BLUEPRINT ACTION GROUP REPORT FOR WEEK ENDING THE 21ST OF JANUARY 2024 AGENDA:

There was a change to our normal routine for the meeting this week, with a new agenda that provided an opportunity to shake things up a little and get our house in order for the coming months. Tightening up our teams was one of the items for discussion, with suggestions of rotating the roles so no one person feels overburdened or when they have to be absent for any reason, we can still show up and produce our reports. Introducing a multi-team calendar that is easy to find and ensures we are not overlapping, as many members kindly donate time to several teams. Increasing the output of emails to be sent means more input from the teams, so how and when we can achieve these goals takes good open conversation and new commitments from everyone. These things may sound mundane or simple, but when you are operating from different time zones and have limited time, they become more important to create and maintain flow. Coming to agreements and better understanding is key to good communication, it brings about a sense of communion and harmony which are the main components of flow.

BOOK REPORT:

In a Zoom meeting, the Book Team discussed Consent Booklet translation, especially pertaining to implied consent; migration of the team page to the Blueprint forum; work on the European version of the Blueprint; the books and series to be published in the coming year and the members' current progress. The Bulgarian translator is working on the second proofread of From His Story to Our Story Volume 2 and has already finished the first section. The Spanish translation of the Blueprint is being checked and an English version has been sent to the primary proofreader for comparison. At this time, the Swedish translation of the Blueprint continues, with help from another translator fluent in that language. The Dutch translations of both the Blueprint and the Consent Booklet are progressing well, with consultations with the Law Group and other translators to aid in accuracy and clarity. The translator is also working on the European version of the Blueprint. The German version of the Blueprint has been completed and formatted, to A4 and US sizes for the PDFs and digital versions have also been formatted. These were checked and corrected and re-checked to ensure removal of errors produced during the formatting process. Blueprint front and back covers were created, checked and corrected for final review. When the translator was satisfied, the German translation was sent on to the Web Team to be included on our site. Corrections were made to the German Divine Masculine and Divine Feminine Booklet and the Web Team was notified of the change. The translator is now moving on to start work on From His Story to Our Story Volume 2 and is sharing German memes with German groups in social media. Memes advertising the Blueprint were created for the Bulgarian, French, Polish, Romanian, Hebrew, German and English languages and sent to the Media Team. Several of the Media Team's existing THI and Blueprint memes have been translated and a folder created on the storage site. The original transcript for From His Story to Our Story Volume 4 has been received and first edits and initial formatting have been completed. This base has been sent to the editing and proofreading team, along with a list of questions about the content. Proposed Afterword and back cover text has been written and sent to the editing team and Thomas for critique. The initial steps in creating an index have been completed. We have the German Divine Masculine & Feminine updated on ThinkDifferent website and also the German BP PDF published on the Blueprint website. Because of a miscommunication, publishing of the Bulgarian Divine Masculine & Feminine booklet was delayed. That oversight is being corrected. The Book Team would appreciate volunteers as proofreaders and/or translators. Professional credentials are not required, just fluency in a language other than English. Translation can be facilitated by use of software and the machine-generated translation is then corrected by the translator to better convey the meaning. Similarly, proofreaders check the text that has already been prepared, to correct typos and suggest alternatives to awkward wording.

RESEARCH TEAM:

The current state of the database is up from 503 to 558 names. That number will jump in the next few days due to the efforts of five volunteers. The increase of 55 is due to one THI member sending us U.S. Congressional Committee Lead names with their emails and precinct offices too. Our shout out of thanks to him for taking the time to send contact details. Another member will be adding Canadian Legislators as she personally contacts them. I had the pleasure of reading the letter she is sending. It meets the secretarial firecracker status of get this to the boss now! The third is the Volunteer Team lead, who will add the task of mining the Mewe chats for names suggested by chat members to her 2-do list.

During the screenshare of the database, team members were shown how reports are created and why 27 columns and 17 separate spreadsheets of information are needed. We had an open discussion for system Improvement suggestions. The team came up with 7 alternative method ideas that will be implemented. It will increase the database to 28 columns and 18 separate spreadsheets. The details are in the meeting minutes if you would like to read them.

The 4th & 5th volunteers were digging for the Rothschild, Rockefeller, Astors and Vanderbilts per Thomas' recent request. A hearty shout out of thanks to them, the data they found is now in the database. A member suggested we seek information for the elites in Burke's Peerage, Baronage and Knightage. One was finally found at a local Genealogy Research Library. Surprisingly, there were home addresses for a Rothschild and an Astor (the Baron of Hever) found in the almost 7-inch-thick book. The listings included the names of their sanctuary men's club in London. Online research provided the addresses to those exclusive hide-outs. The Volunteer Team help is greatly appreciated. They received 60 no-info names. They are at the 80% completion point of filling in the blanks.

We would like to remind Mewe Chat members, please be so kind as to add any information you can personally find on the influencer and what they did to inspire you to suggest them. You can count your time spent researching as volunteer time contributed to the cause.

Bulgaria is the country of the month to receive direct emails. Our member there assembled 20 priority recipients, including their President Rumen Radev and 19 top newspaper journalists: Blueprint sent to Bulgarian influencers 2024-01-15 – Who Are They? Rumen Radev [rumen 'radev] – the president of Republic of Bulgaria. The president keeps a balancing politics during his two mandates despite the numerous challenges. He has the highest rate of confidence among all other politicians in Bulgaria with 50% to 60% support by participants in different years.

Dilyana Gaitandjieva [dili'ana gaitan'djieva] is an investigative journalist and Middle East correspondent. She did a film related to weapon deliveries to Syria during the wars in Syria and Iraq with a country-of-origin Bulgaria as part of an international weapons shipment network done via 350 diplomatic flights, organized by United States Special Operations Command (USSOCOM), Saudi Arabia and United Arab Emirates. She also published materials for US Bio labs all over the world.

Ivo Hristov is a lawyer, professor of social science and an ex-member of the parliament. He continuously states his critical position towards the mass population, who remains tolerant towards the politicians and politics, including towards Russia. He raises openly themes as lack of collective responsibilities and the demographic problem our country, as the population decreased significantly by 2 million to 7 millions in the last decades due to migration and low birth rates.

Kostadin Kostadinov – a leader of the political party Vazrajdanе (meaning Revival). A politician who regularly criticizes the government for not defending the interest of Bulgarian people. For his views: anti-NATO, anti-American basis in Bulgaria, spreading anti COVID narrative, anti climate change, anti-LGBTQ points of view, he is labelled as far right and ultra-nationalist. He is historian and lawyer. Disappointed by the current distortion of Bulgarian history in contemporary Bulgarian textbooks, he wrote a history textbook for children from 1st to 4th grades.

Marin Karbovski is a journalist and a writer. He has worked in almost all major Bulgarian newspapers and made number of videos showing the life of the so-called ordinary people. Some of his films are with very sensitive topics, such as the Kusov case - a film for a Bulgarian member of parliament accused of being a paedophile and brought to court; abuses performed in some care-taking homes for children in Bulgaria that reached the European Parliament and others. In his YouTube channel (with some 200k subscribers) he openly discussed the so called sensitive topics about Bulgaria politics, foreign politics, secret societies and other.

Dobrina Cheshmedjieva [dob'rina tcheshme'djieva] (media) – a leading journalist, Deputy Director in Bulgarian National Television.

Mariela Dragolova (media) - Director in Bulgarian National Television.

Teodora Peeva (media) - CEO and Chief Editor of SEGA (meaning NOW) Newspaper.

Nadezda Deleva [na'dejda 'deleva] (media) - Editor of TRUD Newspaper (TRUD means LABOUR)

Borislav Zumbulev (media) – Chief Editor of 24 Hours Newspaper.

Rumen Petkov (media) - Chief Editor of POGLED (meaning VIEW) Newspaper.

Alexey Lazarov (media) - Chief Editor of CAPITAL Newspaper.

Velislava Popova (media) - Chief Editor of DNEVNIK Newspaper.

Martin Petrushev - young vlogger who gains more and more popularity in Bulgaria. His channel Alternative Resistance raises number of key themes related to analysis of contemporary society and the power structures worldwide. He presents his channel as a place where one will encounter a belief in the human essence and a rational resistance to the inertial flow of the encroaching soulless world, its totalitarian social-credit structures and organized bioterror.

Stoyan Valkov– has a YouTube channel called Choco discussing themes such as the origin of man, different realities, possibilities of creating, with the idea to raise the vibration of the whole humanity and create a better world. The subscribers of his channel are ~400k.

Maestro Yordan Kamdzhlov [jor'dan kam'djalov] is a well know Bulgarian conductor with philanthropic views. He is hailed by the press as a philosopher among conductors. Besides his international professional successful career as a Chief conductor in Berlin and Heidelberg (Germany), Rijeka (Croatia) and other projects, Kamdzhlov views the arts, science and philosophy as interconnected. Via his Kamdzhlov Foundation he supports number of young talents. He has a strong social stand and presence and shares critical views for society that lives with no true virtues. He was firmly against the fear-based state mandatory policy in the last years.

Petar Klissarov is a politician and political scientist, author of several books. He was a representative for Bulgaria in Canadian State Corporation for Nuclear Energy and was a general manager for Bulgaria of AECOM

(the largest engineering consultancy corporation in the world). He provides detailed analysis of the socially and the recent global development.

Eng. Svetla Nikolova– PhD in chemistry and an activist for pure organic nature. Regarding recent proposal of the European Union to change the regulations in Europe to allow GMO and their new name - the New Genome Technologies. She is one of the main initiators to organizes round table discussions, to present the problem and give a voice to this potential major threat with irreversible consequences to the people and nature, in case they are voted by the EU Parliament. The key risks being no labelling of GMO products envisaged, patent based and people and soil poisoning.

Miroluba Benatova is an investigative journalist. She was a reporter in two major Bulgarian televisions – bTV and NOVA TV. She was chosen as bTV Reporter of the Decade where she hosted the investigative journalism programme The Hounds, but the show was shortly suspended. She has investigated Bulgarians in cocaine trafficking, the draining of the Dutch welfare system by Bulgarian Roma, organized begging in Sweden, successful Bulgarians in America and series about unknown successful Bulgarians across the ocean. After NOVA TV terminated her contract in 2019, she became a taxi driver.

Last month our focus was to contact nine mainstream broadcast media national editors and eight print and online media content editors. We exceeded that goal. We found 18 mainstream and 11 print/online with telephone numbers. Our researcher quickly realized the futility of calling them. The media giant telephone switchboard operators generally have little clue as to whom the caller needs to speak to, even given the name and job title. Nonetheless, contact information for the list of affiliates as reported in December was sent, as requested, to the Chief THI Admin before the end of the year. He will determine who will get the books and to whom the PDF will be sent and what month this year.

This month we were able to identify additional people within the media to contact. On that prospective list of mainstream and broadcast media are:

The Associated Press, Julie Pace, Senior VP, Exec. Editor

Reuters (now called Thomson Reuters), Rob Doherty, General Manager at Washington, DC.

Disney ABC News, Stacia Phillips Deshishku, Executive Editor & Senior VP.

BBC America, Sarah Smith, North America Editor.

CBS, Bill Owens, Exec Producer of 60 Minutes.

CBS, Mary Hager, Executive Producer of Face the Nation.

CBS, Brian Applegate, Executive Producer, CBS Sat AM.

CBS, Nikki Battiste, National Correspondent.

CNBC, Nick Dunn, Managing Director & Executive Editor.

CNN Wendy Brundige, Sr. VP of Content Strategy, CNN Digital, and CNN Digital Worldwide.

FOX News, Porter Berry, Executive VP & Editor-in-Chief.

ITN America (Independent Television News) will need to be contacted via their website contact form.

MSNBC, Matt Schnaars, President Content Distribution.

MSNBC, Meredith Bennett-Smith, Managing Editor.

MSNBC, Hayley Miller, Senior Blogs Editor.

NBC News, Tom Namako, Executive Editor.

Democracy Now! Productions, Amy Goodman, Host and Exec. Producer.

Democracy Now! Productions, Juan Gonzalez, Co-Host.

The print and online media to be contacted are:

Al Jazeera America, Amjad Atallah, Executive VP, Content Editor-in-Chief.

Forbes Media, Mike Federle, CEO.

Forbes Media, Randall Lane, Chief Content Officer.

Forbes Media, Joyce Bautista Ferrari, Managing Editor.

Huffington Post, Danielle C Belton, Editor-in-Chief.

New York Times, Joe Kahn, Executive Editor.

The Economist Group, Tom Amos in the Press Office.

Washington Post, info not yet located.

Washington Times, Christopher Dolan, President & Executive Editor.

Zero Hedge, Daniel Ivandjiiki, Publisher.

NNN (Next News Network) Gary S Franchi, Jr. Executive Producer and Lead Anchor will be at the top of the next list.

Further research is ongoing for specific lead anchors based on a survey ranking them by survey viewers votes. Since we had the top national mainstream list of executives accumulated, it seemed a good idea to use the winepress method for getting directions into the national maze as known by locals in the business. It requires a foot-on-pavement ground-level face-to-face approach. Getting an appointment with even one editor was the quest. Some local stories bubble up to the top. Why not the Blueprints? That idea turned out to be educational, disappointing and surprising. ABC, CBS and FOX were visited first. Their doors were locked and each of their receptionists greeted a visitor via the video doorbell. Each had to speak to their supervisor to get the same answer of: no more local programming, all newsfeeds come from NBC, and we are unable to provide an email to anyone at our corporate headquarters. The ABC & FOX stations receptionists opened the door to see the book and receive the bulletin board flyer with the members business card. PBS was open-doored, allowed visitors and an impromptu meeting with the Director took place. He said the same thing: Local programming is no longer being funded and they too are in the NBC news feed loop. He kindly advised not to bother visiting the other stations and said he would feed the information on the flyer up the chain as best he could. There was no guarantee he could reach Amy Goodman of Democracy Now, any better than our member could with the email addresses already found. As a side note: the member did actually call Democracy Now Productions and was able to leave Amy Goodman a voicemail.

NBC was last on the visit route. The door was locked, had the same video doorbell system and young receptionist - but the member finally achieved success. They came away with the business card of the Assignment Editor, to make an appointment with for next week and was able to leave the bulletin board flyer with the members business card. Our member called the Editor and left a detailed voicemail. The call was promptly returned and lasted 26 minutes. The Editor asked about how we stood on religion and cryptocurrency, wanted the background of our group, how we all managed to meet to put the book together and where did we get the information contained in the book. The telecon meeting concluded with the request to email the Blueprint information directly to an exclusive full newsroom email address, that only he uses to feed permissible content assignments to his team of reporters. Any of them can access the Blueprint links, select the solution relative to their reporting niche and have his stamp of approval in one fell swoop. The Editor also requested a courtesy copy to his personal email address. The quest mission was accomplished, even if it was just a telecon meeting. Time will tell if there is a ripple in the water beyond the phone call. Moving forward into the month, our team immediate goal is to start contacting our list of influencers who prefer the use of their website contact forms. A member advised us that it seems zip codes are required, to help the influencer sort the requests to prioritize people in their areas. The need for local zip codes adds another task to our list of to-dos and semi-stalls the project. Other members felt that just the team leads should take that job on, as they are more able to steer the obstacle course to overcome roadblocks and prevent a progress disruption.

In other business, a full year 2024 zoom meeting calendar for all team leads was screenshared for our team to review. The finishing touches are being added to include holidays, that may impact different groups' meetings day or times. A rough draft has been sent to Thomas and Todd for feedback of any suggestions. Todd attended our meeting and gave it a nod. A discussion about including the zoom links for each team concluded with a resounding no. We agreed that such a list should only be provided in a separate document to Thomas, Todd and Team Leads. Many of the groups are small work groups that expand by invitation only. The calendar will be helpful for the team leads, when needing to add a special meeting for their group or move their meetings around a holiday. Many members are in several groups and meeting time conflicts can then be avoided. The team also viewed the calendar and our meetings in relation to the report deadlines and to where the Blueprint Show Episodes landed in relation to our alternate Sunday morning meetings. We were out of rhythm. A team member suggested meeting on a different alternating Sunday to synchronize report writing for the Blueprint shows. All attending members said that they were able to make that change if it helps. We are now in sync.

Our team Database Manager and our Secretary attended the Web Team meeting. Each of them gave us a report about the new website forum interface. They gave us an overview of the system, told us how to each get signed up in it and let us know that our Database Manager had volunteered to moderate our team section in it. It should give him the administrative ability to add and delete files. Our Research Team location will be in a subgroup of the Blueprint Action Group. We look forward to the migration away from Mewe, with hopes that it will reduce all the emails we exchange now. We plan to attend the Forum Work Team Zoom meeting to help write tutorials for newcomers. Next, our Web Team representative gave us more information about the 'will do' and 'won't do' aspects of the migration to the website forum. He also explained the easy sign-up process with the security of the site. During a Q & A about it, the group agreed to let the website roll out before requesting any additions, as there is no need to rush the website development process. The site is already amazing.

MEDIA TEAM REPORT:

The media team had a visitor to the meeting this week, the purpose was to discuss ways of improving how we get the word out on Twitter, we also have a new member that has taken on the role of running that account for us. The consensus of this was, in the future we will share any Twitter posts in the BP group. The intention is to ask the members to comment on specific influencers posts, the names of these accounts will be put in the BP chat. You can help by either sharing the Blueprint website link, a BP meme or a comment on these accounts. We are trying to create a flow within this group, that we can then spread out if more people come on board with this idea. We hope this will get people to enjoy the challenge and report on any interactions they may have had with these accounts in the chat. We would appreciate anyone that wants to get involved with this, to leave a comment and we will add you to the chat. We have started the practice of job sharing within the media group, the aim of this is to lessen the load of one person doing one task all the time and rotation. This gives everyone a chance to choose what they want to post and therefore it spices things up a bit.

The media group is a seven day a week job, the only day we did not post last year was Christmas day. We also have a system where if one person needs a break or cannot do something they had agreed to do, one of us will step in. This means people are not feeling guilty or pressured and this helps to keep a flow going and it makes it more enjoyable. Job sharing also gives new skills and a sense of equality within the group this avoids the need for a leader. While it is important to have a spokesperson to communicate with the other groups, growing of each other's confidence, ensures we are all achieving together. We also have a member that supplies us with great pieces from the shows, this aids us greatly, as we do not have to spend hours looking for subject matter to create the memes and videos. Each platform prefers certain styles of memes or videos, so this year we will home in on making several types of material that will then create a better pool to choose from.

We have had requests to open more social media accounts, but at present we are focusing on growing the ones we have. We would appreciate if members could help by choosing a certain platform, then follow us, like the content and share with others daily or at least a few times a week. We need the members to really get behind the accounts this year and push the message far and wide. As you can see there are many aspects to being a part of the media team, we accept any type of help you feel you can give. If you feel you can help the media team in any way or the Twitter posting team, please contact Susan McCann on Mewe.

YOUTH TEAM REPORT:

The initial video content by the team is nearing completion, as we look forward to finalising what is required to launch the youth website and bring youth into the space. Discussions and sample image ideas for the youTHInk different logo are being created by the team, to seek feedback on it and then onto deciding on the logo. We have received the first blog post entry for the youth website provided by a youth and are keen to have more youth contributing to the blog to speak their truth. YoUr story videos are being currently created by youth, with a call to action to encourage other youth to see the value in their life challenges and experiences, plus to share their stories to inspire others. We would love to hear from more youth especially those wanting to contribute to the tell a vision section, telling the world what you in-vision for the future of humanity. Feedback from the youth about the youTHInk different website concept and content, has been helpful for the team to us, to think different and see things clearer from a youth perspective. We thank all youth that have shared their honest feedback for this intergenerational co-creation. Your feedback shapes the space we are creating for you.

WEBTEAM UPDATE:

Since the launch of the organicliving website on November 23rd, 2023, we received great feedback from THI members for the fresh look and feel of the website, and most importantly the wealth and quality of the content available. Steve from the gardening team now tells us that he receives great feedback for organicliving on Mewe from non-THI members. This is great to hear, both the gardening and web teams are very pleased with this feedback. Good web design obviously helps attract visitors, but as important if not more important is, the quality of the content presented. We have seen this before with the Blueprint website, where the quality and uniqueness of the content speaks for itself, the web design and images complement this perfectly. We have every confidence that the same success formula is being applied to the YouTHInk project which is currently in development by the Youth and Web teams.

After months of sustained work, we are pleased to announce the launch of the new THI Encyclopaedia. This is an improved and enhanced archive of THI shows, with a new web interface which allows those interested to listen to THI shows and read the transcript at the same time, all on the same page. We know this feature will be of great help and liked, by our increasing audience who are not native English speakers. That said, knowing how deep, wide ranging and often technical THI shows are and that even English speakers often require multiple listens to check the transcripts to grasp the message fully, we know they will also benefit from using the new THI Encyclopaedia. This project has been completed thanks to many hours of dedication and attention to detail, which Dave in particular but also Aris have put in. Stephen has also contributed in a significant way; in fact this project was the first one where we consistently had more people involved. The requisite tasks were assigned based on people's strengths and talents and this way results were surprisingly quick, which was great to see. Holly and Kayoko from the indexing team also contributed to this project, by providing the shows' topics data which can be used as search terms on the new website. We say thank you very much to all involved for their contribution and dedication. The new THI Encyclopaedia can be accessed at archive.thi-show.com and it does not require users to log in.

Currently over 300 "normal" THI shows have the new web interface; the must listen to shows which can be accessed via the Special Show Timelines, like FHSTOS, FHSTOS Plus, the Expose and Special show series, as well as the Blueprint shows. These 100 or so shows do not currently have the new web interface; this will be stage 2 of this project. You will notice that all shows available on the new THI Encyclopaedia are over 90 days old. This is due to the fact that, transcripts less than 90 days are available only on thi-show.com to the 3 paid membership tiers available (Tiny, Ponder and Common Sense). The THI Encyclopaedia will be updated on a monthly basis with any new “normal” and must listen to shows over 90 days. In closing, we are really pleased to launch this new sister webpage to thi-show.com; a great deal of work and dedication has gone into creating it. We know it will be a great resource for regular THI members, as well as new people wanting to join us on the journey. Please share the website with friends and on social media and do let us know your feedback and improvement ideas. Thank you.

IN OVERVIEW:

The main ingredients listed above are a culmination of brainstorming, funnelling ideas, creating structure, co-operation and determination. These all end up becoming the words on a page that provides an update for the listeners. Most of the people anonymous and humble, working for the all, not the one. These people hold a belief strongly in their hearts, that we can be the change and indeed are the change. They have let go of limiting belief systems, control systems and little me syndrome in the process of stepping forward. Not one wants to be paid or wants their name in lights. In fact, quite the opposite, some are shy, some are outspoken, but all get heard and seen. The greatest enemy is yourself, your thought system and your low self-esteem. All the above are climbing out of those man-made rabbit holes. The powers that be revelled in the fact that, their super imposed image of them on us was producing their greatest story ever told, our destruction. We do not consent and are producing our story now. It is now in the mainstream media, changing the mindsets of many, the planting of seeds are popping up everywhere. We are changing their language back to ours. THI has created a new language with words that spell check tries to override at every opportunity, fun fact. Pressing ignore gives immense pleasure while producing these reports. In fact, it would be better if it said I do not consent. We are changing things one thought at a time, one meme at a time, one book at a time and one community coming together at a time. This is our time, spend it wisely.

This will be an interesting piece that draws many ponderings and conclusions. It is the story of life here, our roles within it that will draw many conclusions. My personal conclusion is, this world is a lunatic asylum.

A prison of our own making and mind. It beggars' belief the stupidity programs we all undertake, that creates illusion, sickness, suffering and absence of a connection to what is essential. If you can learn to unlearn the stupidity at the same pace you gorged on it, then time, life and reason can all be sped up onto a more upward trajectory of our own making. Life is uncertain they say, indeed it is. But have you ever asked yourself as to why? Because you missed who, what or where you are. Life is but a dream. Then why do we always turn it into a nightmare?

Religion:

Never has a program been so deep that it affords the followers to completely lose their minds, thinking patterns and sanity. We are told god wrote a book? Which suggests god is in physical form, yet the god Source is not in the physical and so could never write a book. So, who wrote the book? Erm we don't know, ok if we don't know who wrote the book, how can we possibly know it is true? You can't and it is the old failing of assumption again. But religion makes people believe the most fantastical conspiracy theories ever devised. Have you ever seen a talking snake? Have you ever seen a bush go on fire and then talk to you? Have you ever seen one man part an ocean? Have you ever seen a man walk on water? What would happen if you went to a police station, Walmart or government building and started rocking back and forward kissing the wall? Medication and straitjacket, but not in religion.

This god they follow sits on a cloud passing judgement and is here to save just one group of people, yet where was their god when the chosen ones were in the concentration camps? Allah the savior of the Muslims, where has he been whilst the Israelis bludgeoned them? Where is the Indian god saving the 7K Indians who die every day? Why does the Mormon church steal 10-20% of their followers money and people not ask why? You do realize that is extortion don't you? Why do people go to church, but never develop themselves? Priests, Nuns and Pastors call themselves messengers of god, but who appointed them? Why does the holy book speak of incest, bestiality, anger, retribution and violence? Why do parishioners ignore the behavior of pedophile priests and nuns? If Jesus went against the money makers, why do churchgoers hand over their money to the church?

Schooling:

Who said that all teachers are knowledgeable and fitting to teach your child? How can you trust a teacher you have never met or vetted? What type of parent are you that allows the schools to teach about blow jobs, masturbation and transsexuals in an early grade classroom. That allows transsexuals to come in and perform what is essentially pole dancing. That teaches your child pronouns that have no relevance to developing the child for later in life. You send your children to school and yet you trust the teachers you have never met? Whereby in the past they did nuclear bomb tests with desks, but people never saw they were putting their children in abject fear?

Why would you send your children to have an education, when education means the training of animals? Why would you send your children to be indoctrinated into programs? As a parents did you see the programs they were preparing your child? Why do your children come out of school with no knowledge or preparation for adulthood? Why would you spend your hard earned money to then enroll them into another indoctrination program called college? $50-100K for a few pieces of paper and to what end? Why would you send your child to college and put them in massive amounts of debt and ruining their lives before it started? Why would you send a child to school that teaches you how to not think for themselves? A school that closes down critical thinking, which is Fascism and yet you didn't notice did you? Because you went to school as well and didn't think either. Why in the sciences are people not taught to think about as above so below and as within and so without? Why do our children not know how to do simple math sums in their own heads?

Media:

Why would you trust people who are animated figures inside of a box that you have never met? Why do you believe their narrative? Do they show you proof of their claims? Have they been shown to do fake scenes? Have they been caught using green screen technology? Why is every news channel saying the exact same words? Do you remember the Church report? Why is the CIA running the media 60 years after the Church report? Why would you trust people who lie or run agendas against us every time they move their mouths?

People:

Who said we had to put ourselves in fear? Who said we had to put ourselves in low self-worth? Why do people devalue themselves so much? Who said we had to victimize ourselves and each other? Who said denying or avoiding love was a path to take? Who said we had to avoid the truth at all costs? Why is the lie all so seductive? Who said ignoring the problems will make them go away? Why do people aMAZE themselves with the illusion of it all? Then when you get ready to escape the maze, you build walls or move them to block it? A-maze=ment a trap for the mind. Why do we have eyes but don't see? Why do we have ears but don't listen? Why do we have mouths but don't speak out against wrongdoing? Why do we have brains and not think? Who said it was beneficial to not think? Are people aware they operate only in duality with other people's choices? Do people realize there is a triality aspect – you? Why do we have hearts but not love? Who said developing the self was not a worthy cause? Why do people complain all the time, yet never work to change anything? How can anything change for the better if A: you won't change and B: you fear change? Why do people worry about not sleeping? Why do people complain about their jobs, yet never change it? Why do people complain about where they live, but never move? Why do people complain about their friends, yet never change them? Why do people complain about their partners, yet never change them? Why do people complain about their lifestyle, yet never endeavor to change it? Why do people tolerate so much shit, yet never change it? Why do people fear change, which then keeps the poor life or lifestyles in place? Why do people say they want things, but never take any steps to do it?

Government:

Have the government ever done anything for our benefit? If no, why are you still voting? Have the government spent our money for the benefit of the people? Have you worked out yet that both parties are in bed with each other and both are corrupt? Why do we accept the lesser of two evils? Do you realize governments have no money, only our money? Do you realize American hasn't had a government since 1871? If so, why do you vote? You do realize voting is giving consent for them to run the for profit Corporation against us? You do realize all the voting machines are rigged, yet you still vote? You do realize the candidates we are asked to vote on, are their choices, not ours? Why does the government policies create the debt, yet never pay it back? Why did the government bond us all and sold us as slaves for the debt they created in 1933?

Military and Agencies:

Have you worked out yet that the US military is not for our benefit or there to protect Americans yet? How since WW2 has America attacked 81 countries and yet America has never been attacked? People will say what about 9/11, I will say do you still believe the official story? What are we paying $1T a year for? Why do the Rothschild's and the Vatican claim ownership of the US Military? Why didn't the American Government sue them for the return of all the people's money spent on the military, if we don't own it? Why is war a profit for the military and the bankers? Why would you send your sons and daughters into the military for lines on a piece of paper called a map? Why is it an honor to send your children into the military, to be potentially sacrificed for shekel makers and lines on a piece of paper? Why did they tell you that you will be a soul dier and yet you still signed up? Did anyone ask why you had to fight for your country, when you had never been attacked? Why do people say we have won the war, yet thousands of their own people died? Why does the military give out badges for killing people? Why do we need agency spies? what is their value for the people? Why do agencies do the worst atrocities, yet are allowed to do so without questioning or justice? Why do agencies think they are intelligent, when acting like glorified criminals and perverts, snooping into people's lives? If agencies have files on all people, who keeps the files on them?

Mental health:

How can people trust mental health experts when you don't know whether they have been trained properly? How can mental health miss a key component of the diagnosis, host possession. How is confining patients and giving them experimental drugs all day called rehabilitation? Why do we need a mental health center at all, if most operate as lunatics? Is not the planet the center?

Food:

Did they ask for our permission to put dangerous chemicals and additives in our food? Why did we not request it or challenge it? If certain foods are unhealthy, why was it approved in the first place? Why have we allowed the government carte blanche to run our food industries? Given food is an essential component of our lives, why are we not allowed to grow our own in many areas? If food is essential, why is it denied to half of the planet? How can a planet produces enough food for 3 planets, yet half of the people are starving? Why do people become vegans and say they are caring for the animals, yet eat their food? Why do people pay over the odds for the same item because it says organic? Yet never asked or challenged as to why all food is not organic? Same applies to water, denied to many on the planet. Water is not a human right said Nestle, how and why have we allowed them to claim much of our water rights then? Why is bottled water more costly than gas, beer or wine?

Banks:

You do realize they are not protecting your money don't you? You do realize banks have no money, only ours. You do realize that 90% of your money is used to make loans to us and they charge interest on it and steal our money. Why did you allow banks to charge us for collecting our money from an atm? Why are interest rates on loans higher than savings?

Medical:

Why do we trust medical people when we don't even know them? Did you check their qualifications? Did you check their background? Did you take into account 1/3 of all deaths is medical malpractice? If a doctors is called a practice, how are they experts? Why does a doctor or nurse despite 7 years training, not spend a second learning about cures? Why do people themselves not believe they are the healers?

Medicine:

For a few hundred years all medicine stated poison on the bottle, yet people still took it. In early medicine cocaine was used, why is it now illegal? When you are prescribed medicine, do you ask the doctor what is in the medicine? Do you know whether even the doctor knows what's in it? If the doctor doesn't know, why would you take it? The ultimate in lunatic asylum was the Covid situation, do you not see that yet? We were told it was experimental. We were told it was pushed out 10 years before normal approval of vaccines. We were told the manufacturers and sellers of the vaccines were immune from prosecution. Why did those facts not raise suspicions at least or red flags everywhere? But people still took it? You were told for your own safety they would use mandates for lockdowns. Did you know a mandate is not law? You were then told to lockdown based upon a non-lawful act. But people still enforced their own lockdowns. You were told to wear masks? Did you know is says on the mask box, not for use against Covid or other illnesses and not for long term use. But people still used them? You were then told you had to keep six feet apart for your own safety again. How did the virus know it only had a range of six feet? Did you get the significance of six feet? It is the depth they bury you. But people still did it? If smoking was bad for you, why did they recommend it? If smoking was bad for you, why was that category of people the least affected by Covid?

The Jones' asylum:

Does anyone know who the Jones' are that we have to keep up with? Why if someone in your circle buys an item, do we feel we have to A: buy one and B: buy a better more expensive one? Is that not competitive and comparative? Is that not trying to beat your own friends and colleagues? Why would we do that? Why do we buy a house knowing we are only a tenant? If we are only a tenant, why do we have to do maintenance on the house? For those in the Jones program, why is nothing ever enough? For those in the Jones program, how is that debt paying off working? For people who bought electric vehicles, did you factor in the cost of lost time to fill it up? Did you factor in the cost of replacing the battery into the cost between cost per mile. Did you factor in the government had put no infrastructure in to facilitate this change of energy use?

Status:

Why are pieces of paper with numbers on declared as your status in life? Why are people buying over priced goods an example of your status? Why is learning the ability to copy and repeat at school, considered a status act? To be certified. Why is the roof over your head declared a status symbol? Why is beauty a status symbol? Why do people use cosmetics that have dangerous chemicals to look better than others? Why do people have plastic surgery for cosmetic reasons to look better than others? Why do people put botox in their lips and under their eyes to look better than others? Why do people doing botox not learn they look fine without it? Why would looking like a fish be considered a beauty look? In overview, does buying material or beauty items make us feel better about ourselves? Or into better people? Why do people buy a boat and use it a couple of times a year? Ever considered that renting it would be cheaper? Why do people buy expensive cars, when all working cars get you from A-B? Why do people buy expensive phones, when all phones can dial or text? Why do people pay extortionate prices for items with a recognized name on them?

Life:

Why do people when they are young want to be like an adult, yet when they are an adult they wish to be young again? Why do people do and say the most stupidest of things, yet never realize it? Why has common sense thinking now become almost genius levels of thinking? Why do people fight each other or argue with each other for the goal of winning? What are you winning? If exercising and keeping fit worked, why are there so many people sick or dying? If music speaks to us, why don't we listen? If people are afraid of flying, why do they call it a terminal? All this fear, yet where is the love? We don't afford that too much of ourselves or to each other, do we? Why is tolerance and trust of these systems not afforded to ourselves or each other? Why is the love of authority not afforded to ourselves or each other?

You do realize all of the above doesn't work too well as a system or never worked at all for the benefit of the people who are paying for it? If you buy an item in the shop and it doesn't work, you would send it back, yet we never do that in our everyday lives? Why do you believe in people and systems, yet don't believe in yourself? Why have we not questioned what is life? What is living? What is value? What is real? What is illusion? What is time? Why are we all on borrowed time as they say? Is that saying life is all about paying back a debt? What is human and what is love? If loves conquers all, why didn't we use that in wars? Is this a lunatic asylum? certainly looks, feels and acts that way, time to change it is it not? The blueprint can do that.
