An ultimatum went out following the threats issued by the Rothschilds during the UN meeting recently, whereby if the countries of the UN did not install them as the controllers of the UN by the next meeting, they would launch germ warfare genocide on the whole populace. The Rothschild's were given until noon on Monday to once again deliver what they have been promising via funding to all governments and certain other organisations they had promised and yet again failed to deliver. At 4am Tuesday morning the consequences of actions directive was launched and the take down of anybody working for, part of or connected to the Rothschilds are now being removed along with the Rothschilds, to date 78 countries have launched raids and 5100 government officials in those countries have been fired, a further 600 is no longer with us and or arrested. Removal of all interfering Rothschilds and their family members is ongoing as we speak and will not stop until completed.

*The bloodline families are a bit pissy and have resorted to name calling to some of our foundation people for preventing their goals, suck it up you failed, you have had thousands of years to do something for the all, you chose for the self, no wonder we call it blood money or is it bloodline money?

*A 250 year old Rothschild trust based in Europe has come to light which laundered a lot of money for unscrupulous exercises, purpose was mainly used for blackmail and was a political based trust, make donations to certain politicians so they always had something on them (you have to remember it is supposed to be illegal to collect donations from outside America, largely overlooked but these people would always have that in hand) also used to make bribes, cover up crimes and also manufacture lies against certain politicians or leaders they no longer approved of, so the likes of clintons, bushes et al would use this particular trust fund to launch a negative campaign against those that didn't follow their orders, so it may be a case that some politicians and leaders have been wrongly accused of doing things, time will tell as always. As of Wednesday this trust was confiscated and so no longer available to certain clowns to play games.

*directives from on high above and on the ground have finally had their patience snapped as they now feel the cabal have gone too far, quite why it has taken this long remains a mystery to me and us all, following cabals attempts to empty out most if not all of the islands south of florida with their weather wars and create further confusion, a whole heap more deaths and whole heap more refugees, which yet again we the people in America will be asked to pay for again, well war has been declared on the cabal and their removal is underway, this is separate from the rothschilds people although it is linked due to spiders web connections of the EL-ites.

*so birds are going missing, other creatures also, frequencies varying wildly, odd pains, feeling of being dense or heavy, emotional outbursts, a feeling of elation and feeling of foreboding, prickly and or tingling skin, ears buzzing and or ringing, many people are losing, things appearing and vanishing, glitches appearing, time missing or time speeding up, feeling dizzy and like you are spinning, feels like you are floating on air, sea waters going missing in huge volumes and steadily returning, earthquake increase,

*One of the most crucial events during the early days of the cold war took place 69 years ago this week, 1948, over a 15 month period 275k flights on military planes from US to west berlin to deliver supplies of food, medicine and coal to beleaguered people in Germany, anybody else feel something wrong in that? war the people pay, reparations and supply the people pay, you can guarantee few of those flights never came back empty, this was your Paperclip exercise under the guise of helping the germans deal with Russia, yeah right - here started the 4th reich, only now are some beginning to see it, and ya still think we won WW2?

*influenza, borrowed (during an outbreak of the disease in Europe), from Italian influenza "influenza, epidemic," originally "visitation, influence (of the stars)," from Medieval Latin influentia in the astrological sense (see influence). AN Article from Rome informs us that a Sort of Plague has broke out there, which destroys Abundance of their People, and they call it the Influenza. ["The Gentleman's Magazine," April 1743] Used in Italian for diseases since at least 1504 (as in influenza di febbre scarlattina "scarlet fever") on notion of astral, occult, or atmospheric influence. The 1743 outbreak began in Italy. Often applied since mid-19c. to severe colds.

* hermetic "dealing with occult science or alchemy," from Latin hermeticus, from Greek Hermes, god of science and art (among other things), who was identified by Neoplatonists, mystics, and alchemists with the Egyptian god Thoth as Hermes Trismegistos "Thrice-Great Hermes," who supposedly invented the process of making a glass tube airtight (a process in alchemy) using a secret seal. Hence, "completely sealed" (c. 1600, implied in hermetically).

* grammar late 14c., "Latin grammar, rules of Latin," from Old French gramaire "grammar; learning," especially Latin and philology, also "(magic) incantation, spells, mumbo-jumbo, in reference to English usage by late 16c., thence "rules of a language to which speakers and writers must conform" (1580s)

* state political organization of a country, supreme civil power, government," The sense of "a semi-independent political entity under a federal authority, one of the bodies politic which together make up a federal republic" is from 1774. The British North American colonies occasionally were called states as far back as 1630s; the States has been short for "the United States of America" since 1777; also of the Netherlands.

* kil-first element in many Celtic place names, meaning "cell (of a hermit); church; burial place"

* Llanfair common in Welsh place names, from Welsh llan "church" * suburban (adj.) 1620s, from suburb + -an. Somewhat earlier were suburban, suburbial (c. 1600). Latin had suburbanus "near the city" (of Rome), and in Church Latin suburbicarian was applied to the six diocese near Rome.

* Dis a Roman underworld god, from Latin Dis

*so NFL storm over not standing for the flag or anthem, really and that is headline news? appears it dont matter many thousands have no homes, no electricity, no food and also no life, but lets all worry and focus on two things that have nothing to do with America, and everything to do with foreign agents control. The flag created on June 4th 1777, so we are a year into Independence and they create a flag with 13 stripes representing the 13 colonies owned by the Crown of England? The red, white and blue, anyone not notice it is the same colors as the British Union Jack? Regarding the Union that plays a prominent role also doesn't it, after all the civil war was between the Union and the Confederates. It was almost unheard of for individuals to fly the U.S. flag until the Civil War broke out in 1861, at which time the Stars and Stripes suddenly became a popular symbol in the North. Then they added the gold fringe to it, which is admiralty law and comes under military orders. Anyone noticed how similar Puerto Rico flag is which was adopted in 1952 just after paperclip completed, and there flag can only be flown if accompanied by Stars and Stripes, Puerto Rico is a play on words and another example of how they put it in your face, means Port of RICO Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Then we have the Star Spangled Banner which became law in 1918 following 2 other attempts at anthems, one was Yankee Doodle Dandy the other more sinister one was Hail Columbia - or not. SSB was actually a English song called "To Anacreon in Heaven" composed in 1775 that served as the theme song of the upper-crust Anacreontic Society of London and a popular pub staple.

*did you know NFL players only started to come on the field in 2009 after DOD paid them $12.3M between 2011 and 2015 to boost recruitment in the military, so whilst NFL players maybe being honorable, they took the seducements to insert themselves into the political arena, ya see money comes at a heavy cost. THINGS THAT MAKE YOU GO HMM

*physicist Dr. Michio Kaku made a shocking confession on live TV when he admitted that HAARP is responsible for the recent spate of hurricanes. In an interview aired by CBS, Dr. Kaku admitted that recent 'made-made' hurricanes have been the result of a government weather modification program in which the skies were sprayed with nano particles and storms then "activated" through the use of "lasers".

*A BBC interview this week was discussing politics and the usual drivel, when one prominent politician said live on air, what happens when they come for us?

*Interpol has admitted the Palestinian territories as a new member, despite opposition from Israel. The international policing body backed membership for "the State of Palestine" at its annual general assembly. Palestinian Foreign Minister Riyad al-Maliki declared the news a "victory", made possible by the "principled position" of most Interpol members. Israel tried to delay the vote, arguing that Palestine was not a state and therefore ineligible for membership.

*Eleven men have been arrested under anti-terror laws as part of a national investigation into neo-Nazi group National Action, police have said. The arrests include six people from north-west England, two from South Wales, one from Wiltshire, and two from West Yorkshire. National Action became the first far-right organisation to be banned in the UK last year.
