative in 1908. Dmitry Likhachev and other Soviet scholars partly revisited his findings. Their versions attempted to reconstruct the pre-Nestorian chronicle, compiled at the court of Yaroslav the Wise in the mid-11th century.

The Composition: The organization style and the narrative flow of the Primary Chronicle exhibit visible signs of compilation, where different historical elements are brought together into a cohesive historical account. Studies by a Russian philologist Aleksey Shakhmatov and his followers have demonstrated that the Primary Chronicle is indeed not a single literary work, but an amalgamation of a number of preceding accounts and documents. In compiling the Chronicle, some of Nestor's original sources definitely included but were not limited to: the earlier but now lost Slavonic chronicles, the Byzantine annals of John Malalas, a Greek chronicler, who in 563 produced an 18 book work of intertwined myth and truth. The Byzantine annals of George Hamartolus, a monk, who tried to adhere strictly to truth, and whose works are the unique contemporary source for the period 813–842. Byliny or bylina which were traditional East Slavic oral epic narrative poems. The Norse sagas, several Greek religious texts, Rus'-Byzantine treaties, the oral accounts of Yan Vyshatich and of other military leaders. The questions that remain are; is that all the compositions? or have key ones been removed to accommodate the fabled Jewish bible narrative? As the next section will reveal. This is the reason why no his story makes any sense, no archeological evidence to support it and only partial truths released from various ancient texts, all combining to fulfill a clearly now scripted narrative.

The Biblical origin: The Primary Chronicle traces the history of the Slavic people all the way back to the times of Noah, whose three sons inherited the Earth: From whom we may ask? Which god would allocate three people to own our planet? Who voted for the three people to own the whole planet? Where the people asked for their approval? Or was this just another cor-pirate style Hebrew led hostile takeover? Shem is said to have inherited the Eastern region of Persia, Bactria, Syria, Media, Babylon, Cordyna, Assyria, Mesopotamia, Arabia, Elymais, India, Coelesyria, Commagene and Phoenicia. Ham is said to have inherited the Southern region of Egypt, Libya, Numidia, Massyris, Maurentania, Cilicia, Pamphylia, Mysia, Lycaonia, Phrygia, Camalia, Lycia, Caria, Lydia, Moesia, Troas, Aeolia, Bithynia, Sardinia, Crete and Cyprus. Japheth is said to have inherited the North-Western territories of Armenia, Britain, Illyria, Dalmatia, Ionia, Macedonia, Media, Paphlagonia, Cappadocia, Scythia and Thessaly. All of which resembles the more modern day takeover of countries by the Houses and their bloodline families. Just like a loop, same shit different time epoch. The Varangians, the Swedes, the Normans, the Rus and others were named to be descendants of Japheth. Except they were not, just an egotistical usurping of the peoples, by an off-world group of races. In the very beginning, humanity was united into a single nation, but after the fall of the Tower of Babel, the Slavic race was derived from the line of Japheth, since they are the Noricians, who are identified with the Slavs. It doesn't mention about the Slavs being the slaves at the Tower of Babel does it? Banks of the river Danube in the regions of Hungary, Illyria and Bulgaria are then described to be the place of original settlement of the Slavic people. Although, as a result of aggression on the part of the Vlachs, one group of the Slavs made their homes by the Vistula, the Polyanians, another settled on the Dnieper, known as the Drevlians and Polyanians. All whilst the third resided along the Dvina, the Dregovichians and another group dwelt about the Lake Il'men. All this migration is dated back to the time of Andrew the Apostle who visited the Slavs on Il'men. Except Andrew is not a Hebrew, Middle Eastern or Slavic name in that format. Andrew will be a Crown member written into the script from the King James bible time. The Polyanians built Kyiv and named it after their ruler, Kyi. After the establishment of Kyiv, under the rulership of Emperor Heraclius, many of the Slavs were invaded and oppressed by the Bulgars, Avars and Pechenegs. At the same time, the Slavs from the Dnieper came under the predatory lordship of the Khazars and were forced to pay tribute. No change there then, it is just now called Income Tax or Kosher duties.

The Chronology: The chronology offered by the Primary Chronicle is sometimes at odds with that of other documents such as the Novgorod First Chronicle and Byzantine literature. Sometimes the Primary Chronicle also contradicts itself, especially between narrative and chronological parts, which appear to have been written by two different authors. Yes, that is their overlay of information, all designed to confuse. Several scholars including Aleksey Shakhmatov (1897), Mikhail Tikhomirov (1960), Ia. S. Lur'e (1970) and Constantin Zuckerman (1995) have concluded that the 9th- and 10th-century dates mentioned in the PVL were not added to the text until the 11th century, unless directly copied from the Chronicle of George the Monk. The Chronology of major events: 852 (6360): The principal date mentioned in the Chronicle, when the land of Rus' was first named and when the Varangians first arrived at Tsargrad. It is claimed that the reign of Byzantine emperor Michael III began in this year, but Byzantine sources point out that it began on 21 January 842. Shakhmatov (1897) demonstrated that an editor based himself on a miscalculation found in the Short History of Nikephoros I of Constantinople. Moreover, a few sentences later, the text states: from the birth of Christ to Constantine, 318 years; and from Constantine to Michael, 542 years. Twenty-nine years passed between the first year of Michael's reign and the accession of Oleg, Prince of Rus'. However, Constantine the Great acceded in 313, not 318, and the resulting sum of 318+542 years leads to another erroneous accession of Michael III, this time in 860. This then leads to an internal contradiction, when Michael the Emperor is said to have mounted a campaign against the Bulgars in 853–858 (6361–6366), which could not have happened before he became Byzantine emperor in 860 according to the latter accession date. 859: Eastern Europe was divided amongst the Varangians and the Khazars. The former demanded tribute from the Slavs, the Krivichians, the Chuds, the Merians and the Ves, while the latter imposed tribute upon the Polyanians, the Severians and the Vyatichians. The Varangians were the Swedish criminal mob we covered in FHSTOS part 1. 862: Invitation of the Varangians. The Slavs attempted to rid themselves of the Varangian lordship, which led to quarrels among the northern tribes and culminated in them inviting the Varangians to rule over them. As a result, the land of Rus' was founded by three Varangian brothers: Rurik, Truvor, and Sineus. My understanding is that is not a correct translation, they forced the locals to accept their rule by coercion. Shortly after, Rurik became the sole ruler of the realm and built Novgorod. At the same time, a Varangian state was established in Kyiv, with Askold and Dir at its head, that unprecedentedly posed a substantial threat to the Byzantine empire. 866 (6374): The Siege of Constantinople (860) by Rus' forces. 881/2 (6390): Rurik's successor, Oleg, sent messengers to Askold and Dir, representing himself as a stranger on his way to Greece on an errand for Oleg and for Igor', the prince's son, requesting a meeting. He then ambushed Askold and Dir, saying: You are not princes nor even of princely stock, but I am of princely birth. Igor was then brought forward, and Oleg announced that he was the son of Rurik. They killed Askold and Dir, and after carrying them to the hill, they buried them there, on the hill now known as Uhorska the Hungarian hill, where the castle of Ol'ma now stands. Then Oleg set himself up as prince in Kiev and declared that it should be the mother of Rus' cities. According to the text's aforementioned chronology of Oleg's accession 29 years after Michael III in 860, Oleg's reign should have begun in 889 rather than 881/2. 883: Prince Oleg conquers the Drevlians. 884–885: Prince Oleg defeats the Radimichians and the Severians, bringing them under his rule.

Part 2: 907: Prince Oleg launched an incursion against the Greeks, resulting in a favorable treaty for Rus'. The Greek emperor Leo conceded to provide allowances for Oleg's men, award them a right to stay and trade in Constantinople free of tax and to enter unconditional peace. This event is not mentioned in Byzantine sources. 912: After Oleg's prophetic death from a snakebite, prince Igor succeeded him as the ruler of Rus' and was neither successful in his military campaigns nor popular with people. According to the Novgorod First Chronicle, Oleg died in 922; if Oleg (Helgi) is the same person as HLGW, king of the Rus in the Genizah Letter, he would still have been alive in the 940s. Ca. 945: Prince Igor was murdered in the act of uprising by the Drevlians. His wife Olga assumed the throne following her husband's death and brought revenge upon Igor's murderers. Some of the Drevlians were burned in their homes, others were buried alive, while the remaining were simply slaughtered. Olga later ruled as a regent for her young son Svyatoslav, who went on to have an extensive military career as an adult, venturing East against the Khazars and the Bulgars. At this point it is clear the Rus had gone from teaching to wars, maybe for the right to stay alive and retain their sovereignty. 972: Svyatoslav was killed in a Pecheneg ambush while returning from one of his frequent campaigns against the Greeks. 973: The reign of Yaropolk began and was complicated by quarrels with his two brothers, Oleg and Vladimir. 978–980: Yaropolk proved himself victorious against his brother Oleg, but died at the hands of men of his other brother Vladimir. The sibling rivalry plays out in all cultures it seems, forged by the desire of status and power. After inheriting the throne, Vladimir initially upheld pagan practices and worshipped Perun. Which could be suggestive of two things, these people were not Rus at all or they had lost the ancient wisdom, both are catastrophic. Because paganism is everything against what the original Rus stand for. Cat holics are pagans whether they like that or not. 988: Vladimir was baptized into Orthodoxy, which later became referred to as the baptism of Rus because it was followed by a widespread Christianization of Kievan Rus'. Which means they were usurped, as Rus is nothing to do with any religion, least of all Christendom, which was started by the Jewish cult and the Draco. 1015: Following Vladimir's death, Svyatopolk inherited the title of the Prince of Kyiv and became known as Svyatopolk the Accursed for his violent actions towards his siblings. 1019: Svyatopolk was overthrown by his brother Yaroslav the Wise, whose reign brought an end to the unified kingdom of Rus, but laid the foundation for the development of the written tradition in the Kievan Rus.

1054: After Yaroslav's death, the kingdom was split into five princedoms with Izyaslav ruling in Kyiv, Svyatoslav in Chernigov, Igor in Vladimir, Vsevolod in Pereiaslav and Rostislav in Tmutarakan. Interesting it was set up in 5 provinces, just like Anu did with the Middle East, also the Rothschild's banking system with his 5 sons. 1076: Vsevolod held a victory over his four rivals and became the Grand Prince of Kiev. 1093: After Vsevolod's death, Svyatopolk reigned over the Kievan Rus. 1113: The rise to power of Vladimir Monomakh, whose religious testament and prayers were appended at the end of the Chronicle by monk Sylvester, working from St. Michael's monastery in 1116. 1113 is around 30 years after the deaths of Radomir and Mary Magdalene, funny these Chronicles of Rus never mention them, leading me to believe this is not the real version of the Rus, just a dark forces overlay.

Christianity in the Tale of Bygone Years: The Rus' Primary Chronicle is vibrant with Christian themes and biblical allusions, which is often argued to be reflective of the text's monastic authorship. Aleksandr Koptev remarked that despite its categorization as the Old East Slavic literature, the Chronicle also belongs to the genre of Christian literature. Which reveals in full this documentation is not the true story, it is the Hebrew overlay story. Their versions always rewrite history to around the 0AD mark, hence the bible, yet where is the history prior to that? It is almost like the world started at 0AD with their fake Jesus narrative. In the introduction, the chronicler was dedicated to exploring the biblical origin of the Slavic people, tracing their heritage to the times of Noah. In numerous occasions throughout the text, the chronicler openly discusses the pagan Slavs in a condescending manner, saying for they were but pagans and therefore ignorant. Later in the Chronicle, one of the most pivotal moments of the narrative is Prince Vladimir's conversion to Orthodox Christianity which ignited extensive Christianization of the Kievan Rus.

The Korsun legend: According to the so-called Korsun legend, presented in the Chronicle just preceding Vladimir's baptism, the Prince took possession of the Greek city of Korsun (Chersonesus) located in the Crimean Peninsula, in an attempt to gain certain benefits from Emperor Basil. Following Vladimir's successful conquest of the city, he demanded that the Emperor's unwedded sister be given up for marriage with him. Upon hearing the news from Korsun, emperor Basil responded that; It is not meet for Christians to give in marriage to pagans. If you are baptized, you shall have her to wife, inherit the kingdom of God and be our companion in faith. The legend concludes with Vladimir's embrace of Christianity at the church of St. Basil in Korsun and his marriage to the Emperor's sister, Anna Porphyrogenita.

The archaeological findings: For centuries after the Chronicle's creation, the legend's factuality had been subject to extensive debate. Many historians, antiquarians and archaeologists, had attempted to determine the actual location of Vladimir's conversion by synthesizing textual evidence of the Chronicle, with material evidence from Crimea. Their efforts became known in the realms of historical discipline as the archaeology of the Korsun legend. This search culminated under Archbishop Innokentii's diocesan administration (1848–57), when in the ruins of Chersonesos, archaeologists unearthed the foundations of three churches and determined that the one containing the richest findings was allegedly used for the baptism of the Kievan Prince. The unearthed material evidence proved sufficient to pinpoint the real location of the legend's events with reasonable accuracy. All to fit their story, just like the bible it is prescribed archeology designed to fit the book and timeline. Yet there is no actual evidence of an archeological nature that supports it. In the early 1860s, the Eastern Orthodox Church began construction of The Saint Vladimir Cathedral in Chersonesos, which has been destroyed on three separate occasions after first being erected and was renovated each time thereafter. The cathedral last faced destruction during the October Revolution and was not restored until the fall of the Soviet Union. It has been argued that by honoring Vladimir the Great and his contribution to the Eastern Orthodoxy, the cathedral serves the purpose of validating Russia's historical ties with the Crimean Peninsula, the accounts of which are preserved by the Chronicle. The Crimea Peninsula is Russia territory and always was, except now due to the Jewish Bolsheviks who in 1922 created a separate country called Ukraine. Yes the same Jewish Bolsheviks who destroyed and murdered Russians did the same to the now called Ukraine, including killing their so called own people, the Jews. Except as we have found out, these are not Jews in the traditional sense at all. Here is how it works, they push Jewish people into countries under the banner of the chosen ones. Then the bankers, Rabbis and EL-ites take advantage of the situation to then take over the lands, homes, farms and buildings, enraging the local populace, who then take it out on the ordinary Jew. Then a war is created to serve the ultimate purpose, of deleting the local populace and then deleting the Jewish people they used to gain entry into that country. Followed by relentless pity party pieces to shame the rest of the world, when it is they who killed their own. At which point do the Jewish people see through this repeating scenario? Has being a chosen one benefited you? Did you fake god come to save you from these pogroms? Just like they are doing to Palestine, Syria, Lebanon and Southern Turkey, calling them settlements. So they settle the mind in essence. Then they rewrite his story and blame the whites. The same happened during the Third Reich in Germany and onto the Fourth Reich in America.

Assessment and critique: Unlike many other medieval chronicles written by European monks, the Tale of Bygone Years is unique as the only written testimony on the earliest history of East Slavic people. Its comprehensive account of the history of Rus' is unmatched in other sources, but important correctives are provided by the Novgorod First Chronicle. It is also valuable as a prime example of the Old East Slavonic literature. Except we find that to not be true, it is handpicked truth and littered with overlays of lies and deceptions. However, its reliability has been widely called into question and placed under careful examination by contemporary specialists in the field of the Old East Slavonic history. The first doubts about trustworthiness of the narratives were voiced by Nikolay Karamzin in his History of the Russian State (1816–26), which brought attention to Nestor's questionable chronology and style of prose. Building upon Karamzin's observations, further inquiries into the philology of the Rus Primary Chronicle shined more light on various weaknesses in the text's composition. According to Dmitry Likhachov (1950), the chronicle exhibits the presence of plentiful fillers that were added post factum and, in effect, destroyed the narrative's logical progression, indeed. Dmitry Likhachov famously wrote in his 1950 critique of the Rus

Primary Chronicle; no other country in the world is cloaked in such contradictory myths about its history as Russia, and no other nation in the world interprets its history as variously as do the Russian people. The need to interpret the Chronicle, mentioned by Likhachov as essential to making sense of its narrative, stems from the facts that the text was initially compiled and edited by multiple authors with different agendas and that it had to be translated from Old East Slavic language, which proved to be an arduous task. Horace Lunt, a linguist from Harvard University, found it important to admit freely, that we are speculating when the tales are reconstructed and the logical incongruities of the text are faced. According to Aleksey Shakhmatov, some of the incongruities are a direct result of the fact that the ruling Princes of Kiev had their own propagandists, who rewrote the annals to make political claims that best suited their own purposes. Shakhmatov further described the Tale of Bygone Years as a literary creation that fell under heavy influence of the Church and the State. In the words of Wladyslaw Duczko, because of the multiple edits and revisions of the Chronicle, information that was not compatible was left aside, while the elements that should be there but did not exist, were invented. Russian historian and author Igor Danilevsky mentioned that the Rus Primary Chronicle was more concerned with exploring the religious significance of the events, rather than conveying to the reader the information about how it actually happened. As a result, a sizable portion of the text was directly borrowed from earlier works that contained a religious undertone like some Byzantine sources, and most notably, the Bible. The protagonists are frequently identified with biblical personages and so are ascribed certain relevant qualities and deeds that did not necessarily match the reality. Which is exactly how I see this book, the biblical overlay gives it away, because heaven forbid, those that scripted the bible will ever give the Rus, Slavs or Aryan their version of their own story. No, like everything else on this planet, it has to fit in with the Hebrews version or non-reality. Ukrainian historian Oleksiy Petrovych Tolochko in 2015, upheld the conclusion reached by his many predecessors that the Chronicle's contents are more or less fictional. Tolochko argued that some of the tales, like the story of the Rurikid clan's entry into Kyiv were invented, so as to produce a meaningful reconstruction of past events and include these well-known names in the author's historical scenario. Tolochko called the Rus Primary Chronicle an outstanding work of literature, with an untrustworthy story and concluded that there is absolutely no reason to continue basing our knowledge of the past on its content. Paul Bushkovitch (2012) from Yale University writes; the author was serving his rulers, identifying princes and people and leaving historians with a muddle virtually impossible to sort out. Which was the whole idea of the book. He also mentions that there are discrepancies when overlapping Scandinavian history with the narrative of the Primary Chronicle. For example, archeological evidence does not fit the legends of the Primary Chronicle such as: in Scandinavia itself, there were no sagas of Viking triumphs and wars in Russia to match those recounting the conquest of Iceland and the British Isle's. Actually, there is and was, we covered it in FHSTOS. The credibility of the Primary Chronicle should be taken with a grain of salt for its undertone of being a political tool to justify rule. Remember in an earlier piece on Ukraine, FHSTOS Plus 11, the people there were known as the Sarmatian's. Sarmatians means lizard people, remember the line in the Avatar 2 movie? we came in the form of the enemy.

MYSTERY SECTION: Two interesting science stories has broken out since the last show, that has been of deep interest within the show, particularly over the past 12 months. Scientists from the North American Nanohertz Observatory for Gravitational Waves (NANOGrav) have officially made the first detections of the gravitational wave background. That appears a non-descript finding, but has deeper meanings than first meets the eye. Quite why it has taken all these years is beyond me, and I am not a scientist. Tesla told them all over a 100 years ago, everything is about energy, frequency and vibrations. Their findings now, will lead to some of the understanding of the Universe we have revealed in our shows.

It is often stated that our bodies and brains are like maps of the Cosmos, yet curiously scientists in many disciplines miss the obvious I feel. Years of testing, probing, hypotheses and math could all be replaced with one saying. As above so below, as within and so without. This then brings conclusions without all that research, you just have to think different. Here is another example. There are many layers to the human brain, from its wrinkled exterior to its darkest depths, scientists are trying to understand them all. But in honing in on the brain's intricate neural circuitry, they appear to have overlooked patterns of activity swirling on the surface. A team of fluid physicists from the University of Sydney in Australia and Fudan University in China, discovered brain signals rippling across the brain's outermost layer of neural tissue, the cerebral cortex, on scans of 100 young adults' brains. Signals naturally arranged as spirals, like vortices in a draining bathtub or whirlwinds of turbulent air. Gaining insights into how the spirals are related to cognitive processing could significantly enhance our understanding of the dynamics and functions of the brain, says senior author Pulin Gong, a physicist at the University of Sydney. Spirals? Just like a galaxy, vortices just like the planet? and the suns? And our own torsos.

This next piece is hilarious on the face of it and also smacks of desperation on the part of the clowns and the old system. After failing in their numerous attempts to get the old fake gods to come and save them. Failed in their attempt to break the quarantine of this solar system. Failed in their attempt to create a black wormhole with CERN to portal out. Failed in their attempts to change the timelines. Failed in their attempts to terraform the surface for their off world brethren. Yet come out with this extraordinary headline. Biden backs plan to block the sun in bid to limit global warming. Biden is incapable of understanding the basics of life, never mind social engineering of our planet. The White House has opened the door to an audacious plan to block sunlight from hitting the surface of the Earth in a bid to halt global warming. Despite some scientists warning the effort could have untold side effects from altering the chemical makeup of the atmosphere, President Joe Biden 's administration have admitted they're open to the idea, which has never been attempted before. In a report released Friday by the White House, officials suggested limiting sunlight to rapidly cool the planet, a process known as solar radiation modification (SRM). The SRM? Set, Ra and Marduk plan? The administration added a note of skepticism to the report by noting that Congress ordered it, insisting it has not made any decision on geoengineering policy. Congress? and what have they ever done except take bribes and coercion from the lobbyists? The report noted several ways authorities could look to achieve SRM, all of which come with potentially devastating consequences if they backfire. One method would be to significantly increase the amount of aerosols in the stratosphere, which would reflect the sun's rays from the planet. (M) Increase the amount of aerosols? After they told us 30 years ago the aerosols were destroying the ozone layer? These people or beings are beyond stupid. Haven't they already been doing that for the past 5-6 decades, called chemtrails. The life-giving sun to be blocked, where is all the food coming from then? What happens to people genetically? What happens to all the animals? Fish? Wildlife? Plants? And birds? With that reptile brained idea? This is why we need the Blueprint, as those we have stupidly and lazily allowed to run things for us, are total lunatics. This is another terraforming event, to get certain beings onto the surface to save them and their Lucifer plan. Guess what? That won't work either jackasses. Your fabled Black Sun is not happening either, that only happens briefly with your fake moons and eclipses. Common sense in their world, is as rare as rocking horse shit.

No one has yet managed to travel through time, at least to our knowledge, but the question of whether or not such a feat would be theoretically possible continues to fascinate scientists. As movies such as The Terminator, Donnie Darko, Back to the Future and many others show, moving around in time creates a lot of problems for the fundamental rules of the Universe: if you go back in time and stop your parents from meeting, for instance, how can you possibly exist in order to go back in time in the first place? It's a monumental head-scratcher known as the 'grandfather paradox', but a few years ago physics student Germain Tobar, from the University of Queensland in Australia, worked out how to square the numbers to make time travel viable without the paradoxes. Classical dynamics says if you know the state of a system at a particular time, this can tell us the entire history of the system, said Tobar. However, Einstein's theory of general relativity predicts the existence of time loops or time travel, where an event can be both in the past and future of itself – theoretically turning the study of dynamics on its head. What the calculations show is that space-time can potentially adapt itself to avoid paradoxes. To use a topical example, imagine a time traveler journeying into the past to stop a disease from spreading, if the mission was successful, the time traveler would have no disease to go back in time to defeat. In reality we transport ourselves back in time every day, with memories of past events. We carry traumas from our past into the now, revisiting them sends you into the past. That is what we can do. Why they want to do it is, change the game they are losing. Which leads us into a piece posted on the chat. A member had a question about vertical time, which implies a single question, except like in the village it is never just one question. Life is a dream, which implies we live in a hologram. Holograms require two reference beams carrying information, light and sound can transmit information. We experience horizontal time and space, which is projected as the holographic screen. Hologram is just a copy of a copy, think the inorganic overlay wave. Is vertical time the transport medium for the information from the divine to the picture screen? Do we impact by our position in vertical time, which is set by our frequency? Or have I missed the mark completely? Remember the merkaba 12+1 (not the closed time matrix) with Source and no time through the gate at 12+1. That is the conduit of vertical "time" all possibilities depending upon your frequency. Check the path from point 5 and up it goes. Remember I repeat what are you going to create or manifest? Apply that to you and what do you produce or experience? They wish us to have linear time as it loops back into the past and repeats, it also keeps you on the same plane/dimension - trap. Vertical time is your path to create and for creation.

ENDING PIECE: Some of you may have noticed the search engines have changed again and again not for the better. There are many examples, of searching for something related to the past, is now replaced with advertising companies or something completely irrelevant. Case in point this week when typing Santies, these are the books of the Vedas we covered in FHSTOS. I received in return not one reference to them. So I typed in Vedas, and got whole pages on Vedic, which is the Indian overlay, again no reference to the true story of Perun, Tara and the Rus. Why India? Because it was Satan's, Lucifer and the Kali Ma's backyard, riddled with devil worship and human sacrifices, mainly children, just like it's proxy state – Israel with their temples of Solomon and Herod. The Vedas means knowledge and wisdom, something the modern day Koshey's masquerading as Jews A: deny it – knowledge and B: are incapable of wisdom due to their dark nature. Knowledge declared a sin, yet the god of sin is knowledge. But knowledge is what they have denied us, it is interesting as the truth frequency echoes throughout the planet, that they build a kindergarten level AI search engine. Because that is their level – children. Incapable of dancing within an adult world, having been corrupted by their own dark tendencies, riddled with all the 7 deadly sins and fell for operating the 5 hooks and have egos off the charts, stating they are god's chosen ones – pull the other one it has got balls on. A species who are terrified of the truth, terrified of one race who are inherently smarter than them. You see we represent everything they are not and on their current path, never will be. They wish to drag us all down to their level, so they get their fabled dark event, guess what shit for brains, it's not happening, now or ever. The light has shone too early in the Day of the Svarog, it cannot and will not be stopped. The light in its full radiance will increase in its intensity, it's manifestation, it's celestial dance of harmonic order. The harmonic spiral is being restored on all planes of existence, not your linear time and space abomination. Sit back and watch the magnificence of our and the spiral dance of the Cosmos, restoring true order. Its full beauty forged by the sword of our destiny, not the dagger of Akedah which was misused by your people as another sacrifice weapon, you lost that as well. The star maker not the star breakers you used it for, one was creative and life giving, you used it for destruction and life taking. You created seals that overlaid and were binding, we freed it and life begins anew. We restored the Rus line and that cleanses more and more by the minute. We restored the Divine Feminine and Masculine to boot, so your energy harvesting ends as well. All to be free of your tyranny, rampant psychopathy, devious deeds and malevolent ways. Source created the 7 primary matters so life could thrive, you took one away so abominations could survive, but alas that is returning as well and life of the light goes on. You of course will not face Source because like little children you will not face your own shadows. So you created mirrors, a copy of a copy, illusion, dark magic parlor tricks, so you wouldn't face yourselves. But we rebuilt and rebuilt and kept going, whilst you chased your own and our shadows. We built external technology which you misused it again and turned it against us, how original and pathetic of you. You see, we also have internal technology that will always overcome your stolen external technology. You chase, hunt, massacre and beat down the one race who can save you from yourselves. Save you from the childlike state you operate in, save you from your darkest fears, save you from the boogeyman you created, because you are the boogeymen. I guess you forgot that the mirror reflects, the boogeyman was you all along. Question to you all, who are the 4 strand Hibiru race? And no you will not find that in your fake search engines either. Despite your Elders of Zion, Kalergi plans, fake religions, fake laws, fake plagues, fake wars, fake medicines, fake time, fake merkabas, fake state and fake status, despite you controlling all the world's institutions and shekel companies, you still didn't win. Now put that in your pipe and smoke it. We may lose people in your latest insidious program called Covid, that came straight out of the Odedicron manual. But your own people and sadly the people of color you brought here 40 and 75K years ago and used as slaves, are dying in far greater numbers are they not? Your chimeras, bio-bots, giants, parents and covens are all disappeared or disappearing in front of your eyes. And what is left is just you, low in numbers and screaming internally with fear, trying desperately like little children to do sacrifices to get your gods to come and save you, utterly pathetic. Time to face yourselves, face your fears and shadows and meet your makers. The world of dragons, serpents, chimeras and fake gods are over here, you lost again as the sun beams down as your eternal reminder. We will rebuild as we always have, we have the DNA, the codes, the stargates and the blueprint, because unlike you, we are the Blueprint. So Que Sera, as the future is not yours to see, what happens to you? Whatever will be, will be. We are eternal with inherent essence, you seek the Metatronic immortality as you are incapable of self-development. The final song is a reminder for you all, the eternal is everlasting and we are the real comeback kings.